The rain it raineth every day. It has been a steady down-pour hereabouts all day long, just as it was last night. This Indications.

For the South Atlantic States cloudy weather and rains, slightly warmer northeast to southeastly winds, becoming brisk the last of Thursday, with falling barometer.

In the Senate on Tuesday, Mr. Scott, of New Hanover, introduced a bill in regard to the inspection of naval stores and timber in Wilmington. No one here, among the inspectors and agents, seems to know anything about it.

The person who, under the necessities of the moment, rowed or abstracted a sixteen-rib umbrella, with a round handle, from the Second Presbyterian Church this morning, will confer a favor upon the owner by returning it to Mr.

Jas. W. Monroe, at the Produce Exchange.

Magistrate's Court.

David Hall, colored, a one-legged shoe maker, residing in Brooklyn, was arraigned before a Justice of the Peace this morning upon a charge of larceny preferred by John O. Nixon, colored.

Nixon, who keeps a store in Brooklyn, charges Hall with having taken his money box out of his (Nixon's) store yesterday with, $22 in it. Of course Hall denied the charge with indignation.

But the doubting 'Squire who tried the case bound the defendant over in the sum of $50 for his appearance at the next term of the Criminal Court, commencing on the second Monday in February next.

The Baby Vote.

The Glass Blowers continue to draw large audiences and the voting for babies is waxing warm. Up to last night 110 babies had been voted for but there are only twenty-three leading ones who have more than four votes. The following are the names of the leading ones and the number of votes they have received:

Daisy Newbury, 63; Carrie B. Harris, 45; Lizzie Robinson, 42; Susie

Parsley, 38; Mary B. Worth, 23; Lucy

Marchison, 21; R. M. Grant, 17; Louise

S. King, 14; Emmet DeRosset, 13;

Louis Cutlar, 12; Annie Bowden, 12;

Lulu DeRosset, 12; Ada V. Davis, 11;

Edward Gause, 11; Charlie Mebane, 10;

Emma P. West, 8; Mary H. McKoy, 8;

Jennie Y. Meares, 7; Daisy Keathley, 7;

Edward G. Parmelee, 5; Baby Brock, 5;

Lizzie May Northrop, 10.

Alas, Poor Yorick!

Those who knew it with its forty legs and have gazed upon its unarchitectural appearance for the past 30 years or more will now no longer have their sights offended by the ugly appearance of a building which ought never to have obstructed the street in a public thoroughfare.

The old Market House at the foot of Market street is being demolished rapidly. The work of demolition commenced this morning by the early light of dawn notwithstanding the very inclement weather and the torrents of rain which poured from the clouds incessantly all the forenoon. The work is being done under the superintendence of Alfred Howe, the purchaser, and is all completed except the belfry and a small section of the shed east of the bell tower.

The debris all lies where it was thrown, and we presume will be moved as soon as the weather becomes a little more civilized. This makes another chapter in the history of the New Market business.

Water street merchants will keep their feet dry in winter by wearing ROSEN-

THAL'S boots and shoes.

Burial of Mr. Hill.

The last sad tribute of respect was paid to Mr. W. E. Hill this morning by a large concourse of friends and acquaintances. So large an attendance can only be construed into a testimonial of deep respect for the deceased. The remains were escorted by Cape Fear Lodge, I. O.

O. F., and Carolina Lodge, K. of H., from the residence of his mother-in-law, on the corner of Fourth and Bladen streets, to the Second Presbyterian Church, where the impressive services were held by the pastor, the Rev. C. M. Payne. At the conclusion of the services at the Church the solemn cortage, headed by Cape Fear

Lodge, I. O. O. F., and Carolina Lodge,

Knights of Honor, wended its way slowly to Oakdale where the mortal remains of W. E. Hill were deposited in their last resting place. The funeral was one of the largest we have ever seen in this city and there were but few, if any, in the procession who did not mourn the loss of our departed fellow citizen. Peace to his ashes.

Wilmington's Interest Again Jeopardized.

Merchants and others along the line of the Carolina Central Railroad are very much exercised over the discontinuance of the local night mail from this city. They aver that it results to their injury and that Wilmington will suffer by the present mail arrangements. We have been assured by one of the most enterprising merchants along the line of the road that his firm and others have been materially injured by the discontinuance of the way mail on the night train and that orders for goods which were formerly sent to this city now go elsewhere. Wilmington can hardly afford to lose any of its trade, no matter how little, and we think it would be well for our merchants to look into the matter and if possible have it rectified. By way of illustration as to how Wilmington will suffer by the present mail schedule, we will cite a case in point: By the old arrangement, that is, a way mail on night trains, a merchant in Lumberton could order goods and have them shipped the same day and could be kept posted as to the closing of the market at this point.

Mr. A. of this city could write Mr. B. at Lumberton this afternoon and B. would receive his mail by breakfast time tomorrow morning and then have some data to work on during the day. As it is now A writes to B this afternoon and the letter does not leave until the next morning and is not received at Lumberton by B until about 1 o'clock p. m., and by that time the market is about closing for the day. Again, if B wants a box of meat he can order from Charlotte and receive the goods several hours earlier than he can from this point under the present mail facilities. We cite these facts as they were related to us by a merchant from one of the thriving little towns on the Carolina Central and who was in the city yesterday with the view of seeing what could be done in the premises and how to remedy the evil.

THE INAUGURAL BALL.

The Ball Complimentary to Governor

Jarvis—Tucker Hall Filled with Beauty and Fashion.

Long before 9 o'clock last evening the galleries at Tucker Hall were filled with spectators, mainly ladies, assembled to look on at that fashionable event so long and so eagerly looked forward to, the "Inaugural Ball." The hall, beautifully decorated with evergreens and flags, presented an attractive appearance. The national colors were prominent everywhere, swinging from pillars or else in the shape of all sizes gracefully displayed.

At the rear of the hall State flags were arranged as a trophy. The private boxes were also decorated, but the stage was left clear for the music. On the scarlet background of the drop-curtain were the words "The Old North State forever."

At 9 o'clock his Excellency the Governor entered, accompanied by Mrs. Jarvis. Following were the officers of the Governor's staff, Adjutant-General

Johnstone Jones, Inspector-General

Francis H. Cameron, and Colonel John
