The Star and the R. R. Combination.

The Star has waked up at last and found out about ten days or two weeks after the publication of the fact in the Review all about the railroad combination which was perfected by the stockholders of the different lines some time since in Baltimore, and which arrangement goes into effect to-day. We congratulate our neighbor upon his enterprise in at last giving publicity to a matter which concerns the interest of Wilmington very nearly but which was generally well known throughout the State before the Star waked up to the importance of the fact, and which, from reliable and trustworthy information, the Review had given to the world nearly two weeks ago, all of which has been copied from the Review in different papers in this and other States. So that not only has the Review enlightened the public of Wilmington with regard to one of the most important railroad combinations ever entered into within the limits of the State, but the people in other localities throughout North Carolina have, through the medium of the Review, been also informed upon the same subject. In matters of this kind, where the interests of Wilmington are so nearly concerned as in the matter of this railroad combination, our readers will find the Review in the future, as in the past, an authentic source from which to obtain the latest and most reliable information. When facts become known upon important matters of the kind, as they have been through the columns of the Review, then we remark upon the advantages and benefits likely to accrue to our port, but we scrupulously avoid indulging in "speculative expressions" as to the merits or effects of any proposed arrangement, unless we accompany such expressions with a full and interesting account of the facts in the case, certainly if we waited until ten days after the news had been published to the world, we would be very loth to express any opinion at all, and would rather seek to apologize for our unpardonable neglect to our readers, in not giving such important information before, rather than indulge a sneer at those who may have been more enterprising. Upon second thought, however, we will not commit ourselves to an opinion upon a matter of this kind as we hardly know what would be our course of conduct in such a case, never having been placed in a position where we were so derelict in giving to our readers full and late accounts of such important occurrences or transactions as this great Railroad combination, and which any sane man must see, from the very nature of the arrangement, is so pregnant with beneficial results to the merchants, business men and real estate owners of Wilmington.

What Newspapers are Published For.

Some people have an idea that a publisher publishes his paper for almost anything but to make money. In fact, this class of people is very numerous—too numerous for the good of the newspaper fraternity. Compliments are very acceptable, and thanks cheer the publisher, but bread and butter is what he and his family live upon. Publishing is a business just the same as manufacturing or keeping a store. A manufacturer or storekeeper would think a man crazy who came into his office every little while, and after complimenting his goods, asked him to give him a few of them. This is just the kind of customers the publishers must expect to deal more or less with six out of seven days in the week. We are not speaking of men who are advertisers and who have bought a right to some privileges in the paper. We are speaking of that immense class of dead heads, who send a six cent puff of their business in a three cent envelope, closely written on both sides; and of another numerous class who are constantly dropping in, or dropping it in on the publisher, in little dribbles, sandwiched in between a smile and a compliment and a mustard seasoning of cheek. The sooner these people find out that every inch of a publisher's space is so much money to him, the sooner will publishers see a little profit in their business.

The Telegraph and the Railroads.

The report of Messrs. D. G. Worth, Jno. D. Taylor and M. Cronly, the Commissioners appointed to decide on the matter in controversy between the W. & W. and W. C. & A. Railroad, and the American Union Telegraph Company, have rendered a decision which will be found below. It is as follows:

STATE OF NORTH CAROLINA,
New Hanover County.
In Superior Court, Sept. 15, 1880.
The American Union Telegraph Co.
vs.
The Wilmington and Weldon R. R. Co.

The Commissioners, M. Cronly, D. G. Worth and John D. Taylor, appointed to "ascertain and determine the compensation which ought justly to be made" by the American Union Telegraph Company to the Wilmington and Weldon Railroad Company in the above entitled cause, having heard the evidence and the argument of Counsel, met on Tuesday, the 14th day of September, 1880, (all being present) and after due deliberative the undersigned, a majority of the Commission (M. Cronly dissenting) respectfully make the following report:

They find the amount to be paid by the said Telegraph Company to the said Railroad Company to be $10,000, eight hundred dollars. In coming to this conclusion they endeavored to ascertain what the right of way over the land would be worth for the most available purposes to which it could be put. They knew of nothing for which it would be so valuable as for telegraphic purposes. They then endeavored to ascertain what was its value for such purposes. From their interpretation of the contract between the Western Union Telegraph Company and the Wilmington & Weldon R. R. Co., the said Telegraph Company, only pays in money to the said R. R. Co. an annual rental of four (4) dollars per mile, the balance of the fourteen mentioned, viz:—Ten dollars is paid in telegraphing, which, with other telegraphic arrangements, are counterbalanced by free transportation of men and material of the said Telegraph Company.

The said American Union Telegraph Company offered to the said Railroad Company to pay to it four (4) dollars per mile annual rental. Thus the two telegraph companies have fixed the market value for the rental. The length of the said railroad is one hundred and sixty-two miles. The annual rental then would be, at four (4) dollars per mile, six hundred and forty-eight dollars. Six hundred and forty-eight dollars being the interest on, ten thousand and eight hundred dollars they have fixed that sum as a just compensation to be paid by the plaintiff to the defendant.

The evidence is herewith submitted.
D. G. WORTH,
Jno. D. TAYLOR.

The same decision will hold good, pro rata, as regards the W. C. & A. R. R. for the 67 miles of road of which are in North Carolina, and therefore coming under the action of the Commissioners. The W. & W. R. R. in North Carolina is 162 miles, and the pro rata is therefore easily calculated.

It is understood that the American Union will appeal against this decision and that they will apply to Judge Gudgeon, in Chambers, for a new commission, failing in which they will pay the costs and withdraw the suit, and then we will have no new telegraph in Wilmington.

The third and dissenting member of the Commission is M. Cronly, Esq.

The News and Observer of yesterday's date, says: Mr. Paul C. Cameron has just returned from Virginia, where he saw Bishop Atkinson, at the old Sweet Springs. The health of the venerable Bishop has somewhat improved, but is yet precarious. He hopes to go to Asheville and spend the month of October there.

Window Glass—all sizes at Altaffer & Price's.

Not Generally Known.

It is not generally known that if a $1 greenback is neatly cut in two each of the halves is good for 50 cents at the Federal treasury. The same process can be carried on till the bill is divided into tenths, without injuring the aliquot value of its parts. This has been suggested as an easy way of finding small sums to send by mail now that the extremely convenient fractional currency has disappeared; but it is not likely to be generally adopted, a half-note being an awkward thing to pass except at a bank.
