PENDER COUNTY.

Democratic County Convention. Pursuant to previous general notice the delegates to the County Convention called to appoint delegates from Pender to the Congressional Convention, to be held at Fayetteville on the 2d of June and to the State Democratic Convention, to be held at Raleigh on the 16th of June next, assembled at the Court House in Burgaw, at 12 o'clock M., on Saturday, April 24th, 1880.

Dr. E. Porter, Chairman of the County Democratic Executive Committee, called the Convention to order, and, on his motion, Mr. Thomas Williams was appointed temporary President. Drs. George F. Lucas and W. C. Murphy were elected temporary Secretaries.

The President explained the objects of the Convention in some appropriate remarks. On motion the temporary officers elected were made the permanent officers of the Convention.

A committee of one delegate from each township in the county was then appointed on Resolutions. The following gentlemen composed the committee, viz: Lincoln—W. E. Scott. Grant—James W. Poy. Rocky Point—E. Porter. Caswell—James F. Moore. Union—D. W. Rivenbark. Columbia—A. C. Ward. Holly—James M. Shaw. Caintuck—George W. Corbett. Holden—George A. Ramsey.

The committee retired, and, after due consultation and deliberation, returned and reported the following resolutions: We, the representatives of the Democracy of Pender, chosen by ballot at the primary township meetings of the people, do now, in county convention assembled, resolve,

1st. That the steady and long-continued encroachments of the Republican party upon the cherished and sacred rights of the people, and upon those great principles of State sovereignty and constitutional liberty that are the life-blood of our popular form of government, are not only wrong, unjust and oppressive, but fearfully and alarmingly on the increase. The existence and perpetuity of that glorious form of government established by our forefathers, and handed down to us by the wisest and best men of our common country, are more than ever imperilled by the doctrines, practices and tendencies of the Republican administration.

2d. That we will use our patriotic energies to defeat and overthrow a party thus fraught with great danger to the best interests and rights of the people, and to the holy cause of freedom, and that we will call upon our fellow-citizens at large to imbue themselves with that spirit of liberty and love of country which constitutes an animated principle and cherished boon to every true American citizen, and to unite with us in efforts to redeem North Carolina and the country by a Democratic triumph at the next general election.

3d. That the vital importance of redeeming this district, and the evident determination of the opposition to run their strongest man, demands, as of the highest consideration, harmony in our ranks, and the selection of the strongest and best man as our candidate. Any question of section or locality is subordinate and nonessential in this contest, and we appeal to our Democratic brethren in our sister counties of the district to ignore and disregard it altogether, and to unite with us in the paramount principle and high duty of nominating the man who will make the most, brilliant campaign, excite the most enthusiasm, and secure the most votes.

4th. We believe that Charles M. Stedman, of Wilmington, is that man, we heartily recommend and endorse him as the choice of the Democratic party of Pender for Congress. In so doing we re-echo and adopt the truthful words of our own patriotic McClammy, when he says that Major Stedman is a soldier of a brilliant and stainless reputation, a man of the finest business habits, a graceful orator and a changeless friend, most widely and favorably known; a man who rose by his own exertions to the proud place which he occupies in the popular affections of the people and for the people, who, upon the very eve of the last contest, declined the use of his name because he was apprehensive it would create discord in the ranks of his party; believing that his nomination will secure to the party a leader about whose ability to redeem the district there can be no doubt.

5th. That the delegates from this county to the Congressional Convention are hereby instructed to vote for him and to use all fair and honorable means to secure his nomination.

MEMORIAL DAY.

As time in his ceaseless flight carries us further from the sad scenes of the past, there seems to be a manifest increase of interest in the observance of the day set apart in which to decorate the last resting place of the heroes that sleep. It is fitting and proper that it should be so; not only that those who knew them in the pride of their heroic manhood should keep them fresh and green in memory's hallowed chambers, but that those who come upon the stage of action since those bloody days, shall be taught to honor and cherish and venerate the names of the patriot heroes who became a willing sacrifice on the altar of human liberty.

The interest taken in the day has exhibited itself in a very peculiar manner. There is a general suspension of business, more general and more thorough than we have ever known here before, there being scarcely half a dozen business houses in all open on Market, Front, Second and Water streets, many of the closed stores being tastefully draped in mourning colors and yet the attendance in the procession was the smallest that we have known yet.

The principal features in the procession was the presence of twomilitary organizations, that of the Association of Officers of the Third North Carolina Infantry and the various bodies of school children, with the Cornet Concert Club in the van. The absence of private citizens was painfully noticeable. This, however, is accounted for by the fact of the sudden and intense heat of the weather, which induced so many to repair at once to Oakdale more at their convenience than if they had gone there at the slow gait of the procession.

The line was not fully formed until some little time after the hour specified and at 8:50 it moved forward. Arrived at Oakdale a large crowd was seen to be already assembled. As the procession arrived in view of the Cemetery the Cape Fear Light Artillery fired minute guns from the hill overlooking the gates.

The services in the Confederate Lot were opened with a dirge by the Cornet Concert Club when a brief but touching prayer was made by the Chaplain, Rev. E. A. Yates, as follows: Almighty God, we acknowledge Thee to be our God, our rightful Sovereign, and the proper object of our worship and service. Help us, we pray Thee, that in coming into Thy presence at this hour, we may have some just appreciation of the greatness of Thy character, and be heartily thankful for the varied expressions of Thy wonderful goodness.

After a vote of thanks to the officers, the Convention adjourned sine die. THOMAS WILLIAMS, Chairman. GEO. F. LUCAS, & W. C. MURPHY, Secretaries.

PLEASE NOTICE.

We will be glad to receive communications from our friends on any and all subjects of general interest but: The name of the writer must always be furnished to the Editor. Communications must be written on one side of the paper. Personalities must be avoided. And it is especially and particularly understood that the Editor does not always endorse the views of correspondents, unless so stated in the editorial columns.

The prayer was followed by a dirge from the Band, this by a Memorial Ode by the Choir, and then Chief Marshal Stevenson presented Major Graham Daves, the Orator of the occasion: MAJ. DAVES' ADDRESS.

We wish we could publish in full here the admirable address delivered by this gentleman, the chosen orator for the occasion; that we do not do so we assure our readers is no fault of ours. We can only give a weak synopsis, which does not by any means do anything like justice to the speaker's effort.

Proceeding, he compared the sad ceremonies of our own "Memorial Day" as one of similar import and significance. It was a day set apart from the every-day actualities of busy life when, as in the Christian calendar, "on All Saints' Day the faithful of other lands visit the graves of those of the Church militant who do rest from their labors and strew with tears and garlands their last resting place on earth. With us, as with them, the day is a hallowed one, fitly chosen and reverently observed.

The speaker referred to the origin of the Ladies' Memorial Association and to the fact that this day fifteen years ago the last lingering hopes of those who had fought and suffered for four long years were laid down, never to be taken up again, when Johnston surrendered the remnants of his ragged veterans. The Army of Northern Virginia had already laid down their arms, and Johnston's surrender was really the close of the war as it was the end of all organized resistance to the Federal forces.

A very prominent idea in Maj. Daves' remarks, and one which struck us as being most happily conceived and handsomely expressed, was his reference to the heroes of the Revolution and the relation they bore to those who fifteen years ago laid down their arms at Appomattox and Greensboro before the vast hosts led by Grant and his lieutenants.

The speaker regretted that political differences of opinion could not have been adjusted without an appeal to the arbitrament of the sword. Two sections of the country, both equally sincere and honest in their convictions, but viewing the situation from entirely different stand points, left no alternative but war, and neither should now question the sincerity of the other. While those who followed the fortunes of Jackson and Stuart and all who sympathized with them must accept the situation in as good faith as they would have done if they had been the victors in the contest, they are not bound to forget the memories of their heroic dead, nor submit without a protest to misrepresentation. As human intelligence is not infallible, there is a possibility of error, but we claim the right to appear in history, after the prejudices and animosities of the war shall have been healed, with our case unprejudiced by any distorted statement of facts, and, claiming that, as a people who, convinced of the integrity of our purposes, and acting according to our best lights, proved our faith by staking all in the issue, we shall submit cheerfully and confidently to the judgment of that tribunal.

The speaker was confident, from his observation of the signs of the times that Stricken with Paralysis.

We regret to learn of the sudden illness of Col. Henry G. Flanner, of the firm of Green & Flanner, of this city, which occurred on Saturday night, about 10 o'clock from a stroke of paralysis, which has affected his entire right side and rendered him speechless from the moment of the first stroke. Col. Flanner, we hear, had left his place of business and was on his way home about 9 o'clock, when meeting a friend in the street, for a few minutes conversation, and as they turned to walk in the same direction, Col. Flanner remarked to his friend, who, like himself is a physician, that he felt very badly indeed, and could scarcely use his right hand. Just then the two gentlemen stopped at a news stand and Col. Flanner purchased a paper, and as he turned to walk away, his friend noticed that he dragged his right foot a little. From that moment Col. Flanner became speechless and has remained so up to the present time. Dr. J. O. Walker, who was the friend with him at the time, saw at once the nature of the attack and realizing the full force of the friend's condition immediately procured assistance and conveyed the sick gentleman to his home, where the shock to the family, although the news was broken as gently as possible, was dreadful indeed. Dr. Thos. F. Wood was called in to assist Dr. Walker and the two physicians worked faithfully by the bedside of the stricken man all night, doing all that human skill and human energy could possibly accomplish, or even suggest, to relieve the sufferer. But up to this day at noon no noticeable improvement of a decided character has been perceived. Col. Flanner's condition, all day yesterday throngs of citizens crowded the residence of the unfortunate gentleman, making anxious inquiries into his condition, but no favorable response was elicited from any of the gentlemen of the medical fraternity, nearly all of whom went in person to offer their sympathies and aid to the family.

About noon to-day Dr. Flanner was thought to be a shade better, he has shown some slight signs of consciousness, imperfect though they were. We most earnestly trust that we will be enabled to report to-morrow a decided improvement in his condition.
