Don't forget the N. Y. Enamel Paint, ready mixed and warranted, at JACOBI'S.
 Remember the deserving poor, and do something to make them remember you.

The concert under the management of Professor Van Lear will take place at the Opera House on Wednesday evening next.

The city clock is again at work and now strikes the hours of the day and night, which is a great convenience to our citizens.

The unprecedented demand for Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup has had the effect of bringing out numerous similar remedies; but the people are not so easily induced to make a trial of the new article, when they value the old and reliable one—Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup.

Dr. Ryback, Chiroprapist, of Baltimore, is in this city and is stopping at the Commercial. He has operated on the understandings of several of our citizens who seem to be well pleased. See his advertisement elsewhere.

Have you seen the latest Improved Heating and Cook Stoves at JACOBI'S? You can get them at factory prices.

Opera House Next Week.

Ada Gray will give three entertainments in this city next week, Friday and Saturday nights and Saturday matinee. She will appear in "The Girl in the Blue Velvet Gown," "The Girl in the Blue Velvet Gown," "The Girl in the Blue Velvet Gown," East Lynn and Lucretia Borgia. Mr. Bloom, her agent, is now in this city making arrangements for her appearance.

We advise our friends to call at JACOBI'S for real Silver Plated Tea and Table Spoons and Forks, Roger's Ivory handled Table Knives, Pen and Pocket Knives. All for Christmas and at the lowest prices.

Personal.

We were pleased to meet this morning our quondam citizen and friend, Mr. Jacob Weller, now of Cincinnati, who is on a visit to his relatives in this city. He is accompanied by his wife and children. Mr. Weller will return to the great porkopolis in a few days.

During the holidays buy useful articles such as Christmas Fire Dogs, Shovels and Tongs, Fluting Machines, &c. All at the lowest prices at JACOBI'S.

G. M. Stedman Fire Co No 11.

At the regular monthly meeting of this company, held Wednesday night, the following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

President—G. W. W. Davis.
 Vice President—J. P. O'Sullivan.
 Recording Secretary—H. O. Rankin.
 Treasurer—G. W. Mitchell.
 Foreman—A. H. Leslie.
 1st Assistant Foreman—A. B. Shiver.
 2nd Assistant Foreman—E. S. Griffith.
 Jno. Sneed, Joe F. Craig, M. M. Parker, Thos. H. Lockamy and G. W. Hawkins, Axemen.

The above was intended for publication yesterday, but was omitted through an oversight.

Water street merchants will keep their feet dry in winter by wearing ROSENTHAL'S boots and shoes.

Across the Continent.

Oliver Doud Byron in his renowned play of "Across the Continent" will appear in this city on Saturday evening. The play is very much of the style of the Phoenix, and gives immense satisfaction wherever it is performed by Mr. Byron. Of it the Buffalo Courier says:

"The thoroughly sensational drama now holds the boards, as the saying is, at the Academy of Music. Mr. Oliver Doud Byron last evening opened a short engagement, which is to conclude with the week, appearing in his favorite role of Joe Ferris in "Across the Continent." The play is most powerful and replete with startling effects and incidents—railroad trains, telegraph in practical operation, Indians, hand-to-hand combats, and other devices for electrifying the nervous system. Mr. Byron is a clever actor, and the leader of those who have chosen the sensational order in which to exercise their talent. He has a very fine presence, and invests his part with decided interest. The performance was relieved with manifestly much satisfaction by a very large audience, the upper circles being fairly packed.

Mr. Byron is supported by a numerous and very good company. The ladies are pleasing, and the gentlemen in the cast generally sustain their parts in a very satisfactory manner.

THE LAST SAD RITES.

The Funeral Services over the Remains of Bishop Atkinson—The Interment in St James' Church—"Earth to Earth! Ashes to Ashes! Dust to Dust!"

Long before the hour (11 a. m.) announced for the funeral services over the remains of the late Bishop Atkinson, throngs of people were wending their way to the grand old edifice of St. James' Church. The front doors were closed, with long strips of mourning suspended from the door-knob, while over the archway of the door the same symbol of the Church's deep grief was arranged, reaching all the way down to the door-step. Inside of the Church, on the walls were hung festoons of gray moss, while the galleries and windows were deeply draped with the same appropriate mourning. Interspersed with the moss suspended from the galleries were long streamers of black cloth, caught up gracefully at every post and extending the entire length of the Church on either side. At the Chancel, the archway was draped with moss from top to bottom, while the doors opening into the Chancel from the Vestry room were hung in like manner. The arms of the Bishop's throne or chair were entwined with gray moss and purple cloth. Around the top of the chair was white ribbon in great profusion, the whole surmounted by a beautiful cross covered with purple cloth.

The railing around the chancel, immediately in front of the altar, had been entirely removed and the altar placed back against the wall of the chancel, and right in the center of the chancel floor and immediately under the proper resting place of the altar the floor had been removed, the earth dug out and a vault built to receive the last remains of the venerable and much-beloved Bishop. All this was accomplished yesterday, the dressing having been completed by loving hearts and hand late last night and the last brick placed about the same hour. A temporary flooring was then laid over the grave and this covered with a carpet. On the chancel wall on either side of the chancel windows and in a line with the lighted corona were two shields of black, surrounded by purple and white flowers; in the center of one of these shields were the words, worked in white letters, "At Rest," while on the other was the quotation: "I am the Resurrection." The reading desk, or lectern, was covered with a cloth of purple, fringed with black.

At half past 10 o'clock the front doors were thrown open and in a short time the church was more than half filled. The children from the Home and Misses Burr and James' and Miss Hart's schools occupied the most of the galleries, except a certain portion which was reserved for St. Mark's (colored) congregation. Ushers from St. James', St. John's and St. Paul's were in attendance to assist in finding seats for the throng of people who sought to gain entrance to the church. At 11:15 the tolling of the bell in the tower of St. James' signified the hour of the departure of the procession from the Episcopal residence in the following order: The Vestry of St. Mark's, the Vestry of St. Paul's, the Vestry of St. John's and the Vestry of St. James'; then the bearers, which consisted of a delegation of ten parishioners from each of the four parishes, next the corpse borne by ten young men from one of the parishes above named, who were each in turn relieved twice by others of the bearers. On either side of the coffin walked the pall bearers, all of whom were clergymen, and in the following order. Rev. B. S. Bronson, Rev. Bennett Smedes, Rev. T. M. Ambler, Rev. Dr. Marshall, Rev. E. R. Rich, Rev. T. D. Pitts, Rev. J. W. Larmour, Rev. Dr. Patterson. Next to the bearers came the mourning family, including the children and grandchildren of the deceased prelate, Rev. Dr. Atkinson, of Raleigh, brother of the deceased Bishop and Bishop Lay, of Easton, Maryland, who wedded a niece of the late Bishop. The procession moved down Orange to Third and thence to St. James' Church, corner of Third and Market streets. At 12:20 the deep, sad notes of the organ, as Mrs. Cushing, the organist, played the funeral dirge, announced the arrival at the church door of the solemn cortege. "Nearer my God to Thee," "Rock of Ages," and "Gottschalk's Last Hope" were the dirges played during the entrance of the body as it was borne by the bearers up the center aisle of the church. Bishop Lyman, of this Diocese, and Bishop Whittle, of Virginia, preceded the procession; immediately following these came Rev. Dr. Watson, then the clergy, two and two, to the number of eight. The mourners followed the clergy, the mourners the remains, and then the different vestries in the following order: St. James', St. John's, St. Paul's and St. Mark's. The clergy were provided with seats inside of the Chancel, Bishop Lyman his chair North of the altar and Bishop Whittle taking a seat at the South of the altar. The other clergy were equally divided on the North and South sides of the chancel. Bishops Lyman and Whittle and Dr. Watson met the body at the church door and advanced up the aisle in the order already named, Bishop Lyman reading the sentences commencing with "I am the Resurrection and the Life. Whose believeth in Me, though he were dead yet shall he live." The body was deposited on the bier in front of the Chancel while the choir chanted the psalter for the day. Dr. Watson, the Rector, next read the lesson. Hymn 260 of the Hymnal "Asleep in Jesus" was then sung by the choir and as the last verse of this beautiful hymn was being sung the venerable Senior Warden of the Church stepped in the Chancel and with his own hands removed the carpet over the temporary floor which covered the vault.

Others of the different vestries then came to his assistance and as the boards were being moved, disclosing the grave into which the last remains of the venerated and much beloved Bishop were soon to be lowered, many an eye moistened that was not used to tears. Members of each Vestry then assisted in lowering the body into the grave, and almost before the last echo of the music had ceased to reverberate through the sacred walls of the Church, the casket that contained the mortal remains of Rt. Rev. Thos. Atkinson, D. D., LL. D., and for twenty-seven years the Bishop of North Carolina, was hid forever from view and from hundreds who were there looking on; the most of whom, we believe, had felt the gentle touch of his apostolic hands in the holy rite of confirmation. The scene at this particular part of the services was most impressive. There under the light of the brilliant corona which is suspended over the chancel, stood the two Bishops in their sacred robes of office at the ends of the altar, while around and on the other side of the newly dug grave stood nine other clergymen robed in their pure white surplices, looking with bowed heads down into the grave, while the congregation, all standing, looked on with reverence and awe at this most solemn and impressive scene.

Bishop Lyman then read the committal sentences, part of which are the sad yet beautiful words "Earth to Earth, Ashes to Ashes, Dust to Dust." Bishop Whittle, of Virginia, read the concluding prayers. Rev. Dr. Watson then gave out the 493rd hymn, "Jerusalem the Golden," which was sung by the congregation. At the conclusion of this hymn the Rector announced that the services were over and that the family desired to be left alone in the church. The large congregation, which was almost packed in the building, many standing in the North and South aisles, then quietly withdrew.

The inside of the vault, we neglected to say at the proper place, was laid with white plush cloth. A beautiful large cross made of fern leaves, cedar flowers and calla lilies, was placed on the coffin after it had been lowered into the grave.

The day seemed to be indicative of the beautiful life and quiet, peaceful end of this servant of God who has just fallen asleep. The weather was mild and pleasant and the sun shone with brilliant, genial warmth which made it most agreeable to all who ventured out. The day of the week is the one on which His Master was laid in the tomb and therefore we know it could have had no terrors for this faithful follower of the excellent precepts of the Founder of our blessed religion.

The vault in which the remains of the Bishop were deposited will be left open until 9 o'clock this evening. It will be sealed up sometime during the night. One of the vestrymen of St. James' Church will be with the body of the Bishop until the vault is closed.

Overshoes are in unusual demand: the most desirable seem to be what is termed the Narragansett.

Complimentary.

Yesterday's Raleigh News and Observer says: An elegant german, complimentary to a number of gentlemen of Wilmington, visiting the city, was given at Bagley Hall last evening. Among the visiting gentlemen were Messrs Jordan Thomas, T. W. Strange, T. W. McKoy, Pembroke Jones, Louis Davis, and Bruce Wright, of Wilmington, and Messrs Will. Bryan, of Brantford, Connecticut; Jamie White, of Louisburg, and Midshipman Allen G. Rogers, U. S. Navy.

A Delusion Trap placed in a house will quietly catch a cunning mouse. Call at JACOBI'S for them.

The latest news from the Gov. Worth is that she still lies just as when she sunk. The river has risen 25 feet at Fayetteville and nothing can be done to raise the Worth until the water subsides.

The Prohibition Convention meets at Raleigh on next Wednesday, the 12th inst. Arrangements have been made for reduced rates on the railroads and reduced fare at the hotels and boarding-houses in Raleigh.

TRIBUTE OF RESPECT.

The Rector and Vestry of St. James' Parish, called together on the occasion of the death of the beloved Bishop of this Diocese, the Rt. Rev. THOMAS ATKINSON, D. D., LL. D., and desiring to give expression to their feelings, do hereby Resolve, That in the death of our venerable Father in God the members of this Parish, at whose altar he for some time officiated as Rector, have peculiar cause for grief in the heavy bereavement they have sustained. Not one congregation only bows its head under this chastening of the hand of God but every circle and every congregation throughout the Diocese weep over the bier of their great Bishop. It is such men as he, men of prayer and men of truth, who constitute the strength and power of a State. He was wise in counsel, gentle in manners, with a kind word from his kindly heart to all who sought his intercourse. He went about doing good, comforting the troubled, upholding the weak and cheering the despondent, a true leader of the Hosts of God whose trumpet never gave forth an uncertain sound. While we mourn the heavy affliction which has befallen us, yet we thank God for the great privilege we have enjoyed of having been so closely connected with one whose daily walk so exemplified the truths of the Christian religion. His life was a preparation for eternity and he so lived that the lengthening shadows of his earthly pilgrimage disturbed him not and when the summons came he could exclaim in the exultant language of St. John, "Amen, even so come quickly Lord Jesus."

 Resolved, That as a token of our respect for our departed Bishop the Vestry of this Parish will attend his funeral in a body.
 Resolved, That we tender to his afflicted family and particularly to his venerable widow our profoundest sympathy in their sorrow, commending them to the watchful care of that God in whom our departed Bishop believed and trusted.
 Resolved, That the Rector of this Parish be respectfully requested to transmit a copy of these resolutions to Mrs. Atkinson.
