Water street merchants will keep their feet dry in winter by wearing ROSENTHAL'S boots and shoes.

There is an old saying, that the first twelve days in January indicate the weather of each month in the year. If any day of the twelve is fair then the month represented by that day will be fair. Those who believe this, should keep a record of the weather and temperature of those days and they will have a weather report for the whole year.

Death of Mr. Sanders.

Mr. John A. Sanders, a venerable citizen of this section, died here this morning, at the residence of his son-in-law, Col. George Harris. The immediate cause of his death was pneumonia, but he had long been a sufferer with cancer. He was among the oldest of our citizens, and was in the 72d year of his age. The funeral services will take place to-morrow morning, at 10 o'clock.

Unparalleled Brutality.

A case of unparalleled brutality of a father to a child was committed in Brunswick county a few days ago. About six weeks ago Samuel Hurst and wife, colored, who were laborers on the "Lilliput Farm," about 14 miles below this city, left their child in a house, propping up the door to keep it in. The door fell down and crippled the child. About two weeks ago the wife and mother left her home and came to this city and has not yet been heard from. Sunday Sam Hurst wrapped the child up in a blanket and placed it in front of a blazing fire, locked the house up and went off and did not return for several hours. Upon his return he discovered the house on fire and the roof was then about to fall in. Had he felt disposed he could have saved his child by opening the door but instead of doing what is expected of every parent he wheeled upon his heels and walked off. An inquest was held over the charred remains of the child and the evidence against the man was so strong that he was committed to jail.

Ye Pimpled and Ulcerated Victims of scrofulous diseases, who drag your unclean persons into the company of better men, take AYER'S SERRAPARILLA, and purge out the foul corruption from your blood. Restore your health, and you will not only enjoy life better, but make your company more tolerable to those who must keep it.

Lippincott's Magazine

The January number of Lippincott's Magazine, which opens a new series at a reduced price, presents itself in an artistically designed cover that at once attracts and pleases the eye. This favorable impression is more than confirmed by an examination of the contents, which are generally light and of a thoroughly popular character, while marked by literary excellence of a high order. The illustrations, too, are carefully executed, the new arrangement of the editorial matter cannot fail to prove attractive, and altogether the number is full of promise.

The opening article, an account of a Roman Art-School, is from the vivacious pen of Mrs. Margaret Bertha Wright, and is illustrated from drawings by a clever young French artist, M. Mathieu. "An Old New England Seaport," by Charles Burr Todd, recalls the checked history of New London, Conn., whose grass-grown streets, decayed warehouses, and rotting hulks were once filled with the bustle of traffic and adventure. The illustrations have what is nowadays the rare merit of being faithful transcripts of the scenes and objects they profess to represent.

The artist's pencil has also been employed to heighten the attractiveness of a novelette, to run through three numbers. This story, entitled "Lilith," from the name of the heroine, is certain to make a strong impression. The scene is laid in Indiana, the characters are numerous and graphically contrasted, and the incidents are told with dramatic force. Among the short stories, "The Called Meeting," by Jennie Woodville, is one of the most admirable and amusing sketches of negro character ever published.

There are several articles in the number deserving more detailed mention than we are able to give them.

The "Monthly Gossip" is greatly extended. Over a dozen short and spirited papers, by various contributors, make this department a multum in parvo full of entertaining matter for readers of every class.

Just as Easy.

Combination safe locks may be a very good thing, but sometimes they are a little puzzling. Take the instance of a vault lock belonging to the Wayne county Bank, at Wooster, O. The officials forgot the combination and were for nearly two months unable to get at $10,000 too securely locked up. Presently a stranger came to the town and volunteered his services to remove the difficulty. What must have been the surprise of the officers of the bank when the new-comer mastered the lock in a few minutes. Now, it would, in the first place, be of interest to know the profession of said stranger, and in the second to discover whether all combination locks can not be as readily opened if the right sort of fellow comes along.

Rise birds are about played out. Not so with those Scotch soles at ROSENTHAL'S. They last for ever.

The Sun.

Sun spots that can be seen by the unassisted eye are rare. Such a spot is now visible a little to the right of and below the centre of the sun's disk. By protecting the eye with a piece of smoked or colored glass, the spot may be seen like a black speck on the smooth, yellow surface. An opera glass magnifying three or four times makes the spot conspicuous. A telescope shows it to be composed of two huge spots, each many thousand miles in extent, and surrounded by a vast shadowy border, or penumbra. A notion may be formed of the tremendous forces that are at work upon the sun when it is recollected that the earth could probably be dropped into either of the two charms that this spot contains. Yet such holes in the sun are often formed or closed up in a few days or even a few hours.

We advise our friends to call at JACOBI'S for real Silver Plated Tea and Table Spoons and Forks, Roger's Ivory handled Table Knives, Pen and Pocket Knives. All for Christmas and at the lowest prices.

DIED.
