LOCAL NEWS.

New Advertisements. O. G. PARSLEY, Jr., Agent—Wood.

Short jackets are worn as outside garments. The grad later stripe ribbons are very striking.

Brocatel and satin stripes are among silk novelties. Pearls bid fair to be more fashionable than diamonds.

The new color in undyed cloth is a natural stone color, or yellow gray. Highland suits are out of fashion for boys.

American bourettes cost less than those which are imported, but do not wear so well. Fruits of lusterless black cloth with buttons of polished black horn are shown for mourning.

Fracks of French nainsook, made with a yoke and trimmed with embroidery, are shown for little girls. Basques are to continue in vogue—a pleasing bit of intelligence for those who have last year's garments on hand.

Fancy runs riot in caps, which are made of handkerchiefs, pieces of India shawls and all sorts of materials, trimmed with ribbons of every color and description.

The wearing of elbow sleeves with outdoor costumes of ceremony is very fashionable of late, but with them are always worn long twelve-button kids to match.

Heavy camel's hair cloth, with much hair or fleece cropping out on the surface, is much used for composite costumes with American suits. Such costumes are short.

The latest fancy in stockings is for white polka dots in silk embroidery on black silk feet and legs, while the toes heels and the upper half of the leg of the stockings are white.

Importance of a Clean Skin. Most of our invalids are such, and millions of our healthy people will become invalids, for the want of paying the most ordinary attention to the requirements of the skin.

There was a little fracas this morning on Market street, near Second, which caused quite a stir. A loyal citizen of the colored persuasion, while under the influence of benzine, assumed to curse and abuse a gentleman who was at the time quietly attending to his own business.

Quite a commotion was created on Market street this morning by the arrest of a New York drummer, who was offering plated jewelry and silverware for sale without a license.

Murder Most Foul.

The Pender County Homicide—Murder Will Out at Last—The Guilty Parties in Jail.

A special correspondent of the REVIEW at Long Creek sends us the following particulars relative to the recently discovered murder in Pender county of the colored man, Reuben Herring, and of the arrest and committal of his wife and Allen Matthews, to await trial at the next term of Pender Superior Court.

During the latter part of September last Reuben Herring, an estimable colored man, living in Columbia township, in this county, suddenly disappeared. From his steady habits and the routine of business he had on hand, his neighbors thought strange of his sudden departure, leaving as he did, his wife and five small children to whom he seemed devoted.

His wife said he had gone to Baden. Time passed, and yet nothing was heard from Reuben, either by his relatives in the neighborhood or his immediate family. From the intimacy, current in the neighborhood, existing between Reuben's wife and one Allen Matthews, as well as from the terrible character of Allen, it was thought that Reuben might have been foully dealt with.

Reuben was very steady and regular in his habits, as it was noticed and remarked by all his neighbors that Reuben was never seen from his home, save on Sunday, without his working axe with him; if he went to a neighboring store to trade, he took it with him. But since his departure his axe had been seen at his house, and his wife cut up his "sunday coat" to make a quilt of. His "good pair" of shoes were at home, and his "best breeches" were seen in his house. He had defrauded nobody to cause his departure, but on the contrary money was due him from this year's crop of turpentine.

All this increased the suspicion entertained against Reuben's wife and Allen; finally a letter came from Bladen county directed to Reuben's wife, and purporting to have Reuben's name signed to it expressing deep concern for his wife and the loved ones he had left behind. It directed his wife to sell his turpentine and pay his debts, and if this was not sufficient to sell his favorite "axe." The Postmaster at Moore's Creek by mistake gave the letter to another woman of the same name, who made the disclosure. The letter further stated that he (Reuben) was making money but was on his way to South Carolina, and would not return until about Christmas. It was ascertained that Allen visited Bladen, passed off as Reuben Herring and procured the letter to be written.

All this appeared very thin, and only served to increase the belief that Reuben had been destroyed. A warrant was procured from Justice McIntire for the arrest of Lucy, Reuben's wife, and Allen Matthews. Upon the investigation, Lucy declared that Allen told her where he had "hid" Reuben. Search was made and the dead body of the unfortunate colored man was found concealed in an old well, about forty yards from Allen's house. She further disclosed that on a Sunday morning in the latter part of September last, she left her house for Allen's, distance about a mile, and while talking with Allen on his piazza Reuben approached; some words ensued when Allen pounded Reuben with the breach of his gun, which was so successfully warded off by Reuben that Allen procured his ax and belted Reuben to the ground, and continued to strike him on the head while yet prostrate, and "till he finished him." Coroner James was at once notified, and upon the inquest the jury found that Reuben Herring came to his death at the hands of Allen Matthews.

Both parties were committed to prison and though it may be that Lucy may escape by turning State's evidence yet without doubt she is as guilty as Allen who will doubtless hang for so atrocious a crime. Allen says he helped kill her husband, and from her desperate nature she, too, should receive the penalty of law.

Too much praise cannot be ascribed to the colored people, in this matter, who live in that vicinity. They worked up the case from the beginning, and showed a spirit to vindicate the law that was rarely note-worthy. Assisted by the zealous officers of the law in the community, who are all white men, they were ceaseless in their exertions to unravel the mystery, and will not rest content nor satisfied till the full penalty of the law is meted out to these unfortunate and terrible murderers.

Ran Away. A horse belonging to Mr. Jno. J. Fowler, the Assistant City Clerk, ran away this afternoon and demolished the buggy to which it was attached. The animal, which is a young horse, was soon stopped and the buggy and harness were turned over to Gerhardt & Co, for repairs.

A Reliable Wine. Mr. A. Speer, of New Jersey, whose Port Grape Wine has such a wide reputation, and which physicians prescribe so generally, was the first in this country to introduce the art of making wine from the Oporto Grape, which is now the best wine to be had, and has become a great favorite among the most fashionable in New York and Philadelphia. For sale by Green & Flanner.

How to Cook a Husband.

The first thing to do is to catch him. Having done so, the mode of cooking him, so as to make a good dish, is as follows, according to an exchange:

Many good husbands are spoiled in cooking. Some women keep them constantly in hot water, while others freeze them by conjugal coldness; some smother them in hatred and contention, and still others keep them in a pickle all their lives. These women always serve them up with tongue sauce. Now, it cannot be supposed that husbands will be tender and good if treated in this way; but they are on the contrary very delicious when managed as follows: Get a large jar, called the jar of carelessness (which all good wives have on hand), place your husband in it, and place him near the fire of conjugal love; let the fire be pretty hot, especially let it be clear, above all let the heat be constant; cover him over with affection and submission; garnish him with the spice of pleantry, and if you add kisses and other confections, let them be accompanied with a sufficient portion of secrecy, mixed with prudence and moderation.

Few are aware of the importance of checking a cough or common cold in its first stage. That which in the beginning would yield as a mild remedy, if neglected, soon preys upon the Lungs. Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup affords instant relief. Price, 25 cents.

A Card. To all who are suffering from the errors and indiscretions of youth, nervous weakness, early decay, loss of manhood, &c., I will send a recipe that will cure you. FREE OF CHARGE. This great remedy was discovered by a missionary in South America. Send a self-addressed envelope to the REV. JOSEPH T. INMAN, Station D, Bible House, New York City.
