The funeral services will take place to-morrow afternoon, at 5 o'clock, from St. James' Church thence to Oakdale Cemetery.

The Hartley-Denck Combination.
There is a prospect of a large house to-night, as early this morning over one hundred seats had been taken. It is not often that the citizens of Wilmington have the opportunity of attending such an entertainment, and we hope that none who love good music, or a hearty laugh, will remain at home. The programme is entirely different from the one of Tuesday night, and in compliance with a very general request, Mr. Hartley will render his famous sketch, by Mark Twain, entitled "Buck Fanshaw's Funeral."

Window Glass of all sizes, Doors, Sash and Blinds, Builders' Hardware, &c. Low at prices at JACOBI'S.

A Heavy Rain.
This section was visited by a heavy rain storm last night, accompanied by thunder and lightning. It continued for several hours and the record of rainfall during the night at the Signal Office is .89 of an inch. It came from the West and was first noted at Shelby, 242 miles distant from Wilmington, where it is said the rain was one of the heaviest ever known there. From thence the storm traveled rapidly down the Carolina Central Railway, reaching this city a little after nightfall. The rainfall was extensive all along the line of the road between this city and Shelby.

About to Leave us.
Dr. M. J. DeRosset, the celebrated oculist and quirit who has been spending the past three weeks with his relatives in this city en route from San Antonio, Texas, to New York City, will, we learn, take his departure for the great metropolis, where he expects to locate permanently, on Monday next, and resume the practice of the specialties of his profession in which he has gained so wide a reputation in the country at large for his many skillful operations during his previous residence there. We regret exceedingly to lose Dr. DeRosset, and sincerely wish that the field was sufficiently large to justify his locating permanently in our midst. We saw yesterday a man whose eyes had been crossed from infancy, looking at us as straight as a pair of eyes possibly could look, which was all the result of a skillful operation by this eminent surgeon. But this is only one of many skillful operations which Dr. DeRosset has performed during his short stay here.

Messrs. Adam G. Latta and C. D. Ellis, formerly of this city, but both now of Savannah, Ga., are here on a visit to their friends and relatives in this place. We are glad to see them looking well.

Mr. Best left here last night on the Northern train. If he came here on business the fact remains to be known. He received a number of callers during the day and his visit to Hon. Geo. Davis, alluded to by us yesterday, was understood, merely one of courtesy.

We regret to say that Dr. Flanner's condition is much more unfavorable to-day. The physicians, we hear, are to have a special consultation this afternoon at 5 o'clock, and the friends of the sick gentleman can rest assured that all that human skill can do or suggest to battle the disease and relieve the sufferer, will be done, without a doubt.

Thirty-Seven Years Ago To-Day.

This is the thirty-seventh anniversary of the most disastrous fire which has ever visited Wilmington. It was a Sunday forenoon, about 10:30 o'clock, April 30th, 1843, that the alarm was given. The wind was blowing a half gale from the South and the streets were deserted, the churches being all well filled. Dr. Whitesford Smith, one of the most eloquent divines the South has ever produced, was preaching in the old Methodist Church, which was then a wooden building and which stood on the site of the present beautiful edifice. The congregation was a very large one, and it was the last service ever held in that building.

The alarm of fire was given at about half-past 10 o'clock. It caught on the shingle roof of a frame warehouse which then stood just in the rear of the site now occupied by Messrs. P. L. Bridgers & Co's. handsome store, on North Front street. The fire was communicated by means of a spark from the kitchen on the premises of the Cape Fear bank, the same building now occupied by Messrs. Jackson & Bell. The flames, fanned by the high wind which prevailed at the time, spread with a fearful rapidity, and the result was that all of that portion of the city lying between Water and Nutt streets on the West, Princess street and the Cape Fear bank on the South, Second street on the East and the woods on the North, with the exception of the old Lazarus building on the wharf, now occupied by Messrs. B. F. Mitchell & Son and Williams & Murchison, and the residence of the late Mr. John C. Bowden, corner of Chestnut and Second streets, was destroyed. The fire swept straight up Front street, and nothing could stay its progress, as long as it could find anything to feed on. So rapidly did it spread that in some instances houses were destroyed before their contents could be removed. In one residence, corner of Front and Chestnut streets, on the site of the elegant house afterwards erected there by the late P. K. Dickinson, arrangements were in progress for the celebration of the marriage of the eldest daughter of the house, which was to have taken place in a few days, and so rapidly were the flames borne by the wind that a portion of the wedding paraphernalia was lost in the fire which destroyed the house. Among the last to be burned were the Methodist Church and the workshops of the Wilmington & Weldon R. R., then, as now, at the head of Front street. Some idea of the fierceness and fury with which this conflagration raged may be gathered from the fact that large cinders were carried by the wind to the Sans Souci plantation, two miles from the city, where they ignited several stacks of rice-straw.

Morse and Maury.
Hon. A. M. Waddell is to deliver his famous lecture, entitled "Two Americans: Morse and Maury," in the Presbyterian Church at Carthage, on next Thursday evening, May 6th. There is a treat in store for those Carthaginians, such as even Queen Didie never enjoyed. The probabilities are that there will be a large turnout on the occasion.

Save your money and buy your Building Supplies from Altaffer & Price.

It is now definitely ascertained that Bladen county has gone very largely for Maj. Stedman, 12 out of the 14 townships having gone for him.

Indications.
For the Middle and South Atlantic States, Lower Lake Region, Tennessee, the Ohio Valley and the East Gulf States, rising barometer, cooler northwest winds, clear or partly cloudy weather with occasional rain on the North Carolina Coast and in northern New York and lower Lake Region.

The Physical Paradox.
It has been said that "the blood is the source of life." It is as truly the source of disease and death. No life, that is to say, no healthy tissue can be generated from impure blood, no organ of the body can normally perform its functions when supplied with impure blood. The fluid that should carry life and health to every part, carries only weakness and disease. Blood is the source of life only when it is pure. If it has become diseased, it must be cleansed by proper medication, also every pulsation of the human heart sends a wave of disease through the system. To cleanse the blood of all impurities use Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and Pleasant Purgative Pellets, the most effective alterative, tonic and cathartic remedies yet discovered. They are especially efficient in scrofulous diseases.

DIED.

WANN—In Fernandina, Florida, April 26th of pleuro pneumonia, MARTHA ROSALIE beloved wife of Samuel A. Ewans.

Entered into that rest which awaiteth the Righteous, at 1:30 o'clock, this afternoon, Mrs. JANE A. DUDLEY, relict of the late Governor E. B. Dudley, aged 76 years. Gentle and peaceful in life, her pure spirit passed tranquilly from her slumbers here, to that "blessed sleep in Jesus, from which none ever wake to weep." Blessed are the dead who die in the Lord for they rest from their labors.

Her funeral will take place to-morrow, Saturday, afternoon, at 5 o'clock, from St. James' Church to Oakdale.

MR. HEINSBERGER, Dear Sir—I hereby tender you my thanks for the splendid Steiff Piano you furnished for my entertainment given Tuesday evening at Masonic Hall. I enjoyed playing upon the instrument very much. It is the best Steiff Piano I have ever played upon. The tone is round and full and "carries" well. I hope you will continue to keep such instruments on hand, and introduce them to the musical community of Wilmington as thoroughly as their merits demand. Yours, sincerely JOS. H. DENCK.
