VIEWS AND REVIEWS.

Ole Bull is giving concerts in Norway, Gambetta is soon to visit England and be dined by its statesmen.

The ex-Empress Eugenie, who has been of late in Vienna, proposes buying a large estate in Austria and making that country her residence. The waters of Ems lately cured her of a cough.

The Czar is reported to be interested in the American Indian's mode of warfare. Its underlying principle is, whereve you see the bead of a thieving Government agent or treaty breaker, bit it.

The artistic sensation of Paris is an artist named Andre Gauthier, who draws large audiences to see him paint a landscape in five minutes, a portrait in six, and two pictures simultaneously, one with each hand.

The opening of the Suez Canal has proved the ruin of the overland trade, by caravan to Bagdad and the Persian Gulf. which formerly supported ancient Damascus. Many of its houses and shops are now empty, and its streets are filled with beggars, where they were formerly a rarity.

The Marquis of Lorne and the Princess Louise will travel through the United States before settling down to business in Canada. In Canada the vicereine is looked upon as of more importance than the viceroy, and she will undoubtedly be received with marked attention in this country.

In time of need the colored people of the South come to the front. In stricken Memphis the colored men have organized to relieve distress, to guard deserted houses and property, and the press dispatch reports that the negroes on the police force are among the most efficient officers on duty.

A Florida scientist named Hardee proposes to kill yellow fever by atmospheric concussion, to be produced by a succession of gunpowder explosious. He says the experiment was attended with entire success last year at Jacksonville, and instances the disappearance of the plague from places liable to it in the South during the war and in Mexico before the American troops.

The reconstruction of the Hotel de Ville in l'aris, according to the report of the architect, M. Ballu, is proceeding in a most satisfactory manner. Nearly two hundred workmen are employed upon this vast work, and every day about seventy. five cubic metres of stones are cut and tunity for ever tasting the sweets of placed. Just as he arrived a Prussian helmet, the topmost one of a lofty pyramid that had evidently for days retained its position by the frailest tenure, rolled down and along the floor to his feet. The German attendants were in consternation, and Bonaparte himself gazed at the warlike headgear for a moment in astonishment. Soon, however the expression changed to a sardonic smile He evidently saw in the helmet at his feet the augury of defeat and humiliation for the power that it represented.

Edison is in the Bonannza mines of California, confident that he has lectric apparatus that will indicate where to find bodies of ore, give their approximate extent, and make a near guess at their metallic value. Eight of the non-paying mines on the Bonanza vein have simultaneously penetrated barren rock to the depth of 2,000 feet, at which the great Bonanza is found. All these are preparing to cross cut bindly in all directions in search of Bonanzas. Edison's arrival in California is therefore deemed timely.

HAYES AND THE SMALL FRY

Secretary Gorham, of the Republican National Comittee, says that if the President has contributed a dollar in aid of the party, he (Gorham) is not aware of the fact.

And if the truth was told - the naked truth, we meen, and not the cookedup article which so often passes for the genuine thing in Washington City -it would be found, we opine, that the Republican campling funds are always contributed(!) by the small fry of the party, and that it is rarely a dollar for such purposes is ever squeezed from the prosperous pockets of either heads of bureaus, commissioners of departments or members of the Cabinet. It has been alleged by some that Mr. Hayes has contributed the magnificent sum of $100 to the cause, out of the $50,000 a year which rightfully belongs to Samuel J. Tilden pocketed. The small fry, who get their $4 a day (Sundays included) for their two hours' work, are expected to plank down $10 each, while Mr. Hayes, who gets about $130 a day (Sundays included) can put up only $100 for the common cause. But then, Mr. Secretary of the National Republican Executive Committee Gorham says that he has not yet contributed a single dol-

FOR MAYOR OF NEW YORK CITY. The Herald, Sun, World and other leading papers of New York City, are exhausting themselves in complimentary editorials to each other, in their desire to bring out an editor for the Mayoralty of Gotham. The Herald, in several paragraphs in different columns on the editorial side of the paper, was strong for Dana, of the Sun, which Dans, with a modesty not to be suspected of a disappointed politician, whose whole nature has been soured and all of its sweetness turned into lime juice by his disappointment in not getting into Grant's Cabinet, cames forward through the columns of his pisen sheet, and declines, but at the same time nominating Mr. Robert Bonner, him of the famous New York Ledger, and the owner of the great 2.16 trotter, Dexter, But whether the pisen editor of the Sun was in earnest in his declination and his nomination of the great horse and New York Ledger man, we are unable to say. We confess, however, to have inclined to a doubtful opinion as to the sincerity of the man who once held office under Abraham Lincoln and Edwin M. Staunton, as Assistant Secretary of War, and are rather inclined to think that since the defeat of Mr. Tilden's aspirations by the

The happy faces of the house-owners are to be seen nowhere. The windows are closed, the curtains down, the doors lacked, and the wonted hospitable look is changed to one of frowning churlishuess. No bright, Democratic President in the chair now laughing children, no whooping noisy boys, no nurses with cooing babies in in their arms are to be seen. All is still absolutely still. The pigeons light in dismay among the people, and forming flocks on those busy thoroughfares an excuse for so many to try new things where the rattling wheel and the sounding hoof gave forth their busy clang one week ago. The servants still remain, but they have no work to do and seem glad to join the general quiet. Occasionally a little negro within passes by, but he seems affrightened at the noise of his own stick rattling against the paling, and moves quickly along in a subdued way. At night the city is as silent as a graveyard. The saloon bummer is seldom to be met, and the bright saloon light is out early. One may walk the whole length of Main street, at midnight, and never hear a sound of life or and which Mr. Hayes has wrongfully see a single soul save the solitary policeman; who, as he stands on the corner with his vizor down, seems not to be the same cheery heart who was wont to greet so warmly the lone reporter. In fact the city upon the bluff is as silent as the ever noiseless river that sweeps between its mud-cushi oned banks below.

> For the REVIEW. The Greenback Question and Col. Waddell.

Pender Co., August 24th, 1878. MR. EDITOR:

There is evidently much restlessness in the public mind of North Carcline at this time on the absorbing questions of currency and of political parties. This arises not alone from the confusion and distraction about to be introduced into the congressional canvass by reason of the inauguration of the new Greenback-Labor party, but because when people are empoverished and distressed, as they now are by oppressive financial and tariff laws, they are prone to seize pair. upon any change or any glittering inducements that hold out a new hope and promise of relief. The history of political parties shows that when there is such dissatisfaction and excitement in the public mind the voice of the ballot box is doubtful and uncertain. In view of these facts there is the more necessity that the democracy of this Congressional District should be firm and faithful, and not be seduced from established principles of the party by the brilliant lights and alluring but deceptive promises now held out by this gorgeous new party.

These thoughts arise in my mind upon reading the admirable letter of our candidate for Congress, the Hon. A. M. Waddell, as published in the Raleigh Observer and copied in your paper of the 22d inst. I am a Greenback Democrat and I do not desire any better Greenback candidate for Congress than this talented nominea of the recent Clinton Democratic Congressional Convention. Let him reproduce his votes and public views on finance and currecy as expressed in and out of Congress for several years his coming appointments, and he may rest assured that he will meet the demands of every intelligent and fairminded Greenback Democrat in the ley with distress and terror; but this the ill-natured and unforgiving Dana district. Col. Waddell is entitled to the united and cordial support of the Democracy of this Congressional District, including the Greenback portion of the party. He was not the choice of the writer for the nomination at Clinton. From motives alone of patriotic principle, the writer joined others in fair and honorable pered to this young life that it was not efforts to confer the nomination of that awakened from sound sleep. convention upon another. This is no time to revive the memory of the ungenerous detraction and bitter persecutions entailed upon the writer and others because in exercise of independence as democrats and of inalienable rights as freemen, Col. Waddell was not our choice for triumphant re-election of our standard bearer, in this important canvass. Principle [demands, duty insists, patriotism requires, that all wounds should be healed, that our lines should be closed, and that a vigorous and successful fight should be made for Col. Waddell. He will find that those who have been most denounced for opposing his late nomination are those who, from high patriotic motives, will make the best fight for his triumph, over the combinations now Cold and twenty-five cents for Warm Baths. being made to defeat him. The success, then, of the Greenback Democrats of the West would have placed a Greenback occupied by Hayes, and the South rescued from much of that poverty and suffering now overspreading this land and causing and to enter new political associations.
