The pretty three masted schooner Mary Bear, the property of Messrs. Sol. Bear & Bros, in this city, is undergoing some repairs. The large and handsome two story building at Burgaw, near the depot, the first flo being occupied as a store and the upper part of the building as a hotel, owned and occupied by Messrs. The Wrick of the Fred B Rice,

From parties who have visited the illfated brig Fred B. Rice, we learn that the vessel lies stern on near Sloop Point, and imbedded some three feet or or more in the sand. It is thought that to un lertake to get the brig off will cost m re than the vessel is worth. The Underwriter's Agents hope to save the cargo, e insisting of lumber, and float it around by a small schooner into Wrightsville or some other Sound and then dispose of it. The wreeking crew are stripping the vessel of rigging, after which we suppose the hull will be allowed to remain on the beach and go to pieces.

Periodicals

The Southern Historical Papers for August and June, like all the numbers of this popular periodical, are full of reliable information to the student. Col. T. B. Roy, formerly on the late General Hardee's staff, undertakes in this number to vindicate the name and fair fame of his late chief from alleg d unjust aspersions cast upon the character of General Hardee by other grand officers, and to this end a very interesting letter highly complimenting General Hardee, both as a man and an officer, is produced from ex-President Davis. This letter, like all papers emana. ting from that eminent soldier and states. man, is very fine reading.

Reccollections of General Beauregard, by his Chief of Staff, General Thomas Jordan, is another interesting article in the present number-besides other i ter esting papers relating to the late war and Confederate heroes.

There was quite a wide sensation yesterday at a place on the line of the Wilmington & Weldon R. R., caused by the attempt of a beautiful young married lady to commit suicide. She had provided herself with two phials of laudamun, one of which she swallowed. Her husband soon discovered her situation and called in a physician who succeeded in neutralizing the effects of the drug and saving her life. The lady is young, beautiful and accomplished, adored by her friends and idolized by her husband. who has always been loving and devoted to her, and the attempt was undoubtedly the result of a fit of mental aberration caused by miasmatic sickness.
