Particular Notice.

We are again forced to say to our friends that positively no communication of whatever character it may be, will appear in our columns unless accompanied by the name of the writer, for the satisfaction of the Editor. This will account for the non-appearance of several articles received by us recently.

Petitions.
At the meeting of the Board of Aldermen, held last Monday evening, citizens residing in the Southern portion of the city petitioned for a bridge to be constructed over a culvert at the corner of Second and Dawson streets, that will obviate the necessity of going around to Front and Dawson, or Fourth and Dawson, in hauling wood from the mills in that section of the city. The matter was referred to the Mayor and Chief of Police with authority to act.

Petition from certain citizens near the corner of Fourth and Wooster streets, where property, it is alleged, was injured by grading the streets in that locality in 1870, for a stone wall or masonry work, was likewise referred to the Mayor and Chief of Police with authority to act.

The same ordinance in relation to dogs passed by the Board of Aldermen last year will go into effect from and after the first of June next. By this ordinance every owner of a dog is compelled to list the same and pay a tax of one dollar, if a male dog, and three dollars, if a female dog.

Literary.

L'Assommoir. A novel, by Emile Zola. From the French by John Stirling. Philadelphia: T. B. Peterson & Brothers. Wilmington: P. Heinsberger. The publication in English of this, the greatest novel of the great French realistic novelist, is, in all senses, an experiment. The "L'Assommoir" probes to the uttermost depths the springs of degradation and depravity among the lower orders of the Parisian population, and the picture presented has not a single touch of varnish. There it is in all its hideous and sickening reality; even the coarsest local slang is reproduced in such boldness as to make the reader start, and Zola stops at nothing. He takes his subject as he finds it, and reproduces it with the most scrupulous fidelity. Such a novel and such a novelist as the "L'Assommoir" and Zola are new to the American public and Mr. Stirling, at the instance of his publishers, has undertaken the herculean task of purifying the "Assommoir", that our readers may get the gist of the great book and yet not be shocked. It is but just to say that he has done his work with much skill and judgment.

Dornoff. A Russia story, by Henry Greville. Philadelphia: T. B. Peterson & Brothers. Wilmington: P. Heinsberger. "Dornoff" was written in Russia during Madame Greville's residence in St. Petersburg and is a graphic story of Russian life, containing careful studies of Russian character, which are admirable, and is superior to some of her other works. The story bears some resemblance to "Dostia" and to "Pretty Little Countess Zina," but is more interesting, all the characters being master-pieces of character drawing, while there is an ease and naturalness about each of the characters that makes the volume very entertaining and very enjoyable. One gets a good deal of valuable history, and of interesting facts pertaining to the people of Russia, from such stories as this.

Woman's Wrong. By Mrs. Eiloart. Philadelphia: T. B. Peterson & Brothers. Wilmington: P. Heinsberger. Woman's Wrong, a Book for Women, by Mrs. Eiloart, makes the thirty-first volume issued of "Peterson's Dollar Series of New and Good Books," which are a large good and handsome as well as popular and cheap series of books. They are published and sold at one dollar each. Mrs. Eiloart has won extensive popularity in this country as well as in England, and in her new work of fiction, entitled "Woman's Wrong," a Book for Women, she has a well constructed plot, original and natural characters, and the most charming sketches of society in various phases of life. She has been most happy in drawing her characters and descriptions, and has hit upon an ingenious plot, or rather on a plot involving a most interesting point, which is invented with originality, and is worked out skillfully to the end, being an entirely true yet graphic description of the legal wrongs that English wives and mothers wedded to worthless husbands are compelled to endure.

A Busy Place.

At the steam saw mill of Messrs. Colville & Taylor, on the wharf at the foot of Walnut street, about 30,000 feet of lumber are sawed daily. The press of business is so great that the saws are kept running from 4 o'clock in the morning until 10 o'clock at night, necessitating a double set of workmen.

Memorial Flowers.

The President and Officers of the Ladies Memorial Association urgently request the citizens of Wilmington and surrounding country to send in their contributions of flowers for the decoration of the graves of their dead as early as possible, on Friday next, May 9th. The decorations will be prepared at the school rooms of Misses Burr and James on Market street, in the rear of St. James Church. The ladies generally are invited to assist in this common work of love which should be dear to every Southern heart.

Littell's Living Age.

The numbers of The Living Age for the weeks ending April 26 and May 3, respectively, contain the following articles: The Progress of Greece, Macmillan; The Isle of Bourbon; and Joseph Orsi's Account of the Escape of Louis Napoleon from Ham, Fraser; Ancient Egypt, Contemporaries; The Duties of Ignorance; and A Cremation in China, Cornhill; On the Choice of Books, Fortnightly; Prof. Huxley on Sensation and the Unity of Structure of Sensiferous Organs, Nineteenth Century; Topiary Gardening, Gardner's Magazine; The Intellectual Status of the Aborigines of Victoria; and The Ruins of Szegedin, Spectator; The Haddock, Fishing Gazette; Tent Life in Palestine, Chambers' Journal; Critic and Author, Saturday Review; together with the opening chapters of Jean Ingelow's new story, "Sarah de Berenger," and instalments of "The Bride's Pass," by Sarah Tytler, and the usual amount of poetry.

Railroad Wreckers.

The following report relative to the capture and trial of one Doc Matthews, a train wrecker, is forwarded to us by our correspondent at Rocky Point: ROCKY POINT, N. C., May 6th, 1879. EDITOR REVIEW: Our usually quiet little town is the scene of unusual interest to-day, in the fact that an important criminal trial has taken place, before a court of four magistrates. One Doc Matthews, colored, living near here, was arrested last evening upon a charge of attempting to obstruct the safe passage of the train upon the railroad at a point a few miles below this place. The court consisted of our township magistrates, D. T. Durham, A. Gamber, and L. S. Armstrong, and R. N. Bloodworth, of Burgaw, who had the prisoner arrested, yesterday. The trial was patient and protracted, and full and fair. It was proved conclusively that this negro was caught in the very act of cutting the cross-ties and tearing up the spikes of the road-bed in such a way as to endanger the safe passage of the trains. The chief witness against him was Henry Brannock, a colored man, who swears that he came upon Matthews while he was cutting away the cross-ties and tearing up the spikes. The attempt was not successful, owing to the smooth and excellent condition of the road. Other State witnesses were examined. The entire evidence was confirmatory of the truthfulness of the charge. The prisoner was found guilty and bound over to the next term of Pender Superior Court, which convenes on Monday, the 20th of June. In default of bail he was committed to jail. A similar attempt was made the night previous upon the road and near the same spot, but was unsuccessful. This was the third attempt to wreck the train in nearly the same place on the road. The first attempt was about a year ago, and just above North East Bridge. There is much feeling in the community on the subject, because of a suspicion that these three attempts to injure the road and to destroy human life are concocted and spring from one common source. Circumstances induce the suspicion that this guilty negro is the dupe and tool of others. It need not surprise you to learn hereafter that investigation has led to developments that involve other parties in these malignant and outrageous efforts.

The weather has been rather tough on spring chickens, and they show it.

Personal.

Lieutenant Frank Tuttle, of Newport, R. I., has been assigned to duty on the Revenue Cutter Culfox. He arrived a few days ago and the complement of the Cutter is now complete. He is a clever gentleman and we wish him a pleasant stay among us.

Report of Soundings.

The pilots make the following report of soundings at the mouth of the river for the month of April:
Bald Head Channel..... 10 feet 3 inches
Western Bar Channel... 12 " 00 "
Rip Bar Channel..... 7 " 06 "

Aboriginal Relics.

At a point on the Masouboro turnpike, about six miles from the city, two arrow heads were found yesterday, which probably belonged to some Indian brave in the years that have passed. A year or two ago a skull, probably that of an Indian, was found very near the same place.

It's funny, but a soft-palmed woman can pass a hot pie plate to her neighbor at the table with a smile as sweet as distilled honey, while a man with a hand as horny as a crocodile's back will drop it to the floor and howl around like a Sioux Indian at a scalp dance.

PLEASE NOTICE.

We will be glad to receive communications from our friends on any and all subjects of general interest but: The name of the writer must always be furnished to the Editor.
Communications must be written on only one side of the paper.
Personalities must be avoided.
And it is especially and particularly understood that the Editor does not always endorse the views of correspondents, unless so stated in the editorial columns.

U. S. District Court.

The only case before this tribunal, up to the hour of our going to press to-day was that of Henry B. Eastling, charged with destroying mail matters, who was found guilty. Sentence has not yet been passed.

The following are the names of the Grand Jury drawn yesterday: I. B. Kelly, Foreman; S. W. Nobles, Peter Rourke, Jno H. Whiteman, Thos S. Watson, Jas G. Grimes, Henry Omland, Alford Hartgrove, J. W. Cox, Libeus Cooper, G. W. Grissett, T. C. McLhenny, L. S. Belden, T. H. Johnson, J. A. Scarborough, C. F. W. Bissinger, Abram Faison, J. H. Mintz, Thos Perrett.

Over the Line.

From a subscriber who lives in Marion county, S. C., near the North Carolina line, we learn that cotton is looking quite well in that section, and that many of the farmers are now busily engaged in chopping out. The stand is good. From the same source we also learn that corn is looking finely, and the farmers are busy ploughing out. We are always glad to chronicle such items, and we are also pleased to meet such subscribers in our office, for the gentleman in question walked right in and paid his subscription for nearly a year ahead. Some people might think that such visitors would cause an interruption to our business, but we do not.
