ALLOPATHS VS. HOMEOPATHS.

Dr. Quain is bitterly attacked by some of an eminent man whose life was in great danger. Sir William Gull condemns Quain, but I believe he told Lord Rowton (Montagu-Curry) that he himself would attend Lord Beaconsfield if called in. Dr. Quain is an old friend of Lord Beaconsfield and is well known throughout England for his eminent skill and kindness of heart. He kept Mr. Delane, of the Times, alive for years sgainst the assaults of a fatal disease and is in high favor with the reval famto the Queen. The attacks of jealous his popularity.

manuscripts which Lord Rowton will their eager search! use in writing his biography are now in ship-shape. The private papers, which will not see the light until ten years or more after his death, are said to be exceedingly interesting. His political duel with Sir Robert Peel and the inner history of the Corn Law agitation, the Crimean war, the Indian mutiny, the Berlin treaty and of events preceding it and other prominent features of English history during the last forty years are dealt with very fully, and a flood of light is thrown upon many points now wrap. ped in obscurity or wholly misunderstood. Some say that His Lordship kept a diary and posted it regularly before he went to bed, but of this I am not in a position to speak. It is certain, however, that he kept full notes of all the principal occurrences in the political and fashionable world, and that the revelations which these posthumous papers will make will revelutionize history in many important

Lord Beaconsfield was much better today. Twice he asked for his meals before they were due, and he may now be regarded as steadily recovering. He is much gratified at the handsome manner in which his political opponents have treated him since he was prestrated. Mr. Glandstone has not had an opportunity of referring to him in publice, but Earl Rosebery spoke of him in the highest terms the other day to the students of Edinburgh University.

The Plague in Turkey

CONSTANTINOPLE, April 17-Advices from Bagdad state that the ravages of the plague are terrible, though not extending beyond the sanitary cordon. Four thousand inhabitants have quitted Redjed and encamped in salubrious localities. Nedjed and Dejuhara were burnt, on the 8th instant. The disease has become most virulent, the afflicted dying in ten hours after being attacked.

An old lady writes us: "I am 63 years old and was feeble and nervous all the time, when I bought a bottle of Parker's Ginger Tonic. I have used a little more than one bottle and feel as well as at 30, and am sure that hundreds need just such a medicine." See advertise-
