Sudden Death.

We learn that Mr. Henry Mashburn, an old and highly respected citizen of Moore's Creek, in Pender county, fell dead in his yard a few days ago. He was about 70 years of age, and had been in good health up to the time of his sudden death. Mr. Mashburn had been for many years a prominent citizen of the county, a leading member of the Baptist Church, Superintendent of the Sunday School and an influential member of the Masonic Order. Famine is again menacing poor unfortunate Ireland and her starving children appeal in heart-rending tones to the charitable and humane of all climes and nationalities for assistance. At Smithville.

From Capt. Harper, of the steam yacht Pussport, we learn that the wind and sea in the bay at Smithville were very high this morning The yawl boats on the deck of the steamer were rolled out of their racks, a thing, by the way, which was never done before, even when the little steamer was on the black fish grounds. The tides were very high, the water rising seven feet. Br. barque North Carolina, Buchan, from Baltimore for Liverpool, which put into Bermuda in November in distress, repaired and proceeded Dec. 30th for her destination, but, after leaving sprung aleak, and on the morning of January 1st was seen ashoré on the reefs to the S. W. of St. George. At the time of going ashore she had 4 or 5 feet of water in her hold. She afterward filled and on the 8th was full of water. About 400 bales of cotton have been landed dry, and small portion of the other cargo; the greater portion will be a total loss. The vessel has been stripped and materials taken ashore. The hull will probably be a total loss.

Deer vs. Whale.

It seems that Capt. Harperknows how to catch a deer-don't let this be mistaken for a dear-as well as run a steamboat. Yesterday while the Passport was nearly abreast of Fort Anderson, First Official Mate Frank Wilkinson shouted from the lookout, "A whale! a whale! on the starbard bow, steering east by east north east." Capt. Harper put his smoked glasses on and discovered a fine buck in the middle of the channel steering for the Eastern bank of the river. F. O. M. Wilkinson in the meanwhile was running around the deck getting his line ready while Gibbs, the cook, stood at the bow with the galley fork ready to harpoon the whale. The steamer was rapidly closing up the gap between her and F. O. M. Wilkinson's whale; he sailed in a whaling ressel 5 years 7 months and 16 days, and guesses he orter know a whale when he sees one, and was betting his official position and seven weeks salary "that's a whale," when the bow of the steamer struck the deer and killed it. The stag was hauled aboard the steamer and when it was laid out on the deck F. O. M. Wilkinson clasped his weather-beaten brow and ejaculated, "I'm stag-gered and ruined. My official position gone and lication at Hillsboro, under the control of seven weeks salary. I feel like a default-VIEW will get hold of it and then I'm ruined, ruined, ruined.' He attempted to commit suicide with Jeff Smith's horse pistols but as it was suggested that some one would carry his Galloway he righted on his keel and concluded to apply the Balm of Gilead (hind quarter of venison) to his troubled inner man. It is thought to-day that if one should whisper suicide near the foot of Market street there would be a fight or a lively foot race with F. O. M. Wilkinson leading the van.

Mayor's Office,

City of Wilmington,

January 12th, 1880. An Appeal from Ireland. TTO THE CITIZENS OF WILMINGTON

It is universally known that the distress in Ireland is now very great and daily increasing, from an extensive famine which has again been inflicted upon that unhappy country. As Mayer of the City of Wilmington I have received telegrams from the Lord Mayor of London and the Lord Mayor of Dublin, appealing to the generosity of Wilmington for aid to the sufferers. It is the cry of a Nation asking for bread.

In order that our cit'zons may take the matter into consideration, I do hereby invite all who feel an interest in and desire to aid the suffering people, to assemble at the City Court Room, at the City Hall, on the Evening of WEDNESDAY, the 14th inst., at 71/2 o'clock, in preliminary meeting, to take such steps as they may deem best to carry into effect their wishes.
