All Fool's day.
Blind Tom arrived this morning.
This day has many owners—it is all fool's day.
No City Court today nor police arrests last night.
When a New York man pops the question he now says: Let us consolidate.
On and after to-day the breakfast bell will be rung at 7 o'clock, the turn out bell at 8 and the market bell at 10 o'clock. There will be no change in the time of ringing the other bells.
Pilots report the soundings taken at mean low tide as follows: Bald Head Bar 13 feet 3 inches. Western Bar 12 feet. This, be it understood, is at mean low tide with an average rise of four and a half feet at high tide.
How to be your own painter: Buy the N. Y. Enamel Paint, ready mixed and arranged at JACOBI'S.
Blind Tom.
Blind Tom will open his engagement at the Opera House to-night. Tom is said to have improved in his old age and has learned to sing several plantation melodies. He is a wonder and has surprised and puzzled the phrenologists and physicians of the world.
The Navassa
The steam yacht Navassa, recently purchased by the Navassa Guano Company at Meares' Bluff is a pretty little craft. She makes the trip now in thirty minutes, but when she is limbered up and smoothed off by use it is thought she will make the trip in less time.

Harbor Master's Report.
Capt. Jos. Price, Harbor Master, reports the arrival at this port last month of 60 vessels with a total of 24,882 tons. Of these 37 vessels were American with 13,953 tons and 23 were foreign with 10,929 tons. Of the former 6 were steamers 1 was a brig and 30 were schooners, and of the latter 25 were barks, 7 were brigs and 1 schooner.
In Distress.
The schr. William H. Van Brunt Houghwout, bound from New York for Jacksonville, Florida, with a cargo of railroad iron, put into this port today leaking, with six feet of water in her hold. We learn that the cargo will have to be discharged and the vessel undergo repairs before proceeding on her journey.
The whaling schooner E. H. Hartfield which has been lying at anchor between the bar and rip for the past six weeks dragged her anchor this afternoon, and telegraphed for the Revenue Cutter Colfax to come to her assistance. If the Hartfield is in great danger she can be assisted by one of the three tugs now lying at Smithville. The Cutter did not go down, as it would be after night before she could pump up and get steam on.

Poul and Brutal Murder of a Young Woman and her Babe—The Assassins tracked—Their Victim fought desperately to the last—Diagram of the scene of the Murder and its surroundings

In a sequestered ravine near the scene of the Carter murder, about a mile from the city, the mangled remains of a woman and child were found last evening by Officer Richardson, while in search of deserted sailors. The officers and his comrades have been trying to keep the matter in the dark until the capture of the perpetrators of the atrocious murder. From the fact that they will be apprehended and brought to justice before night, we relate the blood curdling particulars of the murder which stands without a parallel in the history of the State. The details are sickening and can hardly be heard without a feeling of indignation and desire to avenge the death of the frail woman and her innocent babe. Above we give as accurate a diagram of the ravine and surroundings as the short time at our command will allow.
About a week ago a young white woman, who had she been nicely dressed, would have been considered pretty, made her appearance in the northern portion of the city, where she remained until Wednesday in a house occupied by Yarkin Jennings. The poor unfortunate woman and her babe were found on yesterday in the cold embrace of death lying in the ravine. In and about the vacant house, shown in the above drawing, were the marks of a struggle and drops of blood. Under the house was found a stick besmeared with gore. From the house, across the railroad track and through a cattle path to the ravine were traces of blood. An investigation of the body proved that the unfortunate woman had been stabbed in the back with a knife, that her skull had been crushed in by a blunt or round instrument and that her tongue was torn out. The innocent babe's brains had been dashed out and one of its feet had been either hacked off or eaten by hogs. Near the house was found a sailor's knife bearing bloody finger marks and having on its handle the letters H. M. A piece of woollen cloth stained with blood which had evidently been used as a scarf was found some little distance from the house. The officers thought they recognized the scarf and the knife was identified as the property of a seaman deserter. The ravine and locality, as drawn above, is a rendezvous for deserters, tramps and hard cases, as is also a place equally sequestered on the banks of the creek about a quarter of a mile distant. These localities were well guarded last night and the officers and their posse comitatus were rewarded by picking up one of the confederates of the murderers who turned State's evidence and related the following.

SICKENING DETAILS.
Kuhl VonAstic, Pedro Ihetmre and Ruls DerVonstrac saw their victims on Wednesday at the spring, which is some little distance from Yarkin Jenkin's house, and by subterfuge took her to the vacant house shown in the diagram, where they made an attack on her. The poor woman kept them from her by the use of a club, but it was finally taken away. She fought desperately for awhile and was then struck down with the club by Pedro Ihetmre. She fell with her face to the ground, and VonAstic plunged his knife in her body. The assassins then dragged the almost dead woman across the track to the ravine, and placing her dead babe by her, left her there to die alone. How long she lived is not known. The details of the murder are most brutal and would vie with the atrocities of a savage Sioux Indian murder. Let it be remembered that to-day is the first of April!

Memorial Day.

At a meeting of the Ladies' Memorial Association, of this city, held yesterday afternoon at the residence of the Vice President, Mrs. Armand L. DeRosset, it was decided that, inasmuch as the Legislature of North Carolina had, at its recent session, made the 10th day of May a legal holiday, it would be unwise for this Association to celebrate any other day, as, among other reasons, it would be asking too much of employers and employees to give another day from business which they would necessarily have to do if the 26th day of April was continued to be observed as Memorial Day in Wilmington. The motives, we are informed, which actuated the ladies of the Association in changing the day for making the annual observance of the memorial services to the Confederate dead from May to April, were on account of the lateness of the season, the scarcity of flowers in May, and more than all, out of consideration, for the military—the march to the Cemetery being a long and tedious one and at the very warmest part of the day at that season.
The ladies of the Memorial Association in Wilmington had the honor of being the first organization of the kind in existence in this State, and were the first to observe these memorial services on the anniversary of Stonewall Jackson's death, which is, the 10th of May. They disliked therefore to give up that day, but for the reasons mentioned above, felt it their duty to make the change and earnestly sought the cooperation of other associations throughout the State. Failing in this, they have wisely concluded to abide the will of the majority interested in this observance, and will return to the day first inaugurated by them in the observance of the solemn ceremonies of that occasion.
Major James Reilly who has been invited to act as Chief Marshal has accepted the invitation and in due time will make his announcement of the order of the day. The Orator and Chaplain have not yet been announced.

A New Law on Prohibition.
The prohibition question is assuming large proportions in more States of the Union than one. The Pennsylvania Legislature has recently acted upon it, and now comes a dispatch from Wisconsin which says the Governor to-day signed the bill recently passed by the Legislature prohibiting the practice of "treating." The bill provides that any person who shall hereafter ask another to drink at his expense or any person consenting to drink at another's expense shall be liable to arrest and punishment. When the bill was introduced into the Legislature it was referred to as a senseless and impracticable idea, and nobody thought it would become a law. It has only attracted attention since it has passed. No doubt there is many a poor fellow in this city, who smiles occasionally at his own expense, that wishes such a law prevailed in North Carolina. It is possibly his own indulgence in that direction would not count up so heavily in the matter of dollars and cents.

Hook and Ladder Company Meeting.
At a meeting of the Wilmington Hook and Ladder Company No. 1, held Wednesday night, the following resolution was adopted:
WHEREAS, Our newly elected Board of Aldermen have seen fit to remove from command of the Fire Department Col. Roger Moore, who has so long, so faithfully, so efficiently and with such universal acceptance to the members of the Department and to the public generally performed the duties of that office.
Resolved, That while we recognize the authority of the Board of Aldermen to make any changes in the city Administration that may seem proper to them, yet we do regret that they should have decided to remove without any apparent cause, and without consulting the wishes of those whose duty and whose pleasure it has been to obey him, a most popular and competent officer.
It is an admitted fact that Col. Moore has been greatly instrumental in bringing our Fire Department to its present standard of efficiency; and we think that to remove him without a word of complaint having been made to them by any one, is to say the least a great mistake.
In adopting this resolution it is not our desire or purpose to reflect in any way on Col. Moore's successor, who, we do not doubt, will make a capable officer, but simply and emphatically to express our regret that such action should have been taken by the Board of Aldermen.
