VIEWS AND REVIEWS.

The following is an advertisement in a Richmond newspaper:

A CARD.—As my former husband, Wm. J. Scanlon, has been circulating reports that I am dead, I take this method of pronouncing the report false, and to let my friends know that I am well and hearty.

HELEN SCANLON.

Fanny Davenport gives this description of Irving, the London actor: "He is like an ugly caricature of Booth, with little bits of twinkling eyes, dark skin, and one leg so much shorter than the other that he walks with a decided halt. I almost dreaded to see him as Hamlet, but, do you know, his acting was so wonderful that no one could think of his looks."

The volcano of Santa Ana, in San Salvador, has been for some time in a state of eruption, and the clouds of fire dust and ashes which issue from it are the same as those of Izalco, which gives rise to the supposition that the two are connected. The dust is a very fine calcined powder, found to possess peculiar medical properties, particularly in the cure of wounds.

Literary tasks are appalling to some folks, as several attempted suicides within a few weeks illustrate. A school girl in Palestine, Ill., tried to drown herself because she had been ordered to write a composition. A politician in Lansing, Mich., became exceedingly nervous before sitting down to write a speech, and before the work was done he was insane. He stabbed himself with a paper cutter that he had been using. A Baltimore medical student, depressed by the prospect of preparing a thesis, swallowed laudanum.

The Duke of Buckingham, in the reign of James I., had so many windows to his dwelling that it was known in London as the Glass House. Numerous Scotchmen came to London with the King, who were obnoxious to the Duke, and he organized parties to break their windows. Some Scotchmen, in return, broke his windows, and the King remarked to the Duke: "Steenie, those who live in glass houses should be careful how they throw stones," and thus arose the well known proverb

California is experiencing the coldest weather known in that State since 1850. The temperature during the winter has most frequently ranged between 40° and 50° Fahrenheit. This winter it has fallen to 50°, and in some places even lower. To the residents on the Pacific coast this is much more trying than it would be in the East. In San Diego, where bananas and oranges grow, the thermometer has fallen to 22°. There are fears that the trees will be injured and that the next crops may be materially affected.

Fanny Louise Buckingham played Mazzeppa in a Philadelphia theatre last week. A deputy sheriff went behind the scenes to levy on her wardrobe, but there was so little of it that he also attached the "fiery, untamed steed," used in the play. Mazzeppa begged him to permit her to ride the horse once more over the steppes of Tartary, so that the audience might not be disappointed. He consented, and was conducted to a private box to wait. The curtain was raised, but no horse was there. At the same instant he heard the clatter of hoofs in the passage back of the box. He ran out, and was just in time to see the steed, with a groom on its back, dashing down the street.

The November number of the official Central Journal for the Educational Administration in Prussia publishes the usual report on the educational status of the recruits selected in Prussia during the year 1877-8 for the army and marine services. According to this, the province of Posen has the unfavorable distinction of furnishing the highest proportion of uneducated recruits. Of its 5,971 recruits, 669, or 11 per cent, were uneducated. In the two provinces of East and West Prussia, 929 out of 11,864, or 7 per cent, were in the same category; while in Silesia there were 313 out of 14,084, or 2 per cent. The percentage diminishes notably in Pomerania, 0.943; Westphalia, 0.325; Hanover, 0.424; Baden-Burg, 0.411; Schleswig-Holstein, 0.507; the Rhine Province, 0.315; Saxony, 0.293; Hesse-Nassau, 0.173. Among the old provinces of the kingdom, Saxony continues to hold the foremost place in the general diffusion of education among its people. Of its 7,167 recruits only 21 were classed as "without education."

AN ELOQUENT EXTRACT.
The following beautiful extract is from a speech made by Senator Merrimon on Dec. 17th, 1878, during the consideration of Blaine's resolution:

We have a great republic, founded upon the great doctrines of rational liberty, freedom of conscience, freedom of thought and expression, and the right of the people to rule themselves. We have a government of public sentiment as contradistinguished from a government of force—a government that rests upon the virtue, intelligence, patriotism, and unity of the people. These are the essential elements of its life; without them, it cannot live. To the end that our country may have the fullest measure of national blessing, we want and must have peace, harmony of sections, mutual respect and forbearance, reconciliation one section with another. Sectional jealousies and feuds must be broken down and exterminated, misrepresentation and detraction must cease, and love of country must be greater than love of party. The peace and good order of society ought always to be above all party considerations.

EDMUNDS AND THE NEW YEAR.

Does the Senator from Vermont think there are none so blind in this broad land of ours as not to see what his resolution of the 7th inst. meant? Of all times in the world, when he wanted to show the venom of his bitter partisanship, and at the same time his hypocrisy, he might, while pretending to be sincere, have chosen some other time, and have substituted some other words than those which on the face bear such violent resemblance. If he thought from his well-known character at the North he could deceive people, he certainly must have given those very people a greater reputation for credulity than he possesses at the South. The idea of a man, and a Senator at that, in his high, dignified place from his seat in the very highest department of the legislation of the whole country, attempting, while pretending to benefit the country reading a resolution intending it to be made a law, and which he knows and for which he intended it to be purely partisan in its character. The idea of a man of Judge Edmunds' ability and knowledge as much law as he is supposed to know trying to make a supplementary law, to what he very well knows, if he is possessed of the legal knowledge that he is given credit for. To be brief, it is very apparent that Judge Edmunds is only pretending "to cement more perfectly the good will and harmony now existing all over the country" and under the cover of words or phraseology he has endeavored to cover up his design. But for a man of this Senator's intelligence he certainly must have allowed a very little indeed for those whom he knew would read his resolutions. We never shall forget the position which Senator Edmunds assumed in regard to the Electoral Commission. How honest he was to all appearances, just about that time, and now he is assuming almost the same role and how a man can expect anyone to have faith in the sincerity of his motives while they recollect his conduct on the occasion above referred to surpasses our comprehension. There is no doubt about it, and it is very clear in our mind that Mr. Edmunds did not deceive anyone in the South, but only tried to make it appear plausible to the right-minded and conservative citizens of the North.

We repeat, what we said above, of all times in the world, and of all occasions, we think that at the commencement of a new year, when everybody is exchanging happy greetings, with the best wishes for the prosperity of his neighbor, Mr. Edmunds might have showed a little more consideration for his fellow-man, and if he thought what he said, he might at least have kept it back for a short time; but then, still, we don't know why we should affect any surprise at anything the Senator from Vermont does, for when we take in consideration the intensely bitter course of his conduct during his Senatorial career, we are surprised at ourself, when we expect anything better of such a miserable Radical, and we send him back in plain words the same happy New Year's greeting he means for us, with just as much prosperity and just as much happiness as General Tecumseh Sherman left in his trace on his march down to the sea.

THE GOVERNOR'S MESSAGE.

Yesterday at 12 o'clock the Governor's Message was read in the Legislature. It is an able review of the condition of affairs as at present and the wants of our people, although there are some points of paramount interest at this time on which it does not touch. Our Governor is a very politic man, as we all know, and yet there are some matters about which he did not speak and on which we would have been glad to have his opinion. It is, on the whole, however, a very able State paper and will be read with interest.

Mrs. Doveturtle's Diary.

January 2—What charming people the Coobiddys are! I do hope that we shall meet them again at the Toody's ball.

February 1—Those dear Coobiddys have been to dinner. What a delightful woman she is, and what a well-informed man he is, and how charming are the girls! So unaffected—so nice!

March 3—We have been to the Coobiddys'. What a luck of a house it is, and how sad to think their lease is up!

April 1—The house next door to us is to let, and the Coobiddys have taken it. How delightful to have such nice neighbors!

May 1—The Coobiddys have dined with us twelve times during the last month, and we have dined with them thirteen times. We owe them a dinner.

June 30—Mr. Doveturtle says that our Henry is almost to young to marry dear Rose Coobiddy, and that dear Fred Coobiddy ought to be a year or two older before he marries our Marion; but I cannot say that I agree with him.

July 31—Thank goodness! at last Mr. Doveturtle has given his consent, and the day has been fixed for both marriages.

August 31—What a delightful month we have spent with the dear Coobiddys at Newport! What a pity the holiday is over!

September 1—Mr. Doveturtle's temper is very uncertain sometimes. Supposing he did invest in those wretched shares on Mr. Coobiddy's advice he need not be rude to our friends and neighbor.

October 10—If what Mrs. Toody says is correct, Mrs. Coobiddy is a false hollow-hearted woman.

November 5—Our Henry and Marion have returned all the rubbishing presents. If the Coobiddys had any sense of honor they would see that their children did the same, and not stick to all that was of any value.

Christmas Day—Somehow, I always thought there was something wrong with the Coobiddys, and now they are sold out at auction.

London cor. Phila. Bulletin.

A Naughty Prince.

His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales does well to attend the debates. His presence in either of the houses is edifying, which is much more than could have been said of his presence the other night in a box of a fashionable West End theatre. His companions on the occasion were too well known ladies of fashion, whose portraits are to be seen in the shop windows all over London. He was in a festive mood, and so it would appear, was one of the beauties. At any rate he was seen with his complaisant arm around her symmetrical waist. Perhaps this sort of thing is one of the habits and customs of the court; I don't know. I only know, on the testimony of two gentlemen connected with the theatre in question, that some such scene as that which I have roughly described took place.

A Card.

To all who are suffering from the errors and indiscretions of youth, nervous weakness, early decay, loss of manhood, &c., I will send a recipe that will cure you, FREE OF CHARGE. This great remedy was discovered by a missionary in South America. Send a self-addressed envelope to the Rev. JOSEPH T. INMAN, Station D, Bible House, New York City.

BOILED DOWN.

Jerusalem is adding fifteen hundred to its Jewish population every year.

California has a profitable and growing cheese trade with China, Australia, and South America.

There are great complaints of poverty in Liverpool, but the Poor law returns do not show exceptional distress as compared with former years.

Temperance societies have lately been formed at Hanover and Göttingen with a view of reducing the consumption of beer to moderate proportions.

An official return shows that the number of condemnations for crimes in Prussia was, in 1873, 11,692; in 1874, 12,844; in 1875, 12,126; in 1876, 13,197, and in 1877, 14,849.

Diphtheria has for two years raged in some districts of Hungary. In one town 2,135 persons out of 20,000 have lately been attacked, and 927 have died. The malady also prevails in Vienna.

Cora Tappan Richmond, the spiritualist, has introduced in her Boston lectures the novel feature of impromptu poetry. She invites the audience to suggest topics, on each of which she makes a verse.

Among the attractions offered for a charity entertainment in a Virginia City (Nev.) variety theatre were a boxing match between ballet girls, a pie eating contest by newsmen, and an attempt by a dog to kill twenty-four cats.

The Egyptian correspondent of the London Standard reports a retrenchment in the Khedive's harem. Some twenty or thirty women have been sent off lately. Ladies thus discarded receive a dol of from $300 to $5,000, and with this can find husbands, especially among Government clerks.

Our Tenure of Life.

Depends in a great measure upon our regard for or neglect of the laws of health. If we violate them we cannot expect to "make old bones." But that the span of existence allotted to a naturally delicate constitution, or one which has been shaken by disease may be materially lengthened, is a fact of which we have daily proof. The vivifying and restorative influence of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters upon a failing physique affords a striking illustration of the power of judicious medication to strengthen the hold on life. Restored digestion, complete assimilation, renewed appetite, sound repose, these are the benefits conferred upon the debilitated by that supreme renovant. With a circulation enriched, a frame invigorated, and a nervous system tranquilized, the invalid, after a course of the Bitters, feels that his life-tenure is longer, the prospect of the future that it was—that he may yet enjoy a "green old age."

THE SUN FOR 1879.

THE SUN will be printed every day during the year to come. Its purpose and method will be the same as in the past. To present all the news in a readable shape, and to tell the truth though the heavens fall.

The SUN has been, is, and will continue to be independent of everybody and everything but the truth and its own conscientious duty. That is the only policy which a honest newspaper need have. That is the policy which has won for this newspaper the confidence and friendship of a wider constituency than was ever enjoyed by any other American Journal.

The SUN is the newspaper for the people. It is not for the rich man against the poor man, or for the poor man against the rich man, but it seeks to do equal justice to all interests in the community. It is not the organ of any person, class, sect or party. There need be no mystery about its loves and hates. It is for the honest man against the rogues of every time. It is for the honest Democrat against the dishonest Republican, and for the honest Republican as against the dishonest Democrat. It does not take its cue from the utterances of any politician or political organization. It gives its support unreservedly to the movements of the people, and with the Constitution and its principles upon which this Republic was founded for the people. Whenever the Constitution and constitutional principles are violated—as in the outrageous conspiracy of 1876, by which a man not elected was placed in the Presidential office, where he remains—itspeaks out for the right. That is the SUN's policy of independence. In this respect there will be no change in its programme for 1879.

The SUN has fairly earned the hearty hatred of rascals, frauds, and humbugs of all sorts and sizes. It hopes to deserve that hatred not less in the year 1879, than in 1878, 1877, or any year gone by. The SUN will continue to shine on the wicked with unmitigated brightness.

While the lessons of the past should be constantly kept before the people, THE SUN does not propose to make itself in 1879 a magazine of ancient history. It is printed for the men and women of to-day, whose concern is chiefly with the affairs of to-day. It has both the disposition and the ability to afford its readers the promptest, fullest, and most accurate intelligence of whatever in the wide world is worth attention. To this end the resources belonging to well-established prosperity will be liberally employed.

The present disjunct condition of parties in this country, and the uncertainty of the future, lend an extraordinary significance to the events of the coming year. The discussions of the press, the debates and acts of Congress, and the movements of our leaders in every section of the Republic will have a direct bearing on the Presidential election of 1880—an event which must be regarded with the most anxious interest by every patriotic American whatever his political ideas or allegiances. To these elements of interest may be added the probabilities that the Democrats will control both houses of Congress, the increasing feebleness of the fraudulent Administration, and the spread and strengthening everywhere of a healthy abhorrence of fraud in any form. To present with accuracy and clearness the exact situation in each of its varying phases, and to expound, according to its well-known methods, the principles which should guide us through the labyrinth, will be an important part of THE SUN's work for 1879.

We have the means of making THE SUN, as a political, literary and general newspaper, more entertaining and more useful than ever before; and we mean to apply them freely.

Our rates of subscription remain unchanged. For THE DAILY SUN, a four page sheet of twenty-eight columns, the price by mail, postage paid, is 55 cents a month, or $5.50 a year; or, including the Sunday paper, an eight page sheet of fifty-six columns, the price is 65 cents a month, or $7.70 a year, postage paid.

The price of THE WEEKLY SUN, eight pages, fifty-six columns, is $1 a year, postage paid. For clubs of ten cents a month, $10 we will send an extra copy free.

A GOOD PLAN!

Anybody can learn to make money rapidly operating in Stocks, by the "Two Unerring Rules for Success," in Messrs Lawrence & Co.'s new circular. The combination method, which this firm has made so successful, enables people with large or small means to reap all the benefits of largest capital and best skill. Thousands of orders in various sums are pooled into one vast amount and co-operated as a mighty whole, thus securing to each shareholder all the advantages of the largest operation. Immense profits are divided monthly. Any amount from $5 to $5,000 or more, can be used successfully. N. Y. Baptist Society, September 20th, 1878, says, "By the combination system $15 would make $75, or 5 per cent; $50 make $500, or 10 per cent; $100 make $1,000, or 10 per cent. In the stock, during the month, according to the market, Frank Leslie's illustrated newspaper, June 7th: 'The combination method of operating stocks is the most successful ever adopted.' New York Independent Sept. 12th: 'The combination system is founded upon correct business principles, and no person need be without an income while it is kept working by Messrs Lawrence & Co., Brooklyn Journal, April 29th: 'Our editor made a net profit of $101.25 from $20 in one of Messrs Lawrence & Co.'s combinations.' New circular (mailed free) explains everything. Stocks and bonds wanted. Government bonds supplied. Lawrence & Co., Bankers, 57 Exchange Place, N. Y. nov 20-1t

Lost.

ONE SIDE, or rather, one half of a Gold Locket, containing the likeness of a young Lady. The finder will be satisfactorily rewarded by leaving the same at this office.
