A Stitch in Time.

Carpenters and brick layers, plasterers, and tiners all are in demand this week. If one wants a little carpentering done unless it is a pretty big job or contract he has to wait until the rush is over and people get settled down in their new abodes. Next month the stoves and grate men will all be engaged, so you had better take time by the forelock and not wait until old Jack Frost comes in on you some cold morning before breakfast.

Freight Matters.

Yesterday afternoon's Charlotte Press says: The General Freight Agent of the Atlanta & Charlotte and Carolina Central Railways, Messrs. Carpenter and Clark were in consultation to-day in this city looking to some freight agreement probably, between the two lines with an outlet at Wilmington. We heard that nothing definite was accomplished. Col. V. Q. Johnson was also in the city. The Carolina Central is not in with the 'combination' though it is acting through the Seaboard Air Line from Hamlet.

A Locomotive Turned Over.

We learn that as the material train, consisting of flatcars loaded with sand, was being backed down near the river on the W. & W. R. R. track this morning for the purpose of unloading the dirt with which it was loaded, into a place where the company is filling in and extending the wharf, the new made track—which was laid on this new ground—suddenly caved in and precipitated the engine completely over on its side down the embankment where it now lies, near the water's edge. The fireman escaped harm by jumping off, but the engineer, who is known as 'Old Man Jimmy Long,' was caught on the engine, but fortunately, we are happy to say, escaped injury by crawling out through the cab window.

No blame can be attached to the engineer, or, in fact, to anyone, as it was one of those unforeseen accidents which happens sometimes in all large-sized railroad families. There is no damage to the engine, and the only trouble occasioned will be the time consumed in getting the engine back on the track, and no doubt by this time to-morrow it will be 'right side up' again.

Contributions of articles necessary to the making a bucket of lemonade were solicited at a social gathering, an evening or two since, when one of the gentlemen present very liberally offered to furnish the water.

A Murderer Captured and Lodged in Jail.

Some weeks ago officer Simon Richardson, a Deputy Sheriff of this county, was in the party of several young men like himself one Sunday afternoon, and all of them citizens of Wilmington or this vicinity, but one, a low set copper-colored man, who answers to the name of Jim Black. After the party had separated one of Richardson's acquaintances inquired if he knew who that stranger was, to which question a negative reply was given. 'Well, I know him,' says the inquirer, 'and he is wanted in Marion, South Carolina, for committing a murder there.' Upon this information Richardson wrote to the Sheriff describing the man and received a telegram on receipt of postal as follows:

Jim Black, wanted by all means. One hundred dollars reward offered by Governor. Act at once.

(Signed) JOHN WILCOX, JR. Sheriff of Marion.

A day or two later Richardson also received a letter from Sheriff Wilcox under date of 24th of Sept., 1880, assuring him of the certainty of the reward and earnestly urging the arrest of Black, to which was appended a note from W. W. Sellers, Solicitor of the 4th circuit, stating that the reward offered by the Governor was not contingent upon a conviction but simply a safe delivery to the county jail. Officer Richardson then at once arranged his plan for the capture of the alleged murderer. J. O. Hill, J. P., was applied to immediately for a warrant which was issued on last Saturday, the 25th inst. But the bird had flown temporarily, only temporarily however, as the vessel on which he had shipped here from Shallotte, or Little River, South Carolina, had sailed from this port with freight for one of the above-named points. Last night, however, the white sails of the schooner Snow Storm, the vessel upon which Black had enlisted as one of the crew, were again seen in the waters of the Cape Fear, and early this morning Richardson, accompanied by Toney Ashe and armed with the necessary papers, boarded the above-named vessel, and sure enough there was their man, Jim Black. He was told by the officers that he was wanted, when he immediately asked if Sheriff Wilcox was in town. He signified his willingness to go but requested permission to go into his cabin and get his things; the request was granted but the officers followed soon afterwards and as they entered the companion way or cabin the prisoner was in the act of taking his pistol, a six shooter, out of his bunk, but before he could use it the officer grasped his arm and the next moment Officer Richardson had the irons on him.

The prisoner, Jim Black, alias Sam, was then taken before Justice Hill, who committed him to jail without bail, where the captive will await a requisition from the Governor of South Carolina according to due form of law before he is sent on to Marion. Justice Hill has notified His Excellency, Gov. Jarvis, by letter to-day, in accordance with the statute law bearing upon the case.

The murder is said to have been committed some time since last January, but further than that the officer who made the arrest knew nothing, not even the name of the murdered party. Sheriff Wilcox, in his letter to officer Richardson, said the murder was a most atrocious one, and that all classes of citizens in Marion, black as well as white, were anxious to see the murderer returned and brought to justice. But no further information than this in regard to the unfortunate affair was communicated.

Unfalling Signs.

The following signs for foretelling the weather for the next twenty-four hours are said to be used by the signal service bureau. In view of the fact that the said bureau has suspended the publication of the indications, every man can hereby become his own indicator: A deep, angry red at sunset foretells rain. Light red indicates fair weather. A yellow sky at sunset also indicates fair weather, unless there are numerous clouds of a deep yellow; when thunder storms may be expected. A green sun indicates fair weather. Heavy banks of clouds in the West at sunset foretell rain. Rapid changes of the color of clouds at sunset indicate rain. When the upper clouds move in a direction different from that of the lower clouds, or that of the wind then blowing, it indicates a change of wind. When the outlines of cumulus clouds are sharp, it indicates a dry atmosphere, and therefore presages fine weather. Small, inky clouds foretell rain. A light scud driving across hazy clouds indicates wind and rain. Remarkable clearness of the atmosphere near the horizon and unusual twinkling of the stars, are indications of approaching rain. Dew and fog are indications of fine weather.

The Performance Last Night.

The performance given at the Opera House last night, by the Old Plantation Minstrel Troupe, was greeted with a fair audience, but not near so large as we had hoped to see, and should have been, not only from the fact that the 'boys' had endeavored to present an entertainment worthy of patronage, but for the still further and more appreciative fact that the proceeds were to go to such a deserving charitable institution as the Oxford Asylum. We are pleased to hear, however, that the receipts netted a very snug little sum for the object in view.

The opening overture was exceedingly well performed. The jokes gotten off were amusing and, for the greater part, entirely original, and of a local character. The sentimental and comic songs were well rendered, and each in its turn was heartily enjoyed. The music by the orchestra, between the several parts, was a long way above the average rendered by professional troupes on similar occasions. The tight and slack rope walking by Master R. A. Hewlett, was gracefully and artistically performed, and would have done credit to a professional. Taken all together, we think the young men deserve to be highly complimented for the very successful manner in which they conducted their first entertainment.

We hope to see them before the footlights again shortly, and are confident that the Opera House will be better filled than it was last night.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., March 14th, 1879. DR. R. V. PIERCE, Buffalo, N. Y.: Dear Sir—I was treated by four different physicians with out avail for disease of the liver and uterus. Some time ago I commenced the use of your Favorite Prescription and Discovery, being at the time, confined part of the time to my bed. At first my improvement was slow, but I now find myself well after the use of four bottles of each of the medicines. With many, many thanks.
