More than the roung people of both sexes made secure to drop into the tavern to at a sight at the fellow who thought could keep school in that district, gd many a contemptuous glance feli the slender form and youthful face the would-be teacher.

Harry opened his valise and took malarge belt. Then, after buckling around his waist, he put three Colt's my revolvers there, each of six barmi, and a bowie-knife eighteen indain the blade.

Swimming for Girls.

A medical publication says: The public are continually reminded of the numerous contrivances, supports, stays, shoulder-straps, etc., and the various exercises that are best calculated to prevent round shoulders, a stooping, awkward gait, contracted chests, and so fortb; but perhaps there is no kind of exercise for girls more calculated to attain those desirable objects than that of swimming. During the act of swimming the head is thrown back, the chest well forward, while the thoralic and respiratory muscles are in a strong action, and both the upper and the lower extremities are brought into full play. Indeed, in a health-point of view, females would often have an advantage over the stronger ser, as, owing to the large amount of ad:pose tissue covering their muscles, and the comparative emaliness and lightness of their bones, they not only have greater nowru'e, can continue much longer in the water. They are, therefore, naturally qualified to become good swimmers Mr. Macgregor mentions that out of a Grant's Yeast Powder, class of thirty girls, whose instruction commenced late last season, twenty five were taught to twim in six lessons, and six of them won prizes. I Mater, no doubt you have all the is to be hoped, therefore, that girls will not be debarred from 1 arning this graceful and healthful accora plishment either through lack of baths Castberry Gulch. The Chinese in San Francisco.

The Chinese quarter in San Fontcisco has been undergoing a thorough official inspection. One house had two stories below the level of the street divided into rooms about five feet by eight, centaining two to six occupants each. Lepers were found, and one of them was said to be engaged in the manufacture of cigars that were sold daily in the city. One of the most noisome of the Chinese tenements is the property of the Rev. Otis Gibson, a witness to the good qualities of the Chinese before the Congressional Committee that took testimony in San Francisco. He derives more rent from his densely packed Chinese lodging house than white tenants would pay bim. So thickly inhabited is this quarter, and to such rise is every foot of indoor space turned, that in hundre is of houses the cooking is done in the streets or on the roofs. Some kitchens are built on slender supports overhanging the sidewalks. Fireplaces are built on the window sills, with shields of old tin bending outward for chimneys. Fires were even found burning on heaps of ashes laid upon unprotected wooden floors and against wooden partitions, the sparks flying in all directions.
