Mr. Oldham's Address

At the suggestion of several of our friends we have been favored with a copy of the handsome little address delivered by Mr. E. A. Oldham on Thursday night before the Young Democrats in this city. It will well repay the surrender of space we make for its production.

Mr. President and Gentlemen of the Hancock, English and Shackelford Club:
You are here tonight to install in your youthful minds a spirit of patriotism, a love of thought and an honest devotion for noble principles—democratic principles.

Here on the verge of a bloody campaign you stand enlisted to a noble cause, one which your beloved fathers in their garment of halcyon and historic glory fought for on the bloody field of battle—a cause which numbers upon its roll of honor the noblest names in American history, the noblest names in the history of any country, and a cause whose fundamental principles are Justice, Right and Truth.

But a few more years will have elapsed when the mantle of manhood will have cast its folds of responsibility around your shoulders, and when it will become your duty to partake of the greatest privilege that an American freeman possesses: namely, the power to take to the ballot box the written exponent of your own free sentiments the expressed choice for the men who are to govern and protect you in the department of the Executive, who are to represent you in the councils of the Legislature. How commendable is it then that you thus early should begin unfolding the mysteries and unraveling the intricacies of American politics.

A few more years and we will have to assume the control of this government. The reins of administration which now our fathers hold must ere long be manipulated by us, and for our country's sake is our duty not only to "follow in the footsteps of our illustrious predecessors," but to strive to press far ahead of even the departed sages whose names shall never cease to reverberate through the whispering galleries of Time. (Great applause.)

To be all the better able to discriminate after we have passed the rubicon of manhood, between the political parties of our country, we here-to-night have taken our first step and that has been a Democratic one [Cheers]. Shall we ever vacillate to another party? This question is answered in the unwritten book of the future. Whether we are Democrats through heredity or influence or through the influence of the community's sentiments, it matters little, but we are Democrats from principle, [Applause] because we believe that party to be the right one, and the one which every true born Southerner should advocate and sustain [Great applause].

For many long years has the Republican party mislaid the destinies of this country; for many years it has pilfered the nation's coffers; for years its principal aim has been to antagonize the South and keep alive the sparks of national hatred, but thank Heaven, the dark night of Republican rule is soon to be succeeded by the glorious dawn of a Democratic day. [Cheers.] A political Napoleon is soon to rise. A power upon the ruins of government, kick the rabble into a corner and devote his whole term towards healing the ruptures of sectional animosity and dispensing right and justice to those who long have been oppressed by office-holders of a party that forever will be branded with a nation's hate. Who is he? One who bears upon his stainless escutcheon the name of a grand and magnificent statesman, one of nature's sort; the name of a truly 'superb' soldier, the hero of many battles and the Wellington of Gettysburg, the name of one who alone can close up the gaping sores of sectional strife, and the name of one who will administer the laws of this country with a discrimination which only a man of extraordinary and Washingtonian ability could do. Must I tell you his name? It, which is the true and honest pride of every Pennsylvanian and of every soldier, either of the blue or the grey, who fought for or against him, is General Winfield Scott Hancock [Frenzied and tremendous applause.] The man who for the next four years after November next, will be President, not of the Democratic party, but the Chief Executive of the whole nation. [Continued applause.]

For a moment allow your mind's eye to wander off through the vista of approaching elections into the bright and glowing future beyond and by the aid of imagination's mystic glass, the stability of our national government, as it will then be, appears before you like some huge presentment surpassing even the splendors of Oriental mythology and approaching high unto the fabled firmness of a modern Utopia. We will then be in all truth a nation of progress. From the sapphire waves of the Atlantic, over the mountains, across the broad prairies of the West, to the dark blue waters of the Pacific, the sound of the miner's pick, the bustle Western trade and Eastern traffic, all will proclaim that wealth—immeasurable wealth—a wealth that will be daily poured into the bosom of our republic, that a new era will be inaugurated, a day of progress will have dawned. [Cheers.] New England with her buzzing shuttles, the far West with her wealth of golden-grain and the great South while with its cotton and no longer characterized by Rip Van Winkleism, but a progressive, a manufacturing section, will all cry out in one unanimous voice that a new dispensation has come about, all through the workings of a noble party, with General Hancock and Mr. English at its head. [Thundering applause.] But in our enthusiasm for the Presidential nominees of the party, we must not forget to bestow a part of our attention to our local nominees. We have nominated for Governor a man who as far surpasses his opponent as does day the night. A man who has been the "architect of his own fortunes" and who by his own sterling merit has worked himself up to the prominence which is now his.

I will not speak of Gov. Jarvis' railroad policy for it has long ago been proven by the best men in the community that it will result beneficially to the entire State. And as for his voting for the Special Tax Bonds, fair minded Republicans themselves, who were members of the Legislature which had the subject under discussion unhesitatingly assert that he had no connection with the movement whatever. His opponent, no matter whether he be a veritable Socrates in wisdom, a Solon in jurisprudence, or a Luther in morality is the nominee of a party that was the blackest sort of record, and which has done more to make North Carolina a Rip Van Winkle State than anything else in existence. Ought we to support the representatives of a party whose very platform is for the land we love and appear to dislike for all good government and all true morality? Whose antagonism to what is known as States Rights has caused the country a bloody war, and a consequent prostration of inland trade and foreign commerce. The Republican party says Don Piatt in a recent number of the Washington Capital "like a good lad in bad company, rapidly degenerated into a composition of hypocrisy mingled with malice. To-day it is the representative of hate, and it is the strong intense partisan bitterness that keeps it so compactly together. Eliminate this doctrine, and dowerfully, defined adjunct, from the structure, and the cement would crumble into dusty flakes. It is its sole and dominant spirit; and a power of hate is a great power, but less in strength now than twenty years ago, for then the mask was so new and well fashioned that many of the purest and best were deceived by its semblance of sanctity." This is the party that has nominated Judge Buxton for Governor and can it be possible that any would allow their prejudices to lead them to vote for him—the representative of a party of hate—in preference to Governor Jarvis, him who stands as the choice of the party that has done more for the Union and North Carolina in particular than all other political organizations combined. [Applause.] Wipe away your prejudices for Gov. Jarvis. The day will come when you will yourselves see and thank him for his railroad policy.

But I have little fear that the dear old Cape Fear section made historic by the names of her Waddell's, her Davis, and her McRae's will lag behind in the coming contest, but to the contrary, when the sun shall have cast its last glooms over a redeemed country on the 2d of next November we of the Cape Fear and indeed the whole people of dear old North Carolina will have rolled up immense majorities for the nominees of the Democratic party. [Cheers.]

I thank you, Mr. President and gentlemen for this appreciated honor which you have done me, and conclude hoping that the Hancock, English and Shackelford Club of the city of Wilmington will prove itself a valuable auxiliary in the present campaign.

D. H. McLEAN, Esq.,
Col. D. K. McRAE,
Maj. C. M. STEDMAN,
Maj. D. J. DEVANE
And the following have also been invited and it is hoped will be present:
Hon. A. S. MERRIMON,
J. W. SHACKELFORD, Esq.,
Hon. A. M. WADDELL,
Capt. OCT. COKE.

The Wilmington & Weldon and Wilmington, Columbia & Augusta Railroads will issue tickets good for three days at two cents a mile each way, and the Carolina Central Railway will issue return tickets at greatly reduced rates, for which see circular. The Fayetteville, Smithville and Black River boats will issue tickets of the round trip for one fare. All Democrats are invited to participate.

By the General Committee,
F. H. DARBY, Chairman,
James W. King, Secretary.

Enforce the Vagrant Act.
To a casual observer as he walks along our thoroughfares, and especially on Water Street, at any time during the day, there appears a fine field for the enforcement of the vagrant act. There are too many idlers lounging around the street corners seeking the shady side and blocking up the sidewalk.

See a woman on horseback in another column, riding near Speer's Vineyards, with a bunch of Grapes from which Speer's Port Grape Wine is made, that is so highly esteemed by the medical profession for the use of invalids, weakly persons and the aged. Sold by Druggists.

Second Ward Club, on Third, right on Princess street.
Third Ward Club, on Princess, right on Third street.
Fourth Ward Club, will form in front of City Hall.
Fifth Ward Club, on Chestnut, right on Third street.

The Young America Hancock, Jarvis and Shackelford Club, under command of Capt. Keene, will form on Third street, right on Market.

The music in wagon will report at the junction of Market and Third street.

INSIGNIA.
The Marshals and Staff will wear a scarf of white cotton, with red rosettes for Assistant Marshals, and buff rosettes for Chief Marshal and Staff.

The procession will move at 7:45 sharp.

ORDER OF PROCESSION.
Chief Marshal and Staff.
Music.
Young America Hancock, Jarvis and Shackelford Club.

Speakers with Reception Committee in carriages.

First Ward Democratic Club, Assistant Marshal Wiggins.

Second Ward Democratic Club, Assistant Marshal Bowden.

Third Ward Democratic Club, Assistant Marshal Coney.

Fourth Ward Democratic Club, Assistant Marshal Watters.

Fifth Ward Democratic Club, Assistant Marshal Ferguson.

Visitors from the country are respectfully invited to join the procession. It is confidently hoped that every true-hearted Cape Fear Democrat will come out to swell the throng whose greatest pride will be to honor North Carolina's most distinguished sons, our GUESTS.

By order of the General Committee,
JNO. J. HEDRICK,
Chief Marshal.

COMMITTEE OF RECEPTION.
From Mr. F. H. Darby, Chairman of the City and County Democratic Executive Committee, we learn that Mayor S. H. Fishplate and Messrs Walker Meares, John D. Taylor, F. W. Kerchner and H. A. Bagg have been appointed a committee of reception to greet and receive the distinguished gentlemen who have been invited and are expected here on Tuesday next to speak at our grand Ratification Meeting.

Mr. Nathl Jacobi having been appointed agent for the Atlas Flow, parties in want of this celebrated Flow can now have their orders filled at JACOBI'S Hardware Depot, No. 10 S. Front st.

A Word to our Readers.
When you read of a remedy that will cure all diseases beware of it; but when you read of a pure vegetable compound which claims to cure only certain parts of the body, and furnishes high proof that it does this, you can safely try it with the assurance that it will help you. This is just what Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cure does. It cures all troubles of the lower portion of the body and none others. It will not help the toothache, ear-ache nor consumption, but it will put your body in a vigorous and healthy state where you can enjoy life and appreciate its good things. Try it.

My life was saved by Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cure.—E. B. Iakely, Selma, Ala.
