City Court.
The Mayor's levee this morning was unusually large both in culprits and witnesses.
The first case called was Susan Johnson, a white girl of some seventeen summers or more, who when asked where she lived had forgotten the name of the street.
But the Chief of Police coming to her assistance right then told the Mayor that the name of the street was Mulberry, and the locality Paddy's Hollow, at the foot of the above named street, near the water's edge. The charge against the defendant was disorderly conduct in that she used very abusive and profane language to the police just outside of Cason Vanoson's ball room at the corner of Mulberry and Nutt streets. The defendant when arrested by the police was in bloomer ball costume, which the police say all the gentle belles of Paddy's Hollow do, whenever there is a ball of the kind named above given. This particular costume is said to be a sort of ballet style, so that their trails will not interfere with the shuffling of their feet; it is rather on the Black Crook order, too, so the Day Janitor at the City Hall says, which is supposed to be for spectacular effect. The defendant, however, having been arrested on Saturday night had ample time to change her costume before appearing before the Mayor this morning which she evidently improved, and when arranged this morning, was in the modest costume generally worn by her sex. The Mayor seemed moved to pity in this case, from some cause or other, and released the prisoner, with a slight reprimand and a strong admonition not to appear there again.

Cason Vanoson, an emigrant from the Fatherland, who is at present proprietor of Vanoson's lodging house, barroom and restaurant, corner of Nutt and Mulberry streets, in the classic precincts of Pad-dy's Hollow, was arraigned upon the charge of abusing the police officer who made the arrest of Susan Johnson. Considering it the first offence the Mayor pronounced judgment of $10 fine, from which Mr. Vanoson declared he would take an appeal, whereupon the Mayor ordered him to give a justified bond in the sum of $50 for his appearance at the next term of the Criminal Court, but Vanoson afterwards reconsidered the appeal, when the Mayor remitted half the fine, and the defendant paid $5 and departed.

A youthful-looking foreign sailor, whose bushy tow head had rather a porcupine appearance, was the next case, the charge being drunk and down, and so beastly intoxicated that he had to be hauled to the Guard House on a dray. Sentence of the Court was that defendant pay the costs in the case.

Three tramps were the next on docket, two of whom gave their names respectively as Thomas Kelley and James Kelley.
The first named declared however that he was not a tramp but was engaged at work in this city. The charge against the two defendants was being asleep in a vacant lot. Thomas Kelley said the liquor he drank on Saturday night overcame him so, that he sank under the weight of the load he was carrying and dropped to sleep in the place above named. James Kelley said he was a seafaring man and came from Newbern to this port to ship. The third man, who gave his name as John Hughes claimed to be a sailor also, but he was found by officer May asleep in Mr. Jas. Dawson's flower garden, on the corner of Front and Chestnut streets. The police officer, it seems, was attracted by the man's loud snoring as he was passing on his beat about 2 o'clock in the morning, and went in and made the arrest. The Mayor ordered the two sailors to be locked-up for the present and dismissed the case of Thomas Kelley.

This closed the docket and the Court adjourned.

Sailed Again
The schooner Sadie Walcott, Captain Watts, from Brunswick, Georgia, for Boston, with cargo lumber, which put in at this port in distress November 13, having had a collision at sea, sailed again to-day for Boston, after having been overhauled and repaired.

Physicians' Wine.
New York physicians say that they have been using Speer's Port Grape Wine and Wine Bitters in their practice for years, to the entire satisfaction of their patients and themselves, and take great pleasure in recommending them to the public as being all that is claimed for them, and in fact the most reliable they can find. For sale by Green & Flanner, Jas. O. Munds and
P. L. Bridgers & Co.

Another Kerosene Lamp.

Saturday night Sarah Jane Ruse, colored, living on Eighth, between Red Cross and Campbell streets, was terribly burned by the upsetting of a kerosene lamp.
Her cries attracted the attention of a colored man who was passing and looking through the window saw the state of affairs and forced the door open. The man tore her clothing, which was on fire, from her body and finally succeeded in extinguishing the flames, but not until after the woman had been terribly burned on the lower part of her body. It is feared that the injuries she sustained will prove fatal.

suant to adjournment. Present, W. L.

nual statement, which was referred to the Finance Committee.

report for the month of December, of fees received from marriage licenses showing the receipt of $34.20 paid over to the Treasurer.

W. J. Mott presented his bond as Overseer of the Poor, with A. D. Brown as surety, which was accepted, and he took the oath of office as Superintendent of the House of Correction.

On application, Eliza Taylor was ordered admitted to the Poor House.
Ordered by the board, that the building on the Poor House lot, known as the Provision and Forage House, be constituted a part of the House of Correction, for the security of prisoners, and the Superintendent is required to make the same secure, and is authorized to build additional room at his own expense. It is reserved by the Board to discontinue this part of the House of Correction whenever they shall deem it a advisable and for the public good.
