The difference, says the New York World, between the actual cost of General Hancock's telegrams sent from New Or leans in 1868 and General Grant's estimate in 1880 of the cost of those telegrams, as reported by Dr. Fowler, is considerable. It is, in fact, the difference between $400, being General Grant's estimate, and $36, being the actur' cost as mersured by the bighest telegraph tariff. This amounts to $364, a number likely to take rank hereaf er in the respect of the people with 306 and 329.

A petition is being circulated in the New York Pre luce Exchange protesting against the illumination of the Exchange on the (ccasion of the Grant parade on Monday evening. A movement to illuminate is being made, and the petition is to be presented to the Board of Minagers at the same time that the request for illuminating the Exchange is made. The patition is being signed by memb re regardless of political affiliations, on the ground that the Exchange is non-partisan n politics.

Criminal Court

His Honor listened during the most of the ferenoon to the pleading of several members of the bar in tehalf of two other gentlemen of the legal profession, who had under the impulse of momentary passion brought about by a misunderstanding outraged the amenities and pro prietics of the Court Room by engaging in a personal altercation and ren ontre in the presence of the Court, for which conduct the Court impose la fine of $500 a piece. This morning, however, Hon. George Davis and Messrs. Do Brutz Cutlar and J. I. Macks pleaded with His Honor in behalf of these gentle ren. stating to the Court that the affair we very much regrette l by both of the gentlemen concerned, and that no d'srespect whatever wes intended to the Court, and that the whole matter had been a misra derstanding from beginning to end, which was now happily am cablyadjusted. His Honor said that he would reduce the fine to $100 apiece, as neither of the gentlemen in question were men of wealth; but that such conduct we am evil e :ample and he could not in corscience allow it to go unpunished.
