The ladies would do well to bear in mind that a lovely spring toilet can be made of gold gauze and pale yellow satin.

Unavailable.
The following is a list of unavailable letters remaining at the Postoffice in this city:
Maj. Wm. P. Craighill, Baltimore, Md.;
Dr. C. E. Shoemaker, Reading, Penn.
U. S. District Court.
There were two submissions for violation of revenue laws before this tribunal this morning. Abram Henry was convicted for retailing liquor without license. Sentence not passed.
Solomon Willerby, charged with retailing liquor without license, was discharged, the evidence not sustaining the charge.
To-Morrow Afternoon.
We hope that there will be a general suspension of business to-morrow, from 2 o'clock until after the ceremonies at the cemetery have been concluded, in honor of the day and of those whose memory we are to honor then. The Produce Exchange will be closed, as will the public offices at the City Hall, and we presume that the suspension of business during the afternoon will be pretty general.
The Way to Do It.
We are rejoiced to know that our local on 'Cruelty to Animals' has proved effectual so far as to keep one poor old crippled mule off the street for a day, at least. That was the worst case we have seen and we think it would be an act of mercy and justice for our people in need of drayage accommodations to refuse to employ any one with an animal in such a deplorable condition. If the owners are too unmerciful, or too mean and stingy, to keep their animals in a decent condition the course we have indicated, if adopted by the public generally, would either drive such men from the streets or compel them to take better care of their teams.

Knights of Honor meet to-night.

Rev. G. D. Berabeim, D.D., returned this morning from attendance at Synod where he has been for several days past.

The fancy, flowery, feathery spring bonnet shivered with cold this morning and the pretty little bird had its head under its wing.

A lot of elegant furniture is to be sold at auction to-morrow morning by Messrs. Cronly & Morris. Some rare good bargains may be had then and there.

Rev. J. R. Hall, of the Fifth Street M. E. Church, will deliver a lecture on "Temperance before the Independent Order of Rechabites of this city some time during the last week in this month.

I escaped.

Doc. Matthews, the colored scoundrel who tried to wreck a train on the W. & W. Railroad, and who, after a hearing before the magistrates of Pender, was committed to jail at Burgaw to await his trial at the next term of the Superior Court, has made his escape, and is now at large.

City Court.

Jas. Fisher and Hinsley Ewins, two colored youths, were arraigned before Mayor Fishplate this morning for an affray upon the streets. Judgment was suspended in the case of the first named and the latter was fined $5 which was paid and the defendant released.

Another Lively Time Anticipated

To-morrow morning at 4 o'clock, just before the dawn of day, blasts from the huntsman's horn and the music from twenty-five yelping hounds will announce to the quiet sleepers in the neighborhood of Front and Dock streets that a gay party are about to start on another lively chase after poor Reynard. In this instance, we are informed, the party will consist of some fifteen or twenty couples, ladies and gentlemen well mounted, who are to participate in the pleasures of the chase.

In Memoriam.

This is the season when the brave men who fell in the Last Cause are remembered more than at any other time by their surviving comrades and friends, and the time when the many brilliant deeds and heroic devotion to their country's cause of those who now sleep their last sleep upon the hill-top or on the mountain side or in the valley beneath wherever hostile shots were exchanged with the foe, are recounted among the survivors who stood shoulder to shoulder with them in that thrilling epoch of our country's history. But it remains for gentle woman, ever foremost in deeds of devotion and love to the memory of those who have passed from among us, with tender hearts and loving hands to twine the myrtle and the cypress upon the graves of those they loved and to scatter roses as a fragrant offering to the memory of the departed brave. To this end fair forms and delicate hands will be busy from now until the tolling of the city church bells to-morrow announces the hour for the procession to form.

In this connection, the following eloquent words spoken by Col. Allen, the Chief of Ordinance of Jackson's Corps, delivered by him at the annual reunion of the Virginia Division of Army of Northern Virginia, may not seem inappropriate.

The theme chosen was Jackson's valley campaign and the following are but the closing words of the address:

I have thus tried to give you, fellow soldiers of the Army of Northern Virginia, an outline of one of the most brilliant pages of our history. Time has not permitted me to dwell on the great deeds which crowded these few months, nor to characterize in fitting terms of panegyric the mighty actors in them. I have attempted nothing beyond a simple and carefully accurate statement of facts. This may help to clear away from one campaign the dust and mould which already gather over the memories of our great struggle. It may do more. It may, by touching the electric chord of association, transport us for the time into the presence of the majestic dead; and of the mighty drama, the acting of which was like another, and a higher life, and the contemplation of which should tend to strengthen, elevate, ennoble. It is wise in our day—it is wise always—to recur to a time when patriotism was a passion; when devotion to great principles dwarfed all considerations other than those of truth and right; when duty was felt to be the sublimest word in our language; when sacrifice outweighed selfishness; when a human virtue was equal to human calamity. Among the heroes of that time Jackson holds a splendid place—an illustrious member of a worthy band—aye, a band than which no land in any age can point to a worthier!

Professor Van Jasmund.

We learn that this gentleman has been invited to deliver his lecture on Prince Bismarck, before the Philomathean Literary Society, of this city, and that he has signified his acceptance of the invitation. Professor Van Jasmund has had opportunities for becoming acquainted with the life, character and services of Bismarck possessed by few, and his lecture will undoubtedly be both entertaining and instructive.

Brooklyn Hall.

As will be seen by reference to our advertising columns there will be an entertainment consisting of "Fine Art Views," at Brooklyn Hall on Friday, (to-morrow) night for the benefit of the Brooklyn Mission Sunday School. The exhibition is recommended as being very attractive and as it is for a good purpose and at moderate prices we hope that it may be well patronized and the house crowded to its utmost capacity.

Magistrate's Court.

Celia Osborne, colored, for an assault upon Cairo Burts, white, was up before Justice Wagner, but the case was dismissed at the cost of the prosecution. She was then arrested on a peace warrant upon the affidavit of Cairo Burts, and Justice Wagner put her under $50 bonds to keep the peace for six months.

Before Justice Hall, Henry Taylor, colored, was charged with wilful abandonment and fined $1 and costs.

Telephones for the City.

A contract has been concluded, we understand, by the city authorities with the Southern Agency of the National Bell Telephone at Richmond, whereby telephonic communication is to be established throughout the city, connecting with the City Hall and the various engine and truck houses. The lines are to encircle the city and it is thought that they will be carried into many private houses. The city authorities are to have ten of the telephones for the use of which they are to pay the company $750 a year.

There is no doubt of the great convenience which will result from the introduction here of this apparatus as well as of the fact that in cases of alarm of fire much wear and tear to the engines and horses will be saved. When an alarm is sent out it need not be necessary to turn out the entire department. If, for instance, fire is discovered in a small house corner of Ninth and Market streets, immediately upon its location and requirements being made known a call could be made for but one engine and that nearest the scene could be sent at once. Should the fire increase other engines could be hurried to the spot as soon as they are needed. The market bell will sound not the fire district, for that will already be known, but the number of the engine whose service would be required. Neither would there be any hesitation or indecision in regard to the locality as this would be made known at once through the telephone.

American Wines.

But few persons are aware of the great amount of grapes raised in New Jersey. Alfred Speer is known to be the largest wine grower east of the Rocky Mountains. His Port Grape Wine is the best, and is considered by physicians and chemists as the best wine to be procured. It is ordered to London and Paris, where it is becoming very popular among wealthy families. For sale by J. C. Munds, P. L. Bridges & Co. and Green & Planner

'Truth lies in a nut-shell,' and 'brevity is the soul of wit.' To be brief, when the shell is broken, the truth will be discovered that, the Grand Central Hotel, on Broadway, New York, now kept on both plans, the American $2.50 or $3.00, and the European $1.00, and upwards, per day, gives more satisfaction for the same money than any other first-class house in Gotham. An elegant Restaurant, at moderate prices, is conducted by the Grand Central.
