The gallows on which Allen Mathis is to pay the death penalty for the murder of Reuben Herring has been erected, according to the description given of it in yesterday's Review, and to-day Sheriff Manning is issuing tickets to the number required by law. A reporter of the his cell at the county jail this merning and had a short conversation with him relative to his approaching doom. He is confined in the middle cell, third story, east side. As the iron-grated door of the thimorning it was reselved that busicell swang on its hingers the figure of a neswould to suspended at the Exchange man about 5 feet 11 inches was seen in on tmorrow, New Year's Day, and that the back part of the cell, Allen the kchange would therefore be closed Mathis arose slowly and came out of the afterusines hours to-day until Friday cell at the bidding of Jailor Howard, who morng, theld prox. An effort was made accompanied us on our visit. He looked by a inority party who now claim, like haggard and a perfect picture of utter the Roublicans in Maine, that th y were despondency. He said in answer to our takendvantage of, (notwithstanding the interrogation that he was not sure that fict, to, that the meeting met in core he had been forgiven for his sins but formit with law and proceeded to busiwas trying to make his peace. He reit ness a the regular hour) and had snap erated that he killed Reuben Herring in judgmet rendered before they could be after midnght, thus ushering in the new self defence and says that he ran very in atteranceat the meeting. He further ity pay, nowever, did not oppose stated that the woman (Herring's wife) the surensum of one day; on the was an accomplice in the murder and as- contrar, they proposed advecating sisted him in trying to conceal the body and pting for a suspension of the murdered man in a well. He says | busines for the balance of the week and ne has to say just now and that he told were tw reasons however, why this dethem the truth relative to the matter.

The evidence and what Mathis told his lawyers is as follows: Reuben Herring's wife was in Allen Mathis house when Herring was seen coming up the Fine split ash wood sold in market at path to the house. Mathis took up a $2.30 per cord by the flat load this morn- | gun and went out to his gate and denied admission to Herring, whereupon the latter struck hi n with a heavy bickory stick and was getting the best of the chiculty when Mathis ran back to the house, put down the gun and picked up an axe with which he assailed Herring, striking him three times, when he fell and the woman Herring's wife) said "there now, you've Little things are often important. . What killed him." They then picked up the would a 40 cent cigar amount to if you had body of Reuben Herring and threw it down an old well. Mathis left the county, went to Bladen and from there wrote a letter to Herring's wife purporting to have been written by the murdered man, telling her that he had gone to Georgia and would not return for some time.

The doomed man is attended daily by ministers who are laboring with him and who will continue their work until the hour of his mounting the stand. It is now, intended that services will be held during the entire day on Sunday. Just before leaving, Jailor Howard gave him some tobacco, asking if he chewed now? He replied that he took a chew now and then, but didn't like it as much as usual. It is the opinion of the Jailor that if the doom-Mathis was ordered back, the heavy door Christmas Fire Dogs and Fire Irons swung on its hinges and silence reigned

The Masquerade.

The masquerade at the rink last night under the direction of Professer Cushing was a perfect success and a very laugh able and enjoyable affair. There were about thirty masquers on skates who concealed their identity in a very clever manner. The tramp, s the negro, Major Atom, Gen. Mite, Soldier Boy, Sailor and a grotesque character with a long white beard were among the best personated. A very large audience assembled at the rink and seemed well pleased with the evening's entertainment.
