Church Messenger.
Mr. Allen J. Cameron, of Hillsboro, is in the city in the interest of the Church Messenger, published by the Rev. Chas. J. Curtis at Winston, N. C. The Snow.
The fleecy flakes began to fall early this morning and they have been at it steadily all day long. The ground, however, was not frozen, and until this afternoon there was but little of it left on the surface. At this writing, however, (3:30 p. m.) it is beginning to cover the ground; while the roofs of houses and the trees are white with it. It has been falling steadily now for nearly seven hours, and if it will continue throughout the night there will probably be some fine sleighing to-morrow.

A Gigantic Gosh.
It now turns out that the stock company which was organized to build the railroad to the Sound is a "gosh." It is true that these gentlemen, in order to get a joke on the owner of the celebrated trotter Blanche, said they would build the road and that no stock would be sold. They succeeded in playing the joke on their friend, and in so doing raised the hopes of the community, which fell, as they rose like a rocket.

Answer This.
Did you ever know any person to be ill, without invasion of the stomach, liver or kidneys, or did you ever know he who was well when either was obstructed or inactive, and did you ever know or hear of any case of the kind that Hop Bitters would not cure? Ask your neighbor for this same question.—Times.

Glass Blowers—Baby Vote.

The Bohemian Glass Blowers closed a very successful engagement of a week in this city on Saturday evening. The baby voting was a feature of the entertainment and attracted much attention. The voting commenced on last Monday evening and terminated Saturday evening. The baby receiving the largest number of votes during the week was to receive a case containing handsome glass ornaments. At 9 o'clock Saturday evening the ballot was closed and Messrs. H. McL Green and L. W. McLaurin were selected as a committee to canvass the vote. One hundred and thirty-two babies were voted for but there were only a few whose votes exceeded twenty-five. The committee announced the vote as follows: Daisy Newbury, 509; Carrie Brown Harris, 316; Louise S. King, 285; Susie Parsley, 65. Daisy Newbury received the largest number of votes and was awarded the prize. She is the prettiest, interesting little daughter of Mr. F. A. Newbury, of this city. We congratulate the little lady on her success.

Two Bills.

Mr. H. E. Scott, Senator from this district, is in the city on a short leave. He tells us that the bill introduced by him to abolish the Criminal Court is but part of a system to extend the bounds of its jurisdiction to neighboring counties and that the bill concerning inspection of naval stores and lumber was sent to him from Democratic hand. The object of this latter bill, it is said, is the protection of inspectors and timber-men who reside permanently in Wilmington. It is said that during the rush of the timber season parties come here from the country, take out licenses as inspectors, stay as long as it will pay, and then go back home to employ the dull season in other pursuits. This, of course, is detrimental to the interests of those inspectors who remain here the year round and who are entirely dependent upon their business for a livelihood.

This is what Mr. Scott tells us about the bill and its object. It is strange that of the timbermen of whom we enquired a few days since not one knew anything in regard to the bill.

Sudden Death.

Mrs. Annie Elizabeth Taylor, wife of Henry Taylor, Esq., died suddenly in this city, yesterday morning, 23d inst., at 6:30 o'clock. During the past two or three years Mrs. Taylor has had several severe spells of sickness, but latterly had so much improved in health as to lead her relatives and friends to hope that she had entirely recovered her health. On Thursday last, while engaged in her domestic duties, she was stricken with a severe pain in the head but on retiring to bed it soon passed off and on Friday morning she got up apparently as well as usual and during the day went shopping down the street, returned home and attended to her household affairs until Saturday about 2 p. m., when while sitting in a rocking chair conversing with members of her family, she was noticed to drop her head, as if fainting. A physician was sent for who came and administered all that medical science could suggest, but she remained perfectly unconscious until 6:30 yesterday morning when she quietly passed to rest.

Judge Russell in Congress.

Hon. D. L. Russell, representative from this Congressional district in Congress, made a speech in the House on Friday last in the contested case of Boynton vs. Loring from Massachusetts, in which the representative from this district indulged in pretty severe though just strictures upon the culchaved people of Massachusetts who are continually berating the Southern people for alleged violations of the 14th Amendment of the Constitution, while the State of Massachusetts, which was one of the foremost of those States establishing the 14th Amendment as a part of the organic law of the land, has deliberately violated that Amendment and has been and is now enjoying the fruits of this crime by having representation here which belongs to the people of other States." Here is another extract:
"And now, sir, it is plain that if this can be done your fourteenth amendment is a dead letter and the Constitution of the country a defunct instrument. Much has been said about the disfranchisement of black men in the South by violence and bloodshed, but it seems that Massachusetts does by her law-makers what she denounced the South for permitting to be done by her criminals."

Judge Russell in his speech contended that, owing to the disfranchisement of her citizens, Massachusetts, instead of being entitled to 11 Representatives which she now enjoys, should have only 9. The Judge is in favor of sending the whole delegation and sending them home to have a new and a fair election.

Hit them again, Judge! it is your own political family, and if there is a funeral we are not expected to be among the mourners. But we admire the pluck of the representative from this district in this instance at least.

Robberies at Point Caswell.

A friend at Point Caswell sends us the following report of some systematic robberies which have been carried on at that place lately and the capture of one of the thieves:

POINT CASWELL, N. C., Jan. 23.

ME. EDITOR:—For several months past the owners of the steamer John Dawson have been the victims of a regular organized band of sneak thieves at this place, to the tune of about $200, from first to last, in amounts ranging from a flask of whisky to a box of bacon. The boat has a warehouse on its wharf at this place in which all freight not delivered on the arrival of the boat is stored until the owners call for it and at various times during the past few months the warehouse has been entered in the night, the thieves drawing the staple, or picking the lock and the goods abstracted. Capt. Paddison has been making strenuous efforts to catch the thief or thieves, and on Friday last took out a warrant for one Josh Hayes, whom he had good reason to believe was one of the parties concerned, and the evidence on the trial to-day, proved the Captain's suspicions correct as to Hayes, and also led to revelations that will eventually unearth the whole pack. It seems that on or about the 12th of November last, among other articles stolen was a bag of coffee, marked J. D. K. On the trial to-day, J. W. Tippet, the first witness called, testified that Josh Hayes brought a bag of coffee to his store after supper about the 1st of November and offered to sell it to him for $5; that he bought the coffee and emptied it into a whiskey barrel, returning the sacks to Hayes; and that he sold the coffee to Col. Blizard for $7. Col. Blizard being sworn, testified that Tippet offered him a bag of coffee for $7, and that he bought it, thinking it a good speculation, he afterwards selling it to Wm. Sherman at 11c per pound. There was another testimony that the above is the sum and substance. Hayes was sent to jail in default of bail. In the meantime it is needless to say that no stone will be left unturned to ferret out the rest of the gang, and put them where they will be of more service to the State. It may be proper to add that the fact of the robberies was no secret in this neighborhood. On the contrary Capt. Paddison had offered rewards for the capture of the thieves. And it may appear strange why persons who were aware of the robberies should buy the same class of goods from parties under such very suspicious circumstances, especially when the bag of coffee bore the identical mark as the one lost.

DIED.

TAYLOR.—In this city on Sunday morning, 23d inst., at 6:30 o'clock, ANNIE ELIZABETH, wife of Henry Taylor, Esq., aged 30 years, and 23 days.

Bad indeed is death, to loved ones, under any and all circumstances, but how inexpressibly heart-rending must be the grief of the sorrowing ones who mourn the death of this estimable lady. But yesterday in the enjoyment of apparent health, to-day dead! How hard to realize! May "He who tempest the wind to the shorn lamb" comfort and protect the bereaved ones. Truly, a good woman has passed away. An affectionate wife, a devoted mother, and a kind and congenial friend. She will be missed.

At Long Creek, Pender county, N. C., on the 6th January, 1881, of chronic disease of the bowels, Mr. S. H. Bell, in the sixty-fifth year of his age. Thus has passed from the gloom of earth to the joys of Heaven, the noblest parent, and faithful husband, the honest man, the true patriot and the generous Christian. In all those relations he was as true as the needle to the pole. He has left a bright example to the community in which he lived and served so well, and so long. He had a generous heart and it was ever warm with those exalting humanities and charities which adorn human nature and enabled him to live an upright, virtuous, and godly life. His bosom was never the abode of improper motives, or even resentment for any wrong or injustice done him. Not even in the privacy of his own home or domestic hearth, was he ever heard to utter a word inconsistent with integrity, principle, or Christian forgiveness and charity. And his whole life was in accordance with these high motives. These many sentiments, these shining virtues, and this elevated Christian character, the writer has known him and lived by him for twenty-five years and it is but just to make this record of his life and character. One of the highest Free Masons in the State, there lives no better exemplar of the virtues of that Order. True to Christian duty, he was an ornament of the Methodist Church, of which he had been a devoted member from his earliest manhood. His suffering had been long and painful, and he bore them all with the highest Christian fortitude and resignation, illustrating in his dying hour in a most happy manner that he was ready for the agonies that enabled him to "go over the river and rest on the shore." His wife died widow and bereaved of children among them that bright star in the firmament of the Presbyterian Church, Rev. S. Henry Bell, have the sympathies of the community in this death. Any of his trial and any grief.
