VIEWS AND REVIEWS

The great obstacle to converting the Chinese in California seems to be the example of their Christian brethren.

The electric light, it is announced, has proved a great failure in the great London fish market at Billingsgate.

In London is a society the members of which agree to use their influence to abolish the practice of wearing mourning.

American anthracite coal, conveyed by sailing vessels to Marseilles and by rail to Geneva, is sold in the latter place for about $10 a ton. It is cheaper than German or French coal and better.

Sewage farms and modern manures make surface water supply dangerous, and in England they are beginning to depend more and more on artesian wells.
The London water companies have sunk several of late years.

The Russian Government favors the project of admitting women to pharmaceutical schools and drug stores. In Holland women have enjoyed this training since 1860, and female druggists are eagerly sought for, being recommended by their orderly habits, accuracy, and cleanliness.

Now that the Chinese have got a little breathing spell, we advise them to reform.
They should get drunk, and lie, and cheat, and steal, and strike for higher wages, and their opponents do. If they want to get civilized, now is their time.—Atlanta Constitution.

The St. Louis Globe-Democrat being for Grant, is opposed to Sherman, and says: "No man who is in favor of a one-term Presidency can support John Sherman in 1880. On the 4th of March, 1881, John will have been President four years, with R. B. Hayes as Chief Deputy."

The report [that the doors of the Wittenburg church upon which Luther nailed his theses] are still preserved, is declared to be erroneous. These were burnt during the Prussian bombardment of the city in 1700. The present doors are a gift of Frederick William IV., in 1858. They are of brass, and have in bas-relief the Latin text of the reformer's theological essay.

As horrible as it may seem, it is given out from Washington that not a single Republican Senator can be found who has ever met Senator Bruce socially, and the families of Republican Senators bitterly deny that they have ever called on Bruce's wife or paid her any attention whatever.
Pray, what is the Republican party good for? We invite intelligent colored people in the South to cut this out and paste it in their scrap-books.

The Noble Register says it feared that Acklen, of Louisiana, will go over to the Republicans. He has, since the Democrats of the House declined to vindicate his personal character, been very sulky, and has been voting with the Republicans on many important measures. The Republicans, too, have been his friends in all his escapades; and, moreover, it is said that the Secretary of the Treasury has it in his power to pass upon a plan for forty thousand dollars in which Acklen is indirectly interested.

The treasury agents have unearthed a tobacco ring at New Orleans which has defied the department for 15 years. The fall particulars are not to be given till the culprits are brought to trial but it is public rumor that the ring has counted among its chiefs a long and unbroken series of Federal officials; has plundered the treasury of vast sums of money; has connections extending as far as Missouri, Kentucky and Virginia, and ramifications which are curiously interwoven with the structure of commercial society.

Some time ago Cardinal Manning issued an order forbidding women to sing in the choir of Westminster diocese, and now Archbishop Fabre of Montreal has proclaimed that after June 1 the same regulations will be enforced in his diocese. He says: "We permit females to sing by themselves at the retreats which may be given them, but it must be well understood that the mixture of choirs of men and women is prohibited."

It is not the boy alone who stands on the burning deck. That nerve is not a masculine monopoly occurs to one on reading how Mrs. Isadore Middleton, of Mobile, the other night outwitted a burglar. While putting away some jewelry she noticed that the library lamp had thrown upon the floor at her feet the shadow of a man who was crouching under a table. The shadow was so distinct that she saw that the open hand had but two fingers. The instant conviction flashed upon her that she was alone in the room with a negro desperado suspected of several burglaries, and having but two fingers on his right hand. There was no one in the house beside herself, but one maid-servant. She went to the table, under which the burglar was concealed, and rang for the girl, and wrote a note: "Take this to the jeweler's at once," she said, "and bring home my diamond necklace and earrings. They are my most valuable jewelry, and I do not wish to pass another night without having them in my bureau drawer." And then the brave woman sat there and read the newspaper, and hummed an operatic air and when the door bell rang, went carelessly down stairs and admitted Bridget and the policeman she had sent for. "Two fingered Jeff" is now serving a twenty years' sentence in the state prison.

THE SPEAKERSHIP.

The political cauldron at Washington is now bubbling and seething over the contest for the Speakership of the House of Representatives of the Forty-Sixth Congress, which convenes in extra session on the 18th inst., just one week from to-day. Ex-Speaker Randall is a prominent candidate for re-election with a very fair prospect of success, although he has some bitter opponents. He is a very able parliamentarian, a skillful tactician, active and vigilant in the exercise of the onerous and oftentimes embarrassing duties of the position, and controlling and guiding the deliberations in a masterly manner. It will hardly be possible to secure a more able and efficient officer than Mr. Randall, but, as before stated, he has strong opposition which may result in his defeat.

The most prominent opponent of Mr.
Randall, in fact his only one on the Democratic side of the House, is Mr. Blackburn, of Kentucky. This gentleman has many warm friends, who are earnestly presenting his claims for the Speakership, and the chances may be said to be about equally divided between him and ex-Speaker Randall. Mr. Blackburn has been repeatedly called to the Chair during the recent session of Congress and has evinced skill, judgment and efficiency as a presiding officer. He is, personally, more popular than Mr. Randall, which will prove a strong factor in his favor. As he is a Southern man, the members from the South, who think it is time that their rights and claims should be acknowledged, will vote largely for him.

The Republicans, with Garfield, of Ohio, as their candidate, base their only hope of success upon the accession of the Greenbackers to their ranks, but as there are seven Greenback Democrats and only five Greenback Republicans, the prospect is more favorable for the Democratic candidate than if the Greenbackers were wanting.

We do not see a ghost of a chance for Mr. Garfield, nor is there a doubt in our mind that a Democrat will be the next Speaker.

THE LION AND THE ASS.

The New Yorkers have a big thing in prospect. The work of advertising the International Exhibition to be held in 1889, in that city, celebrating the centennial of the inauguration of the government, is begun sufficiently early. It is announced that on the 30th of next April, the ninetieth anniversary of the inauguration of Gen. Washington is to be represented as faithfully as possible as a preparatory celebration to call attention to the proposed exhibition of 1889. The programme is to have Mr. Hayes take the part of George Washington, landing about where the latter landed, going over the same route to the scene of the inauguration, and reading the first inaugural address. The attendance of both Houses of Congress and of the Governors and Legislatures of the States is proposed.

The idea is a unique one—very, especially that part which proposes to clothe the ass in the lion's skin and to have a fraudulent President of the United States represent one who, after the lapse of nearly a hundred years is still written "first in the hearts of his countrymen." Such a compliment to the memory of "The Father of His Country" is certainly a unique one.

FEDERAL JURISDICTION.

An interesting and vitally important case, involving the right of Federal interference in the State Courts, will come before the United States Supreme Court today, based upon an application, from the Governor of Virginia, for a writ of mandamus to compel Judge Rives, of the U.
S. Circuit Court, to re-deliver two criminals whom he had taken out of the custody of the State Court for trial in his own Court. The facts of the case are briefly as follows: Two colored men, brothers, were jointly indicted for the murder of a white man, and, after several trials, the jury disagreed as to one of them, but found a verdict of guilty of murder, in the second degree, as to the other, and both prisoners were remanded temporarily to jail. A petition was then filed before the U. S. Circuit Court for a renewal of the cases to that Court, and Judge Rives granted the petition, basing his action upon the ground that as no colored jurors had been summoned in the State Court, they had been deprived of some of their rights in that Court.

Upon this condition of facts the General Assembly of Virginia passed a joint resolution directing the Governor to institute mandamus proceedings in the United States Supreme Court to recover possession of the prisoners and prevent their retrial in the United States Court. The mandamus proceedings having been instituted, the hearing will be had to-day, when it is hoped that it may be decided that a State (even though a Southern State) has yet some acknowledged rights which a Federal Judge is bound to respect.

It is a satisfaction to know that Virginia has acted thus promptly and energetically in this matter, and it is to be hoped that the result may prove a complete vindication of the majesty of the laws of a sovereign State.

MOONSHINE.

"Sound," said the schoolmaster, "is what you hear. For instance, you cannot feel a sound." "Oh, yes, you can!" said a smart boy. "John Wilkins retorted the pedagogue, "how do you make that out? What sound can you feel?" "A sound thrashing," quickly replied the smart boy.

A new recipient of judicial honor in Alabama was reminded after the argument in a case that was being tried before him was closed, that he should charge the jury, and rose and said: "Gentlemen of the jury, I charge you half a dollar apiece, and I say you must pay it before the case goes on."

The following scene took place the other day in a Paris restaurant on the occasion of a wedding dinner. An awkward waiter, in attempting to place on the table the soup tureen filled with fat chicken broth, spilled its contents on a lady's white satin dress. The lady screamed, and was seized with hysterics. The waiter stooped and shouted in her ear: "Don't despair, madame, there's plenty of broth yet left in the kitchen. I am going for it now."

This is the latest story that is being told of Mr. Sothorn's "playful eccentricity." He objects to his dog forming new acquaintances, so he fastens two very sharp needles to his nose, leaving the ends projecting about an inch. When a strange dog rushes up to "shake noses with him, he gets a thrust that sends him off howling, and the effect is such that Mr. Sothorn's dog cannot get within gunshot of any other that knows how the trick works.—Saturday Magazine.

A Visage Rivalling in Yellowness That of a "heathen Chinese," if belonging to one of our race, can scarcely be described as attractive. But worse than this, it is the index of a diseased liver, of a liver that needs arousing and regulating. The remedy is at hand, prompt, efficacious. A course of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters will expel the misdirected bile from the blood and divert it into the proper channel, open the bowels, remove the dyspeptic symptoms which invariably accompany biliousness and counteract the therapeutically developing tendency to dangerous congestion of the liver, which must always exist when the skin and whites of the eyes assume this yellow hue. The pains through the right lower ribs, side and shoulder blade, the nausea, urred state of the tongue, and unpleasant breath which indicate liver complaint, in short all its disagreeable concomitants are soon remedied by this sovereign corrective, which in addition to its regulating properties is a superb invigorant, and a pure and agreeable medicinal stimulant, appetizer and nervine.

A Word with Practical People.

The climate of some parts of the South seems to peculiarly foster three special scourges of the general health; these are yellow fever periodically; malarial fever and consumption of premature decline always. The result of all of them, when not rapidly fatal, is complete prostration of the whole system, and in most cases utter inability to derive restoration from the nourishment of ordinary food. Then the Doctors all say, the only thing that the stomach and pancreas, and liver, can accept and turn into vitalizing blood and solid fiber is Cod Liver Oil, or rather Scott's Emulsion of the Oil with the Hypophosphites of Lime and Soda. This is a finer nutrient than the Oil alone, and is besides a splendid tonic, and then it has not the least disagreeable taste or odor, and is acceptable to the most sensitive stomach.

CELEBRATED FERTILIZER,
THE MANIPULATED GUANO!
The Best and Cheapest!

COTTON for GUANO

In offering to you the WILCOX, GIBBS & CO'S MANIPULATED GUANO another season, we do so with the most perfect confidence that you will find it the BEST AND CHEAPEST FERTILIZER in use.

It is a new article, requiring experiments to establish its value, but has been for years with unbounded success, gaining in favor from year to year, until it is accepted as the STANDARD FERTILIZER.

It has been our study, not to make it EQUAL to others but SUPERIOR, and our success in these efforts we refer you to the many of our neighbors who have it, as well as to the thousands in the South Atlantic Cotton States.

This Guano is so well known that it is unnecessary to publish any certificates annex a few testimonials in our circulars only from Planters who have made special tests of it alongside the Peruvian Guano, as showing how it compares with Guano, which has heretofore been generally esteemed above all other Fertilizers.

He will have only a moderate supply for sale and would request Planters to their orders early.

Our Agents are authorized to sell the MANIPULATED on very favorable terms payable in cotton next Fall.
