The fog was thick and fierce last night. The Board of Aldermen meet this evening.

They had two inches of snow at Fayetteville on Sunday.

When a cobbler beats his wife, he desist with shoemaker's whacks.

There are three good aids to the devil in this life—poverty, politics and the tooth-ache.

Let every youth be taught some useful art and be trained up to industry and thrift.

A book is a man's best friend, and the only one he can shut up without giving offense.

If a lady should knit a black scarf for her young man, would it be crow-shade?

The active manufacturer of dentist's tools is the only man who can do tooth things at once.

Let us all hope that it will be fair to-morrow afternoon for the benefit of our Python friends.

Some one predicted that fair weather would visit us by noon to-day, but we have not seen it yet.

Immense trains of freight are now being hauled daily over all the lines of railroad radiating from this city.

A heavy shower, accompanied by thunder and lightning—the first of the season—paid us an early visit this morning and remained with us for a number of hours.

This weather is excellent for navigation. There is plenty of water for that purpose in the Cape Fear and on the sidewalk near the railroad office on the West side of Front street.

The deaf mute services will take place at St. Paul's this evening. The occasion will prove a very interesting one and, if the weather permits, the congregation will probably be very large.

We were glad to meet our good friend Mr. Muse, Local Editor of the Star, again on duty yesterday. His eyes are much better but he will not venture on night work yet awhile. Capt. Orr continuing to fill that part of the bill.

For toothache, take equal parts of camphor, sulphuric ether, ammonia, laudanum, tincture of cayenne, and one-eighth part of oil cloves. Mix well together. Saturate with the liquid a small piece of cotton and apply to the cavity of the diseased tooth, and it is said the pain will cease immediately.

There was no City Court this morning in consequence of Mayor Fishblade being too unwell to attend.

One individual, for being drunk and disorderly was recognized to appear to-morrow morning and Mike Peden, a notorious little colored rascal, arrested for disorderly conduct at the Opera House night before last, is still held for the Mayor's action to-morrow morning.

The Best and Most Economical.
Housekeepers are giving the cheap, adulterated baking powder a "wide berth," and why? Because experience has taught them that an absolutely pure, full strength, full weight article, such as DOOLEY'S YEAST POWDER, which never fails to produce light, wholesome and nutritious biscuits, rolls, muffins, waffles, and griddle cakes of all kinds, is by far the cheapest and most economical.

Only an Item.
About five feet of the cornice work in the City Treasurer's office, at the City Hall, parted company with the balance of the ceiling this morning and fell to the floor with a loud crash, cracking and splitting the wooden cornice over the door of the vault but otherwise doing no damage, except to startle some of the officials, who possibly thought that the Janitor, worn-out with trying to renovate the pipe and register underneath the Treasurer's office, had at last resorted to gun-powder or dynamite and was about to blow the "ternation" thing up.

The Vacant Secretaryship.

The position of Secretary of State, made vacant by the death of the lamented Maj. Engelhard, has been tendered to Hon. John Manning, of Otham county, who has not as yet signified his acceptance of the same. Mr. Manning is one of the most honored citizens of the State and if he should accept the position will fill it faithfully and acceptably.

County Commissioners.

The following additional items of the proceedings of the Board of County Commissioners, at their meeting yesterday afternoon are from the transactions of the Board after our report was necessarily closed:

Wm. Jones was appointed overseer of the public road in Cape Fear township, beginning at Derget Branch and running to Stergeon Creek, vice J. E. St. George, resigned.

Henry Schriver was appointed to fill the vacancy occasioned by the death of Edward Schriver, late Constable of Cape Fear township.

The following was adopted:
Resolved, That it is the opinion of this Board that the Criminal Court of this county is a necessity and ought not to be abolished.

Criminal Court.

This tribunal has been engaged during the whole day in the trial of the State against Sarah Allen and Virginia A. White, colored, for the alleged murder of a little colored girl named Julia Ann Williams, in this city on the eighth day of this month. The court convened at 10 o'clock this morning, and the jury were not impaneled until half past twelve, the whole of the special venire of ninety men, ordered by the Court, being exhausted, with the exception of two or three, before the jury was completed.

Captain W. S. Norment and Messrs. F. H. Darby and Thos. W. Strange have been appointed by the Court to conduct the defense. From present indications the trial will not be concluded before to-morrow night. The jury is composed of seven white and five colored men. The most of the witnesses in the case, both for and against the prisoners, we believe, are colored persons.

More Incendiarism.

Between the hours of 12 and 1 o'clock this morning, the residence of Mr. John Northrop, on Third, between Nua and Church streets, was discovered by a member of the family to be on fire. The alarm was immediately given, and by the united efforts of the neighbors, who were promptly on hand, the flames were partially subdued. The Cape Fear Engine Company came quickly to the scene, and the fire was soon completely extinguished.

Subsequent examination showed that a would-be incendiary had crept under the rear piazza and built the fire directly beneath the weather-boarding of the kitchen which adjoins the main dwelling. But for the timely discovery, the building would have undoubtedly been consumed, as the flames then were extending upwards between the ceiling. The damage however, is very slight and is fully covered by insurance.

The fact that it is only about two months since Mr. Northrop was burnt out may furnish a clue to the perpetrators of the deed.

Telephonic Exchange.

We learn that a movement is on foot among our merchants and business men to establish a Telephonic Exchange in this city for the more speedy and economical transaction of business. The idea, as we understand it, is to have a central office, connected with the offices of those who shall avail themselves of its benefits, to be so arranged that when a call is made from any given point to any other this central office is notified and the lines connected so that the desired communication may be made. To illustrate: A railroad official wishes to communicate with the cotton factory; the central office or "Exchange" is notified, the lines connected and the conversation between the two is conducted as privately and comprehensively as if representatives from the two companies were together. This, if accomplished, will be of great benefit to our business men in many respects, and we are glad to learn that, although the subject was first mooted within the last twenty-four hours, quite a number have given encouragement to the scheme by subscribing for stock. We hope, and we have no doubt, it will be a success.

Col. McRae's Lecture.

The intelligent and appreciative audience which assembled at the Opera House last night to listen to the brilliant effusions, the fine elocution, and the splendid oratorical effort of Col. Duncan K. McRae, in his humorous and at the same time sublime lecture upon the subject of laughter, enjoyed a rare intellectual treat, one that it is not often the privilege of a Wilmington audience to enjoy.

We are free to confess that we have not the ability to write a criticism or even to notice in the way that it deserves this really magnificent effort of the gifted gentleman's discourse last night. We wish that it were in our power to portray to our readers a little of the pleasure experienced and manifested by the eloquent lecturer's delighted audience. To have enjoyed and appreciated it one must have heard it and heard it as only Col. McRae can deliver it. His eloquence at times surpassed anything that we have ever read of or heard—and he could descend from the sublime to the ridiculous, from paths to bathos, as the gifted speaker termed it, with a grace and ease that excelled any speaker that it has ever been our fortune to hear.

The beautiful description of a sunset scene from one of the tall peaks of mountains that rise heavenward and adorn our own Western Carolina, the gathering of a thunder storm, the beautifully reflected rays of the setting sun mingling with the mist of the coming rain, throwing out a resplendent rainbow that completely arched the heavens, was gorgeous and grand, and the finest word painting, we verily believe, that was ever listened to. Then the sudden transition from the grand and beautiful, while the entire audience were listening in eager and almost breathless earnestness to catch every word and syllable as it dropped from the eloquent speaker's lips—down to the practical thoughts and expressions—such as, "but it was getting too wet for comfort," as the rain-storm burst over and enveloped the gorgeous scene just pictured, provoked an outburst of mirth from those who a moment before were most grave and serious in listening to the speaker's burning words of eloquence, that it was impossible to suppress.

But we will not attempt a lengthened review of the masterly effort, it was one of those things that must fall upon the ear and that will certainly linger in the memory but cannot which be transferred to paper. Only those who heard it can at all appreciate its many beautiful thoughts and its magnificent, glowing eloquence.

The Last Sad Rites.

We endeavored yesterday afternoon to obtain a full report, by telegraph, of the funeral obsequies of the late Maj. Engelhard but could not get them through in time for our paper. The following particulars are gleaned from a special to this morning's Star:

The remains of the late Secretary of State, Maj. Joseph A. Engelhard, did not lie in state. The funeral took place at half-past 12 o'clock, from the Yarbrough House, and the pall bearers were Messrs. V. V. Richardson, A. M. Erwin, P. F. Faison, J. C. Winder, B. B. Andrews, R. H. Battle, Jr., P. M. Hale, Pulaski Cowper, Thomas C. McIlhenny, J. G. B. Grimes and S. A. Ashe.

Both the Senate and House of Representatives adjourned at 12 o'clock, and united with the procession as it passed the Capitol. Impressive services were held at Christ Episcopal Church, by Rev. Dr. M. M. Marshall, after which the remains were borne to Oakwood Cemetery.

The members of the Supreme Court, State officers, and Raleigh Typographical Union attended in a body, and Senator Vance, who arrived in the city at a late hour, went to the Cemetery. There was no arrangement for display, but the funeral pageant was creditable both to the living and the deceased. The turnout was large, though snow and rain fell during the progress of the ceremonies.

The International Review.

The February number of the International Review has been received from its publishers, A. S. Barnes & Co., New York. Its contents are English and American Painting at Paris, 1878; The Stock; The Birth of the Commune, 1831—1839; Recollections of Mazzini's Views of Russia and the East; An American Wedge; Robert Browning; Expression of Emotions on the Human Countenance, and the Literary Movement in England, France and Germany. Hereafter, beginning with the March number of this excellent review, John T. Morse, Jr., and Henry Cabot Lodge will be associated with Mr. Barnes as literary editors.

"A stitch in time saves nine." A bottle of Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup will often save large doctor bills. Keep it handy, for it costs only 25 cents.

Jury of Inquest.

The man who was found dead on the road between this city and the North East river proves to have been an inmate of the poor house, a man by the name of Isaac J. Pickett.

Mr. Pickett was at one time a clerk at the freight office of the W. C. & A. R. R. and afterwards at that of the W. & W. R. R. and was one of the old members of the Wilmington Light Infantry and during the war a Lieutenant in Co. F., Third North Carolina Infantry. He had of late years lost his mind and having been unable to gain admission to the State Asylum, and having also been considered as perfectly harmless, has been cared for at the County Poor House. He strayed from that refuge on Sunday last. His body was found in a ditch alongside of the W. & W. R. R. track, between the seventh and eighth mile posts, and there were evidences at hand to the effect that he had made some attempts to regain the bank. It is supposed that the pro-fellow had wandered up the track and fell in the ditch and being too weak to escape from it died there. Special Coroner A. H. Leslie held an inquest over the body and the jury rendered a verdict to the effect that deceased came to his death from natural causes.

We regret to state that there is no change for the better in the condition of Dr. W. E. Freeman to-day.

Merchants, Travellers, Visitors to New York, do not fail to remember, that in order to accommodate and save your money, to make war on prices, and to fill the largest Hotel in New York, the Mammoth Grand Central, on Broadway, will hereafter be kept on both the American and European plans. The American plan including meals and lodging $2 50 or $3 00, and the European plan $1 00, and upwards per day. An elegant Restaurant, at moderate prices, is conducted by the Hotel.
