There are twelve republican Hancock clubs in New York city. The 'flopping' seems to have been progressing in a lively manner.

General Weaver makes no secret of the fact in his Indiana speeches that he is working solely for the defeat of the Democratic party.

Gov. Vance announces that he has placed his services at the disposal of the State Executive Committee, after the 20th inst., to speak in the Eastern part of the State, until the day of election.

The Connecticut Democrats are making the liveliest canvass the State has known for years, and, says the New Haven Register, they are making it with hopeful courage, and with the most excellent reasons for their hope.

Labor strikes seem to be alarmingly active in Great Britain. In the Birmingham district, in England, 20,000 nailers have struck for higher wages. A hundred thousand operatives in the Lancashire cotton mills contemplate acting in like manner unless their employers adhere to the promise made to them a year ago. At that time a reduction of ten per cent. was made in their pay, with the condition that if business revived wages would be raised to the former standard. The time, they say, has come for fulfillment of the agreement, and as yet the employers have made no sign. In the mining districts similar outbreaks and discontent prevail.

Major Robbins' Speech.

The Hon. Wm. M. Robbins, pursuant to published notice, and in accordance with the expressed desires of the State Executive Committee, and Congressional Executive Committee of this district, addressed the Democratic voters of Wilmington on Saturday night, from the balcony of the Western Union Telegraph office on Front Street. The distinguished gentleman was introduced by Mr. F. H. Darby, the Chairman of the Democratic Executive Committee of this city, in a very appropriate manner. The porch or balcony from whence Mr. Robbins delivered his speech was illuminated with Chinese lanterns overhead, while behind in the background was the National ensign and beneath on the body of the porch were the names of Hancock and English affixed to another flag, the Stars and Stripes. But the noise and confusion incident to a Saturday night, down town, were very annoying to the speaker causing him much embarrassment at times. But notwithstanding the nature of the surroundings, we consider that Major Robbins delivered himself of a first class stump speech, and one that was calculated to do a great deal of good in this section. The speaker's arguments were plain and practical, forcible and to the point. He appealed to the Greenbacker who was opposed to the domination of the Republican party and showed him most conclusively that his vote at this election for any other than a Democratic candidate was but a vote to keep the Republicans in power. Some of the speaker's illustrations were both happy and amusing; we have but space here for one. He said that the country had grown sick under Republican misrule and the better to illustrate his idea, he cited the instance of a man when he was taken with a chill; the blood left the hands and feet and flowed to the center of the body where it all congregated, and left the extremities cold and without warmth of any kind. But what was to be done to relieve the system under such circumstances? Why, the proper remedies were applied to diffuse the blood through the entire system once more and let each organ perform its proper function as was intended by nature. Now, continued the speaker, under the system of taxation carried on by the Republican party which has had control of the government for twenty years, the money from the internal revenue collections and other taxation has been draining the country and concentrating it at the center. The country has got a congestive chill, and what it needs more than all else to restore it to its proper condition is a little Democratic quinine and then we will see new life and health imparted to the body politic and the center of government will no longer absorb all the money and control it as is done now, but it will be diffused and sent throughout the land and give a warmth and vigor to all sections of the country. There will be no need of Greenback parties then. This was only one of many illustrations which were all happy and humorous, that the able speaker made use of. The speech made a good impression and we are inclined to think had a happy effect.

Major Robbins spent the day at the Sound yesterday as the guest of Major Stedman, returning to the city late last evening. Major Robbins speaks again at Burgaw today, and we hope the Democrats of Pender will listen attentively to his wise counsel and heed all that he says.

Miss E. HARRISS & HOWELL.
The announcement of the dissolution of this old and well-known shipping firm will be found in our advertising columns to-day. Mr. Howell withdraws, and C. C. George Harris, the senior member, will continue to conduct the business in his own name, just as he did a quarter of a century ago, when he was one of the most extensive ship-owners in the South.

Mr. Howell has been appointed to a position on the Carolina Central Railroad that of clerk in the President's office, and Paymaster on the road, which position his long business experience qualifies him to fill admirably.

Convicted and Sentenced.
During the session of the Criminal Court last week the following convictions were made and sentences passed: John Grady, colored, manslaughter, 20 years in the State Penitentiary. Love Ann Jones, white, accessory to commission of a heinous crime, 5 years. Henry Johnson, colored, larceny of cattle, from Brunswick county, 8 years. Peter Croom, larceny of demijohns, 5 years.

The convicts will be taken to Raleigh on Thursday morning under the escort of Dan Howard, the County Jailor.

Important to Voters.
No one is to register or vote except in that precinct where he is an actual and bona fide resident on the day of election. This means a voter who has continuously resided in or who has removed to a precinct in good faith, and who produces in the latter case a certificate that his name has been erased from the books of his former precinct. This certificate can be had up to the time of closing the registration books. Certificates of registration, that is, certificates allowing one to vote at a precinct other than that in which he registered, are not allowed. The following persons are not to vote: Minors, idiots and lunatics; persons who, after conviction, or confession in open court, have been adjudged guilty of felony or other infamous crimes, committed after January 1, 1874, unless restored to rights of citizenship by law.

Subject to the foregoing exceptions, all males born in the United States, or naturalized, who have resided in the State twelve months next preceding the election, and ninety days in the county, are qualified to register and vote in the precinct where they may reside on the day preceding the election. The residence of a married man is where his family resides; that of a single man where he sleeps.

Circular Letter No. 175.
The following, which we clip from the New York World of last Friday, will be found of general interest here among the merchants on Water street:

At a regular meeting of the Board of Managers of the New York Produce Exchange, held yesterday, in accordance with the report of the Committee on Trade on the communication recently received from the Wilmington (N. C.) Produce Exchange, the following resolution was adopted:

"Whereas, The movement of American produce from the United States to other countries is increasing year by year to a remarkable degree, whereby the resources of this country are being developed in every direction, and

"Whereas, It is of the utmost importance to the producer to know just what demand exists for the several articles of American produce as well as the source of such demand, information which can only be gained through the clearances of vessels at the several ports, and

"Whereas, The New York Produce Exchange has learned with regret that access to custom house returns has been denied the Wilmington Produce Exchange by virtue of circular letter No. 175, issued by the Treasury Department under date of December 15, 1879 in which collectors are, upon written request of a shipper or consignee, authorized to withhold from publication for ninety days statistics relating to the importation or shipment of any particular merchandise imported or shipped by them, and while compliance on the part of said collectors of customs districts with the last clause of said Treasury Department circular letter can only be of benefit to speculators or the few who may be desirous of controlling certain markets to the great injury of the general commerce and trade of the country; therefore,

"Resolved, That this Exchange, whose merchants represent the exporting interest of the country to a very large degree, deprecate the adoption of any measure by the Government which shall tend to the personal benefit of the few to whom such information is known at the expense of many from whom it is withheld, and they therefore respectfully but earnestly request the honorable Secretary of the Treasury to withdraw the authorization contained in the last clause of this letter and in its stead to give instructions to the several collectors of customs to offer the fullest and freest possible access to all returns of exports and imports not inconsistent with the performance of their official duties."

The receipts of cotton at this port today foot up 1,080 bales.

Another Pole Raising.
There was a flag pole 75 feet high above the ground, planted at Newton's Cross Roads, in Sampson County, on last Saturday, and a flag with the names of Hancock, Jarvis and Shackelford flung to the breeze from the top of the pole. A large gathering of the Democrats of old Sampson were there, and a speech upon the political issues of the day was made on the occasion by Mr. J. H. Curran, of this city.

The Theodor.
The captain of the Norwegian barque Theodor called on us today to correct a statement made by us on Saturday. He says that his ship takes out 1,150 bales, instead of 1,100, as we had it, and furthermore, in reference to the comparison made by us between loading here and at Savannah, he says that when the Theodor sailed from Savannah she had nothing in the cabin, nothing in the poop and nothing in the fore-castle, whereas these are now all filled. Capt. Danielsen was not with the ship at the time, and cannot, therefore tell us how many bales she took out from Savannah.

Water street merchants will keep their feet dry in Winter by wearing ROSENTHAL'S boots and shoes.

Dr. Patterson's Farewell.
There was a very large congregation present last night in St. John's church to hear the farewell sermon delivered on that occasion by Rev. George Patterson, D. D., the Rector of the Parish. We believe that there were present members from every white congregation in the city, with one exception, an evidence of the esteem in which the reverend gentleman has been held among our citizens generally, irrespective of denominational differences. Dr. Patterson was assisted in the conduct of the exercises by Rev. T. M. Ambler, Rector of St. Paul's and Rev. Daniel Morrell.

Dr. Patterson has been Rector of St. John's for something more than ten years past, since April, 1870. During that time he has seen many changes. Many new faces have come upon the scene and many of the most esteemed members of the church have been laid to rest. During his discourse last night he alluded to these things and stated (we quote from memory) that during the period of his ministrations he had baptized over 300 children and 72 adults; had read the burial service over the remains of 154 persons, had solemnized 50 marriages and had presented 140 candidates for confirmation.

The congregation part with Dr. Patterson with great regret. He has labored with them long and faithfully; has shared in their sorrows and joys and has been to them a true and earnest friend as well as a spiritual guide and teacher. He resigned the charge of St. John's for the purpose of accepting an invitation to travel and solicit for the endowment fund for the University of the South, at Sewanee, Texas. He will not leave the diocese, however, and will retain Wilmington as his home. He will serve at St. John's next Sunday but expects a summons during the following week to attend a meeting of the Board of Trustees of the University of the South, of which he is a member, to be held in New York during the sitting of the General Convention.
