Mayor Smith will enforce the vagrant act.

The Board of Aldermen will meet to night.

You can now buy Improved Heating and Cook Stoves at factory prices at JACOBI'S.

A new street lamp post has been placed on the street lamp post on the Northwest corner of Market and Second streets.

The Water Works Company are hard at work on the side streets between Front and Water streets to day. The pipe are being rapidly laid and by the 15th inst. most of the Water mains will be in position.

See Messrs. Alex. Sprunt & Son's advertisement of 200 tons of Soluble Pacific Guano. This well-known fertilizer has a reputation in this country, inferior to none, and is much sought after by producers of cotton and small grain.

A flood gate has been placed at the run which crosses Market at Fifteenth street, and gates will be placed at the run on Wooster street. Hereafter the engine will have a plentiful water supply in these localities in case of fires.

We advise our friends to call at JACOBI'S for Household Hardware of every description. There you get the lowest prices. †

Mrs. E. A. Lumsden has notified the public of her grand opening of Spring millinery on Thursday, Friday and Saturday. She has a beautiful selection of French flowers, etc., and we doubt not that our lady friends will see much to admire and rave over.

Hon. Thomas B. Price, U. S. Treasury Dept., Washington, D. C., recommends the St. Jacobs Oil as the most wonderful pain relieving and healing remedy in the world. His testimonial is endorsed by some of the head officials of the Treasury Department, who have been cured of Rheumatism and other painful complaints.

There was a very large attendance at the funeral services of the late Dr. M. J. DeRosset in St. James' Church this afternoon. Besides the large circle of kindred, a very large number of citizens were there to pay their last sad tribute in this way to the lamented and honored dead. The pall bearers were Doctors Thomas F. Wood, Geo. G. Thomas, J. C. Walker and Walter W. Lane; and Messrs. D. R. Murchison, Geo. W. Kidder, Wilkes Morris and Clayton Giles.

Festival Next Week.
The ladies composing the Rectory Club of St. John's Church, contemplate holding a festival at the City Hall, commencing Wednesday, May 11th. There will be many useful and pretty articles for sale, but there will be no raffle or solicitations for subscriptions in order to dispose of the articles offered for sale.

U. S. District Court.
The U. S. District Court was formally opened this morning His Honor, Judge George W. Brooks presiding and District Attorney, Honorable J. W. Albertson representing the Government. There were no admiralty cases and the Court took a recess until tomorrow at which time the jury cases will be called.

About the Sale of Liquor.
Many of our merchants who deal in the ardent, are doubtless not aware that the Legislature at its last session changed the law in regard to the sale of liquor by wholesale dealers. By the late law they were prohibited under the wholesale license from selling in less quantities than a quart. By the present law they are prohibited from selling less than a gallon. This law went into effect on the 11th of last March.

Personal.
Lieut. John U. Rhodes has been ordered to duty on the Revenue Cutter Colfax, and Lieut. Francis Tuttle to the Revenue Cutter Dexter, at Newport, Rhode Island. The swap off was made by mutual agreement of Lieutenants Rhodes and Tuttle. We are sorry to lose Lieut. Tuttle, but are pleased to see Lieut. Rhodes back on this station and to know that both gentlemen will be better situated.

Death of Dr. Moses John DeRosset.
Wilmington, and not Wilmington only, but the State and the entire medical profession as well, have cause to mourn the death of this most estimable gentleman. He breathed his last on yesterday morning at 9 o'clock, in this city, at the residence of his father, Dr. A. J. DeRosset, after a long illness of great suffering which he bore with patience and christian resignation, passing to his rest in the blissful hope of a glorious immortality.

Dr. DeRosset was born in 1838 and was a large descendant of a family distinguished in our annals for wealth, intelligence and virtue, and inherited in a large degree those qualities which generally insure success in any pursuit in life to which they may be applied. He had talents of the highest order, an intellect acute and discriminating, that enabled him to readily detect the true from the false in any proposition however artfully concealed in glittering sophisms or brilliant metaphors. He abhorred shams of every kind and loved the truth for the truths sake. Was true to himself, to his kinsfolk, to his friends and his country, and in all the relations of life and under circumstances sometimes most trying, was always the upright man and the true gentleman. Like all men of true nobility of mind he shunned notoriety and was remarkable, as much so if not more than any one we have ever known for his unaffected diffidence and that modesty in the expression of his opinions which is always the accompaniment of true genius. He had large culture, extensive reading and great scholarly attainments; was familiar with the classics and with the German and French languages, and held the pen of a ready writer, as his contributions to numerous scientific magazines abundantly prove. Nature had indeed been prodigal in her gifts, and cultivation had given a finished and rounded completeness to his intellectual powers. He had great advantages in the acquirement of knowledge, and he ardently embraced them; was a lover of books, and a thinker, and was eminently practical as well as theoretical. In early youth he was sent to Europe to a then celebrated school in Switzerland where he took his academic course and obtained his proficiency in the French and German languages. Upon his return home, having scarcely reached his majority, he entered upon the study of medicine, attended the Medical College of New York, and graduated at that institution with high distinction. As an evidence of his acquirements, even at that early age we may mention that he was one of four in a class of fifty students who passed a competitive examination for a position in Bellevue Hospital, New York, and was appointed by the faculty to that position which he held for eighteen months, when the breaking out of the war called him home to share the fortune of his State and people. He was immediately appointed an assistant surgeon by the Confederate government and served in the first campaign in North Western Virginia, and was with Stonewall Jackson in his world renowned valley campaign. In the fall of 1862 he was made full surgeon and ordered to Richmond, appointed Inspector of Hospitals, and afterwards assigned to duty at the Officers Hospital and was recognized by all of the profession with whom he came in contact, as a skilled practitioner, a brilliant operator and a man of brains. He served through the war, and at its close removed to Baltimore, where he gained much reputation in his profession, but desiring a larger field of action, he established himself in the city of New York, and making the treatment of those delicate organs, the eye and the ear, a specialty, he soon became prominent among the learned and scientific, and was rapidly rising to distinction, when he was stricken down by the fell destroyer which terminated his career at such an early age. He was an honor alike to our city and our State and our people have surely cause to mourn the loss of one so highly gifted. When the aged and infirm pass away from the busy scenes of life, however much we may mourn their departure, yet our grief is softened by the reflection that they were permitted to remain so long with us, like a goodly tree whose limbs were laden with the heavy dews of many seasons, but when the young, the virtuous and the accomplished are cut down, dried up and withered in the early spring time of life, we cannot repress the enquiry, why should this be so, why this apparently unfinished life? The answer is found, and is found only, in the words of inspiration, that God's ways are not as man's ways, and that however inscrutable his dispensations may seem, however shattered our earthly idols may become, our simple duty is not to question His acts, but to bow in humble submission to His holy will, knowing that He doeth all things well. In this spirit we commend to that Merciful Being, who is the God of the widow and the fatherless, those now suffering under this heavy bereavement, assuring them of the deepest sympathy of friends and kindred, and our people generally, in this dark hour of their sorrow and distress.

Gas Light Company.
At a meeting of the Wilmington Gas Light Company held to-day in the office of the Secretary and Treasurer the old Board of Directors was reelected, and is as follows:
President—Edward Kidder.
Directors—Z. Latimer, Dr. A. J. DeRosset, Donald McRae, Geo. R. French, Edward Kidder, W. H. McBary and E. S. Martin.

At a meeting of the Board of Directors Mr. R. J. Jones was reelected Secretary and Treasurer and Mr. John W. Reilly Superintendent.

City Court.
Wm. Dadey an old colored man who is quite a nuisance was found asleep in a boat last night and was arrested by a policeman and carried to the station house. He was charged with vagrancy. Being quite an old man an effort is being made to send him to the poor house.

Heinrich Gervin who is said to be a runner of a sailor boarding house, was arrested at four o'clock this morning charged with disorderly conduct. There has been a warrant for his arrest for a week past in the hands of a police officer, but Gervin has managed to elude the law until this morning. He was fined $5 and cost, or ten days in city prison. He went below and the Court adjourned.

At the time of closing our report the Board was in session.

Juvenile Opera.
The Juvenile Opera "Little Golden Hair and the Three Bears" will be presented in this city in a short time under the management of Mr. A. B. Chase. The opera is said to be a charming one and the composition is far above the ordinary standard of juvenile opera. Mr. Chase has very successfully presented the opera in several of our Southern cities and his reputation is such that guarantees success in his present undertaking.

Indications.
For the South Atlantic States, fair weather, Southerly winds veering to Northerly on the Northern Coast, stationary or lower barometer and temperature.

DIRD.
DeROSSET—At the residence of his father, in this city, on Sunday morning the 1st inst., at 9.15, Doctor MOSES JOHN De ROSSET, aged 42 years and 10 months.
