JOSH. T. JAMES, Editor & Prop.
WILMINGTON, N. C.

WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 19, 1878.

[ENTERED AT THE POSTOFFICE AT WILMINGTON, N. C., AS SECOND-CLASS MATTER.]

NEWS AND REVIEWS.

The bulk of Prussian prisoners are employed at cigar making, because the work takes little space and is so readily learned by young and old alike.

By a regulation of the French army generals who are not specially wanted must retire at 65; consequently Louis Philippe's son, the Duke de Nemours, has to step down and out.

The Austrian Government has a notion of imposing a tax of about 20 cents on every Bourse operation and believes it would raise a considerable revenue. It certainly would in Wall street.

Last year Russian railroads carried 1,623,484 soldiers, 43,891 horses, and 20,662 pieces of ordnance. Not less than fourteen per cent of the men fell ill during the transit and had to go to hospitals en route.

After being closed for five years the oldest, most famous, and most lucrative iron works in the British empire have been set agoing by Messrs. Crawshaw at Merthyr Tydril. This is a tremendous event in the principality. Mr. Crawshaw, who died some months ago, vowed that he would never reopen the works on account of the misconduct of his men in trying times.

At the close of the seventeenth century pure imported wine was the ordinary drink of all but the humblest class in England and many parts of Scotland. Between 1740 and 1750 champagne, even with a heavy duty, was consigned to English firms at 50 cents the bottle, equal to about $1.50 to $2 at present values.

The necessity of employing very intense temperatures in cremation, so as to convert the body into ashes, appears likely to be done away with by the experiments of M. Lissagarry. The difficulty in cremation is to decompose and reduce to ashes tissues containing seventy-five per cent. of water, but M. Lissagarry overcomes this by exposing the body, first of all, to the action of superheated steam, which chars the tissues and enables them to burn easily in a simple furnace at a very much less cost of fuel and without the least unpleasantness.

The Memphis Appeal declares that in two years that city has lost nearly eight millions of dollars and buried six thousand of her people. Filthy gutters, bad drainage and accumulated garbage, it claims, were the cause of it all. The Appeal now pleads for such method of purification by fire, drainage, fumigation, street paving and the most vigorous enforcement of the well ascertained laws of health as shall insure the city against a recurrence of the epidemic. Otherwise Memphis is threatened with decay, if not extinction.

The monks of the Gothard Hospice, in the Alps, say that during the year ending Sept. 30 they relieved 11,101 indigent wayfarers of all nations among whom they have distributed 45,966 rations. They have also granted hospitality to 132 persons suffering from the effects of exposure, and made many gifts of clothing. The expenditure of the hospice having exceeded its income, the monks appeal to the public for help to enable them to continue their good work.

At Balouki, near Constantinople, there is a well wherein some gold fishes swim, one draught from which it is said cleanses the conscience of a year's misdeeds, and thither hundreds of thousands of superstitious Greeks annually resort on the day when Stamboul fell into the hands of the Saracens. The very fish now seen calmly swimming about were being fried by a holy man, who lived in a cave where the well now stands; and to convince him that St. Sophia was in the hands of the infidel, a miracle was wrought whereby the fireplace and frying pan were changed into a pool of cool water.

Mme. Aletina Patti—she does not call herself Marchioness de Caux in Paris—stayed while there at the same hotel as Mr. Gladstone, in the Rue de l'Arcade. The great songstress, who completed her thirty-sixth year last April, looks very young for her age, and is as charming in manner and appearance as ever. She fulfils for the winter months engagements in Berlin, Munich, and Vienna, but purposes returning to Paris early in February to commence her engagement with Mr. Meselli at the Gaité Theatre, where a series of Italian operas will be given—that is, if the law invoked by her husband, the Marquis, permits. Figaro says that base whispers are about that the Marquis de Caux will permit her to parade her voice and her lover within a mile of his club for a 'consideration.'

The man who steps on a deposit of soft soap and glides swiftly down the front stairs is not dead but slippeth.

THE TWO SEYMOURS.

The New York World very emphatically charges the defeat of the party in the recent elections in New York to the account of Samuel J. Tilden. It very properly says that had Mr. Tilden done his duty to the Democracy of New York and to Governor Robinson in the recent canvass he would have publicly renounced all claims upon and all aspirations after the Presidency in 1880. Had he done this, thousands of Democrats in the interior of the State who abstained from the polls because they could not be made sure that in voting for Governor Robinson this year they would not vote to promote the ambition of Mr. Tilden next year, would have come to the front and assured us the victory.

This may be all very true in its judgment passed after the result has been known. Mr. Tilden may have been assured of this fact many weeks ago but yet he may have been at that time very confident of Gov. Robinson's ability to whip out both Kelly and Cornell. Had the World a month ago, succeeded in convincing Mr. Tilden that Gov. Robinson's only chance was in a public dissolution of the firm of Tilden & Co. then the proper announcement would very likely have been made in time to avoid the recent disaster.

There is another significant fact, however, which strikes us in regard to this result, taken in connection with the fact that the Seymour movement has assumed very suddenly a remarkably strong front and that lies in the fact that Horatio Seymour, Jr., the "nephew of his uncle," the only Democrat who was elected in New York, polled the handsome majority of ten thousand votes. This fact is enough to "set one thinking." It shows that the name of Seymour is a powerful word with the people of New York and is indicative of the fact that Robinson was defeated because Tilden was distrusted. It also points to another thing and that is that there is a handsome Democratic majority lying ready in the great State of New York which Gov. Seymour may get when he is ready to take it up. These are logical deductions drawn in the light of accomplished facts.

THE SOLID SOUTH.

It seems to us that the New York Sun is laboring under a very serious misapprehension relative to the people of this section of the country. In Monday's issue of that paper there was a very bitter editorial in which the South was assailed with all the rancor of which that rancorous sheet is capable. The article was headed "Wade Hampton and Co.," and was an utterance of warning that the people of the North had determined that the South should never secure the control of the government.

As we understand the sentiments of our people, the South has no desire to obtain the possession or control of the government, but would be very well satisfied if it could only have a proportionate voice in the legislation of the country, and may have the representation and voice in the councils of the nation to which its wealth and population and interest is entitled. The South does not seek to control the country, and the Sun has lashed itself into a foam of fury seeking for a cause of alarm, which only exists in the fertile fancy of its own distempered brain. The Democracy of the South are earnestly and faithfully working for an era of good government, honestly administered. They believe and know that under Republican sway there have been years of misrule, peculation, fraud and oppression, and they are under lasting obligations to the New York Sun for the able and fearless manner in which it has exposed all these wrongs. The Sun, to a great extent, has been a political educator to the people of this section, and it is in a measure owing to the rottenness and rancor of the Republican party as exposed and demonstrated by that able and fearless, though not always consistent, journal, that our people have become more thoroughly aroused to the necessity of a reform in the administration of our national affairs. It is certainly very wrong for the Sun to take offence or get frightened because we try to profit by its own teachings. On the contrary, we might reasonably suppose that the course pursued by the South would give us a title to its heartiest commendation. The Sun has not hesitated to denounce Hayes as a fraud who occupies a position to which S. J. Tilden was duly and legally elected, and the solid South fully concurs in the opinion. The same paper has denounced in unmeasured terms the Cabinet and many of the chief officials under the present administration, and the South, awake to the justice of the denunciation, is solid for a change that shall bring with it substantial and honest reforms. The South and the Sun certainly have been traveling upon the same plane, and we can see no reason why the fact should be a cause of alarm.

The report comes from Paris, through the New York Tribune (that reliable sheet) that the (of course) "beautiful and accomplished daughter" of that "gallant" ex-Federal soldier, Daniel E. Sickles, has eloped from Paris for England with an adventurer named McQuarty. The report needs confirmation, however.

THE NATION.

We don't like to cumber our columns with the insane drivings of the short-eared jackass who drives the radical Le Mars Sentinel but inasmuch as, with all his donkeyism, the fellow is a stalwart of stalwarts, we publish here from his columns the accepted idea of the people of the North with regard to the Southern States. Here it is:

The Confederate States of America, in the month of April, 1865, lay at the feet of the Nation's victorious legions, conquered territory. All the rights, privileges, immunities, franchises, sovereignities, charters and constitutions, the one-time States may have had, severally or collectively, became vested in the conqueror—the Nation. So absolutely perfect was the National victory that the Nation might have given back Virginia to England which in turn might have restored it to its original dignity—a convict colony; Florida might have been re sold to Spain at a slight advance on the original cost, and Louisiana knocked down to the highest bidder for a slight consideration. Mexico might have been induced to take back Texas; or the territory might have been parcelled among the victorious soldiers, as William the Conqueror divided England among the Normau knights. The power of the Nation to do all this and more was established by force of arms! Its right to do so is recognized by the laws of the nations. The perfectness of that victory is indisputable.

MOONSHINE

Football is a healthy sport, but it isn't as hard on the football as it is on the fall boot—Shoe and Leather Dealer.

Every trace of malarial fever left Mr. Co. King when a big fee was offered him to argue a case before the Supreme Court.

The man who bought a 'Dictionary of Familiar Quotations' and couldn't find anything about 'hardly ever' in it, wants us to denounce the fraud—Boston Post.

Some bigots connected with the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children have stopped the performance of Pinafore by children in New York. When the children went to the theatre and were told that there would be no performance the girls, from 'Josephine' to the humblest 'sisters and 'aunts,' cried. They would play without any pay, they said, and it was difficult to make them understand that the performance had been condemned.

In Candabar when a young woman becomes sweet on a young man she sends him a hair-pin, meaning, 'that is the kind of a hair-pin I am.' If the young man is like Barkis, he pins a handkerchief in his cap with the hair-pin, signifying, 'You can bet your sweet life I am on it worse than an Injun.' This amounts to an engagement, and a notification to all the folks of the fact, and then they get married. This plain and simple way of doing business saves a deal of swinging on the gates, burning kerosene oil of nights, buying ice-cream and standing the liveryman off for buggies.

Dr. Mott's Endorsement of Speer's Port Grape Wine.

The following, from the celebrated Dr. Mott of New York, speaks wonders for Mr. Speer's efforts to raise the Oporto Grape in New Jersey:

62 MADISON AVENUE, }
New York, April 11, 1878. }
MR. ALFRED SPEER.—Dear Sir: The visit which I made last year to your Vineyards, wine-presses and vaults at Passaic, N. J., satisfied me thoroughly that the wines manufactured by you are pure and unadulterated, and the very best that can be offered to the public for medicinal uses.

Acting upon my favorable impressions at the time, I have since recommended the Port Wine more particularly in my practice, and am satisfied, with marked benefit, to my patients.

There can be no better proof to the doubting mind, as to the Wine being made of the finest Oporto Grapes, than a visit to the acres of land covered with the vine bearing the luxuriant fruit. Wishing you success in your praiseworthy enterprise,

I remain respectfully yours,
ALEX. B. MOTT, M. D.,
Prof. of Surgery, Bellevue Hosp. Med'l College, &c., &c.
