The Alarm of Fire this Morning.

This morning, about 3 o'clock, a cow shed on the premises of James Telfair, near the corner of Seventh and Walnut streets, was discovered on fire and the alarm was sounded. The fire department turned out promptly but before their arrival the fire was extinguished by tearing down the shed. The origin of the fire is not known.

Arrived Safely.

Mr. E. E. Burruss this morning received a letter from Mr. James Dawson, which announces the safe arrival of himself, wife and son in the old country. They arrived at Liverpool on the 18th inst. and at London on the 19th, and from that city were to have gone the next day directly on to Paris, where they expected to join their daughter, Mrs. Greenbow, and her husband.

King Cotton.

The indications are that the area of cotton to be planted in this section this year will be largely in excess of that of 1879. The demand for fertilizers, we understand, is very heavy, which is a sure indication of the great exertions which are to be put out by the farming community this year. With good seasons there will be a fine prospect ahead for our people but if 1880 should prove a bad cotton year they will get back many of the troubles from which they have just escaped.

Respectfully Dedicated to the Boys and the Police Authorities.

We do not propose writing a philippic against boys or their practices in games of pleasure, for, strange as it may seem to some of our masculine juvenile friends, we were once a boy ourself and although a decade of years and more have passed since that happy period, we can recollect with great distinctness many of the events together with the customs of those days, no matter whether marbles were in fashion or kites in season, or old hundred on Academy Hill the popular game of amusement; it all comes back to our mind's eye with marvellous distinctness, but with it all we think the boys of that period generally kept or were made to keep within certain bounds. Now we do not object to boys playing shiny, but reason tells us that there ought to be some regular play ground and not all the side walks in the city ought to be taken up for this amusement, and then balls would be better to use than rocks, for there is danger in knocking small rocks or stones through the streets; they may be driven through somebody's window glass, or worse still, they might strike some one in the face. Yesterday we are told that there came very near being a serious accident on the corner of Red Cross and Third streets, by which two ladies, who were driving in a buggy, might have lost their lives or had their limbs broken if they had not succeeded in getting out of the buggy as soon as they did, and before the horse dashed off at a furious runaway speed, and it was all caused by the horse taking fright at the shiny sticks of a crowd of boys at the above named locality. Fortunately the ladies were enabled to jump out in time, while the horse dashed off at a runaway speed with the buggy, smashing it and breaking the shafts. But our informant states that the accident caused no interruption of the game of shiny.

Some Little Things of Value.

If your coal fire is low, throw in a tablespoonful of salt, and it will help it very much. A little ginger put into sausage meat improves the flavor. In icing cakes, dip the knife into cold water. In boiling meat for soup, use cold water to extract the juices. If the meat is wanted for itself alone, plunge it into the boiling water at once. You can get a blotch or stain of oil off any carpet or woolen stuff by applying buckwheat plentifully. Never put water to such a greasy spot, or liquid of any kind. Broil steak without salting. Salt draws the juices in cooking; it is desirable to keep these, if possible, Cook over a hot fire, turning frequently, searing both sides; place on a platter, salt and pepper to taste. Beef having a tendency to be tough, can be made very palatable by stewing gently for two hours with salt and pepper, taking about a pint of the liquor when half done, and letting the rest boil into the meat. Brown the meat in the pot. After taking up make a gravy of the pint of liquor saved. A small piece of charcoal in the pot with boiling cabbage removes the small Clean oilclothes with milk and water; a brush and soap will ruin them. Tumblers that have milk in them should never be put in hot water. A spoonful of stewed tomatoes in the gravy of either roasted or fried meats is an improvement. The skin of a boiled egg is the most efficacious remedy that can be applied to a boil. Peel it carefully, wet and apply to the part affected. It will draw out the matter and relieve the soreness in a few hours.

British Barque George Davis.

This fine staunch ship, named in honor of our distinguished townsman, Hon Geo. Davis, has again appeared in our harbor, consigned to her old consignee, Messrs. Alex. Sprunt & Son. Capt. Campbell reports heavy weather and contrary winds during the greater part of his passage from London, and is more than ever pleased with the good sailing qualities of his ship, sustaining her reputation for having never been overtaken by any sail at sea since she was built.

Assuming that the population of this town is 3,500, the death rate of the community the past year stands at 1 in 103, which is nearly one-half less than the reported death-rate of Raleigh, it being 1 in 57; and something less than one-third that of Wilmington.—Goldboro Messenger.

While we are ready to rejoice with our neighbor of the Messenger over the good health of his town, we see no reason why the rejoicing should be at the expense of Wilmington. His estimate as to Goldboro may be correct but it is certainly wrong as regards Wilmington. The official records and reports of deaths here, for both white and black, place the rate at about 22 to the thousand or 22 per hundred.

Painful Accident.

Mr. J. D. Natt, a young citizen of this place, who is a clerk in Messrs. Green & Plummer's drug store, met with a painful accident this forenoon. He had just filled a small bottle with carbolic acid and was endeavoring to fit a cork into the mouth, when from some cause the bottle exploded throwing the corrosive material over his face and hands, and burning him dreadfully. He was at once carried home and Dr. Wood called to his assistance. Everything possible was done for his relief, and at last accounts he was somewhat easier. Dr. Wood made as careful an examination as could be made under the circumstances, and we are glad to learn from him that he does not think that the eyes have been injured.

City Court.

Alice Beatty, colored, was arraigned for being drunk and disorderly. Officer Grant who made the arrest, testified that he was called upon yesterday by the proprietor to move the woman out of Mr. Scott's store on Market street. That he arrested the defendant and had progressed as far as the Market House, when he was compelled to call in officer Billy Griffith's assistance, the woman being so drunk he couldn't get along with her, and finally they were compelled to call into requisition a dray and haul her to the Guard House. The Chief of Police stated that the defendant smashed the window glass in the Guard Room, and then danced a sort of holy dance on the fragments, claiming she had religion, and made such a terrible noise and row that the Janitor was compelled to lock the prisoner in the cell. The Mayor pronounced sentence of $10 or twenty days. There being no further business, the Court adjourned.

The First Blast.

There was a meeting of the Republican State Executive Committee held in Raleigh last night. Gen. Manning and Mr. W. P. Canaday were present from this section. Mr. Canaday, Gen. Rufus Barringer and Messrs D. H. Starbuck and A. D. Jenkins, ex-State Treasurer, were appointed as delegates to the National Convention which meets in Chicago. The time for holding the State Republican Convention is fixed for June, day not mentioned. These facts were received here to-day by telegraph.

Southern Historical Society Papers.

The February number of this magazine has been received, and maintains the standard of excellence and interest which have characterized its pages from the outset.

The number before us contains the following articles, which will be read with interest by the survivors of the scenes they describe and delineate:

'Sherman's Meridian Expedition and Sooy Smith's Raid to West Point,' A Review by General S. D. Lee; 'Lieutenant Charlie Peirce's Daring Attempt to Escape from Johnson's Island,' by Lieutenant McNamara; 'History of Lane's North Carolina Brigade,' No. 3, by Brig. Gen. James H. Lane; 'Prison Life at Fort McHenry,' by Rev. Dr. T. D. Witherspoon, late Chaplain of the Forty-second Mississippi Regiment; 'Battle of Gettysburg,' report of Gen. Junius Daniel, besides Editorial paragraphs and Literary notes.

The work is a valuable acquisition to the literature and history of the South, and we hope it may be read in the household of every Southern family. It is published monthly at Richmond, Va., at a subscription price of $3 per annum.

Narrow Escape.

Mr. P. W. Newkirk, engineer at the Navassa Guano works, had a very narrow and almost miraculous escape from death while attending to his duties as engineer at the above named works this morning. It seems that Mr. Newkirk's clothing was caught by the cogs of the gear wheel and he was thrown into the mill pit, but how he escaped or when he was extricated from his perilous position, he is unable to tell, but he must have crawled out himself as the machinery was not stopped. He says he only recollects his clothes being caught and his body being jerked into the mill pit as stated above. Luckily for Mr. Newkirk he has no dangerous injuries though he is pretty severely bruised. Dr. W. W. Lane was telephoned for, and took passage in the company's little steam yacht, which was fortunately lying at the company's wharf here with steam up when the telephonic despatch was received. The injuries from which Mr. Newkirk is suffering are several scalp wounds, besides a bruise or cut on the nose and possibly a broken collar bone. We saw and talked with the injured man about 3 o'clock this afternoon and the above are the facts connected with the accident as he related them to us. Mr. Newkirk is the son of Dr. A. F. Newkirk, and has many friends in this city who will be glad to hear of his truly wonderful escape from death.
