The Funeral Yesterday.

The universal esteem and estimation in which Dr. Flanner was held was evidenced by the large outpouring of citizens in attendance yesterday afternoon on the funeral services. Within our experience we have never yet seen a larger concourse on any such occasion and certainly St. James' Church, whither the body was carried from the house, has never yet held a larger number of persons.
At half past four o'clock the solemn cortege moved from the residence of the family, corner of Third and Chestnut streets. The body was carefully placed within the hearse and the pall-bearers, Mr. R. J. Jones, Gen. M. P. Taylor, Hon. A. M. Waddell, Col. George Harris, Capt. Joseph Price, Mr. H. H. Munson, Capt. W. H. Northrop and Mr. W. H. Chadbourn, arranged themselves in order beside the hearse, the signal was given and the long, sad procession moved in silence forward. It was led by organizations, military and civic, of which the deceased was a member, the line being formed, first of the Cape Fear Light Artillery, under the command of Captain R. W. Price, the Veteran Corps of the W. L. I., commanded by the President of the Corps, Col. W. L. DeRosset, then the Wilmington Light Infantry, under command of First-Lieutenant Thos. C. James, and after that the two Masonic Lodges, St. John and Wilmington. A long line of carriages, filled with members of the family and their friends, followed the hearse. The military battalion was under command of Capt. A. L. DeRosset, of the Wilmington Light Infantry. The Cornet Concert Club, and the Drum Corps of the Wilmington Light Infantry were at the head of the procession.
The church was crowded, with the exception of the seats usually reserved on such occasions, long before the sad procession arrived at its doors. The body was met at the door of the sacred edifice by Rev. Drs. Watson and Patterson. Following the body came the family of the deceased and then the military and civic organizations filed into the church, seeking standing room where it could be found. The result was that all the aisles, North, South and central, were filled completely with those who were glad to obtain even standing room. There were probably as many persons outside who failed to gain admittance as there were altogether within the crowded church.
The music on the occasion was very sweet and very sad. As the two priests of the church advanced up the aisle in advance of the body, repeating the opening sentences of the burial service, Mrs. M. E. Cushing, at the organ, softly played Pleyel's German Hymn (the Dead March). Arrived in front of the altar the casket, which was covered with choice flowers, the tribute of loving hands, was placed on the bier and then the regular services began, Dr. Watson being assisted by Dr. Patterson, who read the beautiful and impressive lesson from II Corinthians, beginning: "Now is Christ risen from the dead and become the first fruits of them that slept." This was followed by that pathetic hymn, rendered by the Choir, "Nearer my God, to Thee," which also closed the services at the church.
The services at the grave in Oakdale were performed, first by the clergy and afterwards by the Masonic order and then the mortal remains of Henry G. Flanner were hidden from view by the fast falling earth. The military salutes followed, six rounds of two guns each by the Cape Fear Light Artillery and three volleys by the Wilmington Light Infantry, and then, loving hands having covered the mound with beautiful flowers, the sad services were completed and the assemblage dispersed.
The flag of the old Latham battery, that which Dr. Flanner carried from Appomattox, concealed next his person, and alluded to in our last, was carried to the grave with him.

Tenth North Carolina Regiment.

He was indefatigable and zealous in the discharge of his duty, and was highly esteemed as a competent and efficient officer. It is now understood that the last discharge of artillery fired by his battery and under his direction. After the war he returned to Wilmington and eventually established with Dr. Green one of the largest and most successful drug stores in that city. In February 1879, he was appointed by Gov. Vance the Chief of Artillery of North Carolina, which honorary appointment he held at the time of his death. A few days ago he was stricken down with paralysis in the streets of Wilmington and his condition gradually became worse until yesterday afternoon, when he joined the throng of noble spirits who had passed over the river before him.

Professors Hartley and Denck will give another, and probably the last, entertainment in this city at the Tileston Upper Room this evening. There will be an entire change of programme for the occasion, and the audience may expect a rich intellectual treat. "Turpentine," whose avocation is catching oysters and crabs, stated that he "couldn't go himself, but his ole woman would go." Board of Aldermen.

The Board of Aldermen met in regular monthly session at the City Hall Monday, May 3rd, 1880, at 3 p. m., His Honor, Mayor Fishblate in the Chair.
The reading of the minutes of the last meeting was dispensed with.
The Mayor announced the death, on the 1st inst., of Alderman H. G. Flanner, of the Second Ward, in the following appropriate and feeling remarks:
Gentlemen of the Board of Aldermen:
It is my sad duty to announce to you that since our last meeting death has entered our ranks and taken from our midst our genial and generous friend and collaborer on this board, Col. Henry G. Flanner. None of us who met here just one month ago would have imagined that in the short space of time that has intervened death would have made such a demand upon us as to compel us to surrender one of our most faithful and efficient members, one who went at the call of his country to do arduous duty on the field of battle and one who was ever ready at the call of his fellow-citizens to serve them in any capacity when their interest or welfare could be subserved by his able and persevering efforts. Of this board, Alderman Flanner was an efficient and faithful member, ever cherishing the interests of those whom he represented and of the community at large. Wise in counsel, active and energetic, he infused into the deliberations of this board the spirit of his mind and disposition, while his genial, generous traits of character endeared him to us all, Gentlemen, we deeply regret and sincerely feel our great and sudden loss.
Alderman Hill made a few appropriate remarks.
Alderman Bowden spoke at length and with much feeling at the loss sustained by him as a friend and Alderman.
Alderman Myers offered the following preamble and resolution which were unanimously adopted:
IN MEMORIAM.
Whereas, through the inscrutable dispensation of Divine Providence a member of this body has been suddenly taken from the scene of his labor and usefulness, we, the Mayor and Board of Aldermen of the city of Wilmington, deeply mourning the loss sustained by us and the community at large in the death of Col. Henry G. Flanner, desire to place upon our records a faint testimonial of the high regard in which the deceased was held, in his official capacity as an Alderman of the city and as a citizen of this community. Taken from our midst in the full vigor of his manhood and in the greatest activity of his mental and social endowments, the Divine decree which deprived the public of a faithful and efficient servant, society of a generous, genial companion and friend and an afflicted family of a continual reliance and comfort, falls upon us with appalling suddenness and leaves us in consternation at its fatal effects.
Resolved, therefore, That we, the Mayor and Board of Aldermen of the city of Wilmington, deeply sympathize with the family and friends of the deceased in their sudden bereavement.
Resolved, That Alderman's Room in the City Hall be draped in mourning for the space of thirty days; that a blank page of the records of this Board be inscribed with these resolutions.
Resolved, That the City Clerk transmit a copy of these resolutions to the family of the deceased and to the city papers for publication.
In offering the resolution, Alderman Myers said:
Mr. Chairman: There are times in our lives when we find it impossible to give expressive utterance to our feelings, but figures of speech and even the tongue fails us when we would say most. Since our last meeting death has invaded this board and broken our ranks. This vacant chair speaks to us all more feelingly than any words of mortal man and cannot fail to impress us with the shortness and uncertainty of human life. Only a few short days since, he who now lies cold and silent in his grave at Oakdale was here at his post in a vigorous manhood and the full flush of exuberant health.
Mr. Chairman, the members of this board grieve at the loss of one of its most earnest and faithful members. I, sir, mourn his loss as a friend and companion from boyhood. As Alderman he was ever alive to his duty, to those who elected him to his seat on this board and to the best interests of the city we represent. Sir, the city of Wilmington has sustained a grievous loss in the death of Alderman Henry G. Flanner, and I move, as one of the few remarks of respect we can show his memory, that this Board do now adjourn without transacting any public business, subject to the call of the Chair.
Adjourned.

City Court.

John Reynolds, colored, a stalwart in physique as well as politics, was arraigned by another stalwart of a different appearance, however, physically—commonly known as Dick Martin, the accordion player. Dick charged Reynolds with cursing and abusing him, besides striking him with his fist; the testimony of the policeman seemed to bear out the statement made by accordion Dick, and the Mayor told the defendant to hand over $5 or repose in the C. P. for ten days.
David Mallett, the half witted irrepressible, constitutional drunkard, appeared before the court this morning in a new role, the charge being an affray with Susan Frank, colored, in Daddy's Hollow, yesterday about 1 o'clock. The evidence seemed to convict both parties, and the Mayor sentenced the woman to pay a fine of $3 or suffer imprisonment for five days. Mallett, the other party to the affray, was ordered below for thirty days to be sent to the Work House. But His Honor was reminded that this was the day he had agreed to leave town, so judgment was suspended in his case, for the present, at least. This exhausted the docket and the Court adjourned.

Malaria Destroyed.

G. A. J. Gadois, of Brockville, Canada, certifies that he was prostrated by a malarial disease contracted in Texas, and was quickly and completely cured by the use of Warner's Safe Pills and Safe Bitters. He adds: "I shall never travel in that climate without your Safe Pills and Bitters as a part of my outfit."

TRIBUTE OF RESPECT.

At a meeting of the Cape Fear Lt. Artillery, held at their Armory on the evening of the 2d inst., the following preamble and resolutions were adopted:
Whereas, Death has invaded our ranks and stricken down our late Commander, Col. Henry G. Flanner, therefore, be it Resolved, That in the death of Col. Flanner this Company has lost its founder and best friend, the State a brave, true and patriotic citizen, a soldier who in the future, as in the past would have been ever ready to cheer, protect and defend her.
Resolved, That with sad hearts and sincere sorrow, we bow before the will of the Great Commander of the Universe, who has summoned him from our midst, and that we will ever cherish his memory.
Resolved, That as a token of our respect we wear the badge of mourning for thirty days, and that a copy of these resolutions be sent to his family and published in the city papers.
