a small rifle slung across her shoulder by a leather strap. She was paddling along leisurely, and when nearly half way across the pond, discovered an object moving in the water and, upon approaching closer, found that it was an immense five-pronged buck, which had been driv. en into the water by dogs. She immediately drew her rifle and, after taking sim, fired. As she pulled the trigger the buck made a sudden movement, and the ball, instead of reaching its mark, entered the animal's neck, making an ugly and painful wound. The buck, enraged by the pain, struck at the boat with one of its forelegs, shattering the frail bark in pieces. The boat sank at once, leaving Miss Merrill in the water with the struggling and infuriated animal. But she was plucky and could swim. She grasped the buck by the horns, and, deliberately drawing her hunting-knife, which was sharp as a razor, from her beltshe plunged it into the deer's neck, killing him almost instantly. She then swam to the shore, about the eighth of a mile, and hurried home, where she put on dry colthing, and, after procuring another boat, rowed out to where the dead back was floating and towed the animal to shore. When dressed the buck weighed over two hundred and seventyfive pounds, and was the finest one killed in this section for years. This is the eighteenth deer Miss Merrill has killed, and she is proud of her last adventure, which is the most thrilling one she has ever had. She intends having the buck's head stuffed, as a memento of her terrible struggle for life. One Experience from Many. "I had been sick and miserable so long and had caused my husband so much trouble and expense, no one seemed to know what ailed me, that I was completely disheartened and discouraged." In this frame of mind I got a bottle of Hop Bitters and I used them unknown to my family. I soon began to improve and gained so fast that my husband and family thought it strange and unnatural but when I told them what had helped me, they said "Hurrah for Hop Bit ters! long may they prosper, for they have made mother well and us happy."-The Mother.-Home Journal.

Some English Ladies

Country ladies in English homes, says the London News, do not stop at carrying out the tradition of their greatgrandmothers in ordering well their own households. They take a great and growing interest in the economic questions of modern times relating to sanitary reforms and improvements. They study the doctrine of political economy which may teach them how to raise the condition of their tenants, yet avoid the risk of pau-perizing. They plan cottages which with the name and resider ce of the Patentee. The at once. All furnished free, Address The at once. All furnished free, Address
