The next session of the North Carolina Annual Conference of the Methodist Protestant Church will convene at Yadkin College, on Wednesday, the 13th day of November, 1878. The annual sermon will be preached on Thursday, by Rev. J. H. Gilbreath.

Petty Frauds and Swindles. Beware of Baking Powders which are put up short weights. A manufacturer who swindles, knowingly, in weight will not hesitate to sell adulterated baking powder. DOOLEY'S YEAST POWDER has a world-wide reputation for perfect purity and always being full weight. It bears every test for superior excellence.

Illness of Hon. A. M. Waddell.

We regret to learn that Col. Waddell, whom we referred to the other day as suffering somewhat from a bad cold, which had settled on his chest, was compelled to return to his home in this city day before yesterday, on account of sickness, and is still confined to his house from severe indisposition. It is thought, however, by his friends, that he will be able to resume the canvass in the early part of next week.

Target Practice at the State Fair.

We clip from the Raleigh Observer's report of the doings at the Fair on Thursday: The troops were yesterday relieved from all save necessary duties. The only event of the day was the competitive practice by the teams of five men from each Company, who shot for three prizes. The first was for the fine flag last year won by the Wilmington Light Infantry. This was borne off by the fine team of the Hornets Nest Riflemen. The second regiment seems determined to keep the colors, having won them four times. The second prize, a military rifle, was won by a private of the Albemarle Rifles, who was also so fortunate as to win the third prize, a handsome plume. The target practice was in charge of Lt. Col. John W. Cotten, of the First Regiment. Two targets were fired at, each brigade using one.

The Back of the Plague Broken.

By reference to the Meteorological Record for to-day, from the Signal Office in this city, published elsewhere in this issue, it will be seen that the cold wave with which this city was visited yesterday evening has extended far down into the South and West, embracing many places infected with that terrible scourge, the yellow fever; among them, we are pleased to see, is the sorely afflicted city of Memphis, where the thermometer this morning at 7.31 o'clock registered 40 degrees, 6 degrees lower than at this place, where we had quite a heavy frost. We can therefore reasonably hope that that city, with other places which have been so long and so heavily decimated in population by the fever, were this morning blessed with the appearance of the hoped for and only permanent annihilator of the dreaded disease—a killing frost.

Lippincott's Magazine.

Lippincott's Magazine for November is noticeable for the diversity of its contents, which include several articles of a light and entertaining character, with others that deserve attention for the information conveyed in them. The opening paper, on Long Island, or to use the Indian name by which the author calls it, "Seawanhaka, the Island of Shells," is descriptive and historical, with numerous illustrations by well-known artists, and beautifully engraved. Natural history is represented by a paper on "The Harvesting-Ants of Florida." George Kennan, author of "Tent Life in Liberia," concludes his interesting account of the "Unwritten Literature of the Caucasian Mountaineers." Henry T. Finck writes of "Music in America," and L. Lejeune gives a lively and intelligent criticism of the pictures in the Paris Exposition. "Rambling Talk about the Negro;" "Docteur Alphege," by Annie Porter, "Deserted," by Edward Bellamy; and "The After-Dinner Speech of Baroness Contalotto," with the two serials—"For Percial," and "Through Winding Ways"—offer a choice of reading in the way of fiction, while an account of "Victor Hugo at Home," and other short papers in the "Monthly Gossip," should not be overlooked.

Don't go to Raleigh without calling on Theodore Joseph. Everybody knows Theodore and everybody knows, too, what an excellent house his is in every respect.

Bread on the Waters.

The Thalian Amateurs were greeted last night with an audience good in number and excellent in appreciation. The piece presented was, as announced, "Bread on the Waters" and it was excellently well rendered, calling forth the unqualified praise of all who were present at the rendition. This was the first performance given by the Amateurs here this season and it is hoped their success on this occasion will induce them to present another entertainment at an early day.

News from the Wilmington Nurses at Memphis.

Mr. John H. Allen, of this city, has received a letter from Mr. John C. Bauman, dated at Memphis on the 15th inst., (last Tuesday) which contains some items of general interest and from which; therefore, we quote freely. It will be seen that Mr. Bauman has recovered from his attack of the fever, and now has his hands full for twelve hours out of the twenty-four; that Mr. McCollum is not dead, as was reported, but has been nursing patients outside of the city limits, and that Mr. Poppe has done excellent service as a nurse. Our extracts from the letter are as follows:

You have no doubt heard from Henry of my illness. I "had it bad." The only time I have for observation and collecting news is during the morning, from 8 to 12 o'clock. I go on duty at 12 M., and am relieved at 12 P. M. Where there is a bad case I do not go to bed until we have reduced the temperature. We (Leonard, of Mobile, and myself), saved a young fellow last night after working on him for eight hours. This morning he asked for something to eat. There were two applications left for me at the Howards yesterday, but as there are only Leonard and myself to attend to seven patients, they could not give one up. All of our patients have passed the crisis, and the majority are convalescing, and I should not be surprised if I received orders to go into the country. The fever is abating in the city proper, but there is a good deal of it in the suburbs. People who have been out of the city and at a distance, very foolishly imagine that they can approach their homes without danger; i. e., that they can settle in the neighborhood, where they can communicate and receive information from their property and people, without running the risk of contracting the fever. This is the kind of patients who are now being received into the hospitals and infirmaries and causes the demand for nurses.

The business prospects of Memphis are dead for years to come. The city, with a debt it cannot pay, many of the merchants broke and business paralyzed—the prospect is gloomy indeed.

McCollum is well. I saw him yesterday at the Howard Headquarters; he was nursing out of the city. Poppe has proved himself a good nurse, and a steady one, and has gained the good opinion of the several physicians under whom he has been nursing. He left this morning for McKenzie, a station on the Memphis & Ohio R. R.

Yours, &c.
JOHN C. BAUMAN.

The British brig Essex is the vessel which should have been reported in our marine column yesterday as clearing with 1,061 bales cotton and 172 bbls of rosin for Liverpool instead of Br. brig Janie, as reported.

The Banking House of the First National Bank, now in the old Cape Fear Bank building, is one of the handsomest in the State. The interior arrangements have all been changed, the last touch having been given to them by the erection of a neat green guard railing, of iron network, in front of the counter.

The excitement over the nomination of a candidate for the Greenback party has been so completely chilled down, either by the weather or the name of the nominee, that it will take a big political fire to get up a decent blaze between this and the 5th of November.
