No City Court to-day. See other local on fourth page.

The receipts of cotton for this port to-day were 690 bales.

The Steamer North State reports the river rising a little, with about seven feet of water on the Shoals. This is what the steamboat men call good boating water.

Some of the finest beef we ever saw is at the stall of Mr. Thos. H. Johnson. It was the milk cow of a gentleman of this city, and would take the premium at a World's Fair.

Dr. Carver's rifle at the Thomasville, Ga., Fair brought him $200 per day. His income last year amounted to $60,000.

Wouldn't mind being Doctor of a rifle oneself at that rate.

Yesterday John Gieschen stuck fire to a pile of powder to see if it would go off. He found out, but is now laid up in bed. It will be some time before he tries the experiment again.

The axles and trucks of the balance of the circus train were finally completed yesterday to fit the gauge on the W. C. & A. R. R. and the last eighteen cars, making two trains of nine cars each, left here yesterday morning for Columbia.

A Reliable Article

It is a pleasure to commend an article of a thoroughly reliable character, and we do not hesitate to do so in speaking of DOOLEY'S YEAST POWDER, which an experience of over ten years convinces us is the best and most reliable baking powder in the market.

Ladies' Stamping.

We call the attention of our lady readers to the advertisement of Mrs. Spertner. She has recently returned with new and elegant patterns, and is now better prepared to do fine work with neatness and dispatch. She is well known to many of our ladies, who will be pleased to hear of her return.

Personal.

We were pleased to meet this morning with Captain J. W. Hinson, formerly of the firm of Sprunt & Hinson, but now of Hinson & Cumming, New York, who is on a short visit to this city. Captain H. looks well and cheerful. The hard times have seemingly dealt kindly and gently with him.

Good Profits.

We are reliably informed that the gross receipts of Howe's Great London Circus was in the neighborhood of $4,000 and that their net profits of the circus during their short stay here was at least $3,000. Pretty good wages for one day's work. We will agree to work one whole year for the same amount. Who bids? don't everybody speak at once.

Abusive.

Sheriff Manning should give some of his deputies a few lessons in politeness. One of them, a colored individual, approached a gentleman this morning in a barber shop and offered him some tax notices. The gentleman accepted the services but told the deputy that the next time he had business papers to serve on him to leave them at his place of business, whereupon he was the recipient of a tirade at the hands of the said deputy.

Mothers do not let your darlings suffer with the Whooping Cough, if you have a remedy so near at hand. Use Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup, and the little sufferers will soon find relief. Price, 25 cents.

The North Carolina Conference.

The N. C. Conference of the M. E. Church commences in Charlotte on Wednesday. Rev. Dr. Burkhead has already left for Charlotte and Revs. E. A. Yates and B. R. Hall, having completed their Conference year here, will leave to-morrow morning. We trust that these gentlemen will both be returned to their charges in this city. The lay delegates from the district are Messrs Newton Gillican, of this city, and K. K. Council and W. J. Parker, of Bladen, and one other whose name we did not ascertain.

In California.

Mr. Jas. A. Bradley, of this city, who is now in California, has written a letter abounding in matters of interest to his nephew, Mr. Robert D. Jewett, from which we have been kindly permitted to make some extracts. Mr. Bradley says that he likes the climate of that country (he writes from San Francisco) very much, as well as other features about it, yet he has not been there long enough to forget home and home friends and home news, and to become indifferent to them, as so many old Californians seem to be. He says:

The hurley-burley and excitement of this city is fascinating to most people, especially to young men, hence they flock to the city from all quarters to try their fortunes, but in the sharp competition many are driven to the wall and are left to the mercy of circumstances for a bare living. The tendencies to extravagance dissipation and speculation beset you on every side and I imagine but few are able to resist them.

One of the peculiarities of this city is the mixture of its population. There are about 10,000 Irish voters in the city, about 5,000 Germans, 3,000 English, 700 French, 400 Scotch, and so on, from all parts of the world. The foreign voters outnumber the native born, there being 21,000 of the former and 16,000 of the latter. The North greatly outnumber the South, those born at the North numbering 14,500, and those born at the South 2,300. Then there are 250 Austrians, 133 Australians, 830 Canadians, 267 Danes, 217 Italians, 172 Norwegians, 6 New Zealanders, 51 Portuguese, 184 Russians, 303 Swedes, 186 Swiss, besides men from Greece, India, Isle of Man, Mexico, Malta, Society and Sandwich Islands, St. Helena, Turkey, Van Dieman's Land, Wales and the West Indies. How will that do for a cosmopolitan population? The whole number of registered voters, native and foreign-born, is set down at 37,915 names.

As a class, the Jews, who are quite numerous, are perhaps the most wealthy although several of the most conspicuous millionaires in the city are Irishmen. The Germans here, as everywhere, are industrious and economical and have also accumulated much wealth, but it is more uniformly distributed than among the Irish. Out of the 2,300 Southern voters, nearly one-fourth of the whole.

By far the largest part of this city is built of wood, and most of the wooden buildings are three or four stories high, with high and heavily ornamented cornices, and almost every window in the house is a bow-window. And yet, with all this mass of wood-work, painted, and thoroughly dried by high winds and months of hot sun, with out the slightest rain, they seldom have a large fire here. They have a pretty good supply of water and an excellent fire department but I think one of the chief reasons why fires are so easily controlled is the peculiar character of the "red-wood" with which most of the houses are built; being soft and readily absorbing water it burns slowly and even when in a blaze is easily put out by a little wetting.

The streets of the city are generally almost the width of ours but varying in different parts from 50 to 100 feet. Stone for sidewalks is very extensive here. After you get beyond the strictly business part of the city not only the sidewalk but the street itself is planked, and although it does not rot from moisture, as it does in Wilmington, yet it is constantly wearing out from constant travel and is almost continually being renewed. Many of the sidewalks on the business streets are made by first putting down bricks, or bats, edgewise together, and then covering the entire surface with a composition of asphaltum or pebbles. This makes a smooth and fine surface which lasts pretty well but requires frequent repaving.

Mr. Bradley, at the close of his letter, speaks of specimens of wood bark and cones which he had forwarded here. He procured them himself last summer while on a visit to the Big Trees. The specimens were from what is known as the "Dead Giant," a part of the trunk of which is still standing and through which the whole train, in wagons and on horseback, passed by one arched opening which had been recently made for the purpose of letting people ride through. This tree, the "Dead Giant," is supposed to have been upwards of 400 feet high. Just think of it, readers of the Review. And yet we have read somewhere that one of this forest of trees was 450 feet high—nearly four times as high as Bald Head Lighthouse and more than twice the height of the steeple of the First Baptist Church in this city.

Farmers Attention.

Our farmers hereabouts will please make a note of this:

Mr. W. R. Faircloth, with one mule made this year 142 bushels of corn, eight bales of cotton, 108 gallons of syrup, and a good quantity of other products, in Southwest Georgia.

All we have to say is this, that man will never die of starvation for lack of energy to make something to eat.

Scarce.

To-day is blue Monday, news is scarce and locals especially. But we have the consolation of knowing that next Monday will be an exception to the general rule. For on that day the December term of the Superior and Criminal Courts for this county both meet and we expect to have a paragraph or so of right fresh news prepared from interesting facts, pure and simple, but interesting though for "a" that."

Highway Robbery.

Early yesterday morning, between the hours of twelve and one o'clock, Mr. J. W. Costin was waylaid and robbed. He was on his way to Masonboro sound, after having sold out his load of fish, when he was stopped at a point on the turnpike about three miles from this city, just back of the old "Downey Place." Three black men were his assailants and robbers. One of them seized the bridle, another pointed a pistol at his head, and the third pulled him off his horse and rifled his pockets of thirty-six dollars. Being unarmed, he could but submit to the robbery without resistance.

After his money was taken from him the men left heading in the direction of city and Mr. Costin proceeded on his journey. About three years ago a Mr. Harper was assaulted in a like manner but a short distance from the place on which Mr. Costin was robbed. He says the men crept out from the bushes of the creek on him unaware. Persons traveling on the roads at night should go well armed and if possible go in company with others for the "woods are full" of persons who would rob if they but had the pluck.

School Teachers, Attention.

Mr. R. B. Creecy, editor of the Elizabeth City Economist, is preparing a Child's History of North Carolina.—Index Appeal.

We congratulate the Southern school teachers on the above fact. We suppose, of course, that Mr. Creecy will extend his history down to the present time, so that the children of the present generation in North Carolina will not hereafter be compelled to read from Yankee books, the one sided and false history of North Carolina during the late war, but can learn from a reliable and responsible source that their fathers and grandfathers, instead of being traitors and rebels were the purest patriots and were fighting to uphold the very constitution and laws adopted by our forefathers of the revolution and which the Wendell Philippses, Lloyd Garrison, Abraham Lincoln and John Browns, aided by other fanatics and rebels, against the laws and the constitution were attempting to overthrow.

Again we congratulate the Southern school teachers and Southern parents, as well in this State, that their pupils and children may now learn the truth of history without prejudice to our State and people.

Mr. Creecy is one of the most graceful writers in the State and if he succeeds but half as well in writing his history as he does in his editorial writings the book will be a success.

A Card.

To all who are suffering from the errors and indiscretions of youth, nervous weakness, early decay, loss of manhood, &c., I will send a recipe that will cure you, FREE OF CHARGE. This great remedy was discovered by a missionary in South America. Send a self-addressed envelope to the REV. JOSEPH T. INMAN, Station D, Bible House, New York City. d & w
