widely known journalist announces his loss of a war inheritance in the shape of a chronic case of rheumatism by the use of one bottle of St. Jacobs Oil, after all other specifics had proved of no service.

Gone Abroad.
The Nor. barque Alfen cleared hence for Antwerp to-day, and the Ger. brig Oberon for Granton, Scotland. The former carries 3,435 barrels rosin, shipped by Messrs. Paterson, Downing & Co., and the latter 2,144 barrels rosin, shipped by Messrs. Alex. Sprunt & Son.

Large Lemon.
We saw a lemon this morning grown on the farm of the Rev. T. D. Pitts, in Florida, which weighed one pound, good weight, and measured twelve inches in circumference. The lemon is one of an improved kind and is said to be of a better quality than those usually sold in market.

St. Paul's Evangelical Lutheran Church.
In consequence of the absence of the pastor, Rev. G. D. Bernheim, D. D., at Synod, there will be no preaching or Sunday School at the above named Church to-morrow.

We are informed also that during the absence of Dr. Bernheim, the Church will, under the direction and supervision of the ladies of the Dorcas Society, undergo a thorough renovating, the windows being painted and the walls kalso-mined, etc. The ladies of the above, Society have, we are told, been greatly instrumental in reducing the debt of this Church.

Last Chance.
Remember, boys, to-morrow (Sunday) is the first day of May, and all of you who have not already done so, had better attend your Sunday School, that is if you want to get your names down in time for the first picnic or excursion. It may be considered a little cheeky, but what does that weigh against a whole day's pleasure on the banks of the beautiful Waccamaw, or the joyous festivities of a day at "Hilton," surrounded by numberless handsome lasses and the realization of an inspection of the contents of the numerous baskets that are always on hand on such occasions. We imagine that we hear you all respond: "I am afraid and don't you forget it!"

Indications.
For the South Atlantic States, fair weather, North to East winds, higher barometer and stationary or lower temperature.

Rev. Dr. Wilson's Lecture.

We listened with pleasure last night to a highly interesting and entertaining address upon the subject of "Courage" from the Rev. Dr. Wilson, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church in this city.
The lecturer was very happily introduced by the President of the Association, Mr.
Charles H. Robinson, who declared that he claimed to be a modest man, notwithstanding his frequent appearance before the public. But another matter which seemed to distress the worthy President, and which he alluded to in his introductory remarks, was the fact that he was afraid the audience might expect the same amount of eloquence from him that was listened to from the Hon. Geo. Davis on the occasion of Dr. Deems' lecture, when Mr. Davis performed a similar part which devolved upon the speaker now.
But added the speaker "while it is my duty and pleasure to introduce to you the Rev. Dr. Wilson, I am sure that he needs no introduction to a Wilmington audience." Dr. Wilson then came forward and began the delivery of his lecture upon the theme already mentioned. He first proceeded to give the origin and derivation of the word "courage," which he asserted came from the French and Latin languages. After this historical insight into the origin of the word, the distinguished divine led his audience on into an interesting discourse, upon this theme, in which he defined true courage, manly courage and heroic conduct. Noble self-sacrifice, when pestilence and famine, disease and danger are faced at the same time, by administering to the wants of the sick, suffering and dying, was described as a courage sublime in its nature. Florence Nightingale's visit to the loathsome prisons where she administered to the wants of suffering humanity, was commented on in beautiful terms. The brute courage, which was mere animal instinct, was likewise illustrated by drawing a picture of a column of troops charging a fortress.
But a courage that was grand and sublime was instanced by referring to the charge of the brave six hundred at Balaklava, which the eloquent speaker described as an act standing unrivalled in the history of any country. If it be not too presumptuous, we can suggest to the reverend gentleman right here, that he can find several instances of a courage more sublime and enduring in the history of the late war in the army of Northern Virginia. We can point the distinguished lecturer to the bloody heights of Gettysburg, and the hard fought fields of Chancellorsville, and the Wilderness besides numerous other instances, during the four years of strife, in verification of our assertion. The Six Hundred made the charge and retreated.

Other commands have charged and though subjected to a withering fire after gaining their position, held it for hours, until in one instance a command of nearly 300 muskets, dwindled down or melted away under the galling fire of the enemy by being killed and wounded until all but a baker's dozen were scattered bleeding and dead upon the ground. It takes less courage to make a charge than to receive one, so old soldiers think, and say. But the Reverend Doctor's lecture was considered an admirable one, and as we said in the beginning, a highly entertaining discourse, to which the large audience present, listened with profound and silent attention, only interrupted by the frequent outbursts of applause.

Stolen Property Recovered.

On Tuesday night last a very fine mocking bird and cage was stolen from the piazza of Captain John Barry's residence on Sixth between Red Cross and Campbell streets. A search was instigated for the bird and cage and last evening it was ascertained that the steward of the steamship Gulf Stream had bought a bird and cage answering to the description of the one stolen from Capt. Barry. The steward was approached about the matter when he stated that he bought the bird and cage from a colored man for $5.00. He willingly gave the stolen property up to its rightful owners, but is unable to give the name of the person he got it from or to identify the man.

My Good Woman.

Why are you so out of sorts, never able to tell folks that you are well? Ten to one it's all caused in the first place by habitual constipation, which no doubt finally caused deranged kidneys and liver. The sure cure for constipation is the celebrated Kidney-Wort. It is also a specific remedy for all kidney and liver diseases. Thousands are cured by it every month. Try it at once.—Toledo Blade.

A Noble Act.

Yesterday afternoon a little white boy who was unable to swim, swang into the river on a slack rope which was tied to the wharf and to a boat near by, and gradually sank as his weight pulled the boat in and gave the rope more slack. He had gone under twice, and was sinking for the third time, when Master Freddie Bissinger discovered the drowning boy, and plunged in catching hold of him just as he disappeared under the water, and with the assistance of a man got the little fellow safe on shore. It was a noble act on the part of the young rescuer for he ran the risk of losing his own life in trying to save that of his comrade.

Look out for Her.

Two or three weeks ago a woman and a little girl made their appearance in this city and presented themselves as worthy objects of charity, and collected a snug little sum of money from gentlemen of this city. The woman has since been seen handsomely dressed in silks and satins attending festivals and dances.
We have been told she has several very handsome suits of silk with gloves, hats etc., to correspond, and that the girl now daily begs going from house to house.
It would be well for our citizens to refuse to assist her in future as she is in no way an object of charity.

Rankin Hall—Professor Fanning.

The reception last night at Rankin Hall, given by Mr. T. C. Fanning and his patrons, was well attended and resulted in a success for the object tem-perated by the movers in the undertaking.
The little folks as well as those of older growth who were present at the reception, seemed to have a hearty good time.
But how could they help it under such excellent management as that of Professor Fanning? By the way, the Professor, we regret to say, took his departure on the steamer to-day for Fayetteville, whither he goes to open a school on Monday next. Mr. Fanning is no stranger to our people, having lived among them some twenty-five or thirty years ago. He only comes now to renew the acquaintance so pleasantly begun then. We trust the Fayettevillians will accord the Professor the same cordial welcome so characteristic of that hospitable people.

An Anniversary.

To-day is the anniversary of one of the most disastrous fires that ever occurred in Wilmington. On Sunday, April 30th, 1843, about 10:30 a. m., the alarm of fire was sounded, the wind blew almost a gale from the South and the flames swept every thing in their course, commencing on the North side of the alley next North of the present National Bank building.
From this point every house on Front, Water and Nutt streets were destroyed save a few buildings lying between Princess and Chestnut streets, on West side of Front street, and two others nearly opposite the telegraph office. The conflagration extended to the extreme Northern limits of the city, sweeping every thing in its fiery course consuming railroad depot, offices, machine shops and ware houses, together with a large quantity of naval stores on the wharves at the depot. Such was the rapidity of the destructive element, that in less than three hours after the first alarm was given every house in the line described was razed to the ground.
