An unpleasant sort of arithmetic—division among families.

At 3 P. M. to-day the thermometer in this office stood at 94 degrees.

The only case before His Honor, Mayor Smith, this morning was that of a case of drunk and down. The offender was discharged.

The showers of last evening extended into Pender county as far as South Washington, but above there, where rain is much needed, only a few drops fell.

Mr. Geo. A. Peck has offered his very pleasant residence, on Masonboro Sound, for rent. The house is furnished and is supplied with all conveniences. See advertisement elsewhere.

Mr. R. Schaefer, Allegheny City, Pa., had the rheumatism for eight years. A single bottle of St. Jacobs Oil cured him.

On Saturday night a kerosene lamp exploded in the bakery of Mr. R. Thorburn on Market street. The fire at one time promised to be a lively one but it was soon extinguished.

Hon. A. M. Waddell, of this City, delivered the literary address at the closing exercises of Salem Academy on Thursday last. The Charlotte Observer prints the address in full and it is well worthy of the space devoted to it.

The Greensboro Patriot says that Hon. A. M. Waddell is opposed to prohibition. This is news to us. We cannot say, of our own knowledge, what Col. Waddell's position is, but we have taken upon the impression, somehow, that he has been in favor of the bill.

Frank Leslie's Popular Monthly for July.

This ably conducted magazine presents rare attractions, both literary and artistic, in the latest issue. The opening article, entitled "Benjamin Disraeli, Earl of Beaconsfield," is particularly interesting; it is admirably illustrated. "Recollections of Cadet Life Forty Years Ago," "The Lancashire Witchess," "The South African Trader," "Among Lombard Cities," "The Islands of the Bay State" (by N. Robinson), etc., etc., possess great merit, and are profusely illustrated. "A Late Remorse," Mr. Benedict's intensely interesting serial, is continued, and there are short stories by S. Annie Frost, B. C. Cordell, Jane G. Austin and other popular writers; these, with several excellent sketches afford pleasant reading. The poems are by W. H. Roberts, J. Cunningham, etc., and many of them have tasteful illustrations. The miscellany embraces a great variety of subjects, and abounds with information, interest and entertainment. In view of the quantity and quality of the literary and artistic contents of each number of this periodical, it must be regarded as the cheapest magazine published. There are 128 pages quarto, and about 100 illustrations. The yearly subscription is $3, and a single copy is only 25 cents, sent postpaid. Address Frank Leslie's Publishing House, 53, 55 and 57 Park Place, New York.

Gen. Imboden's Great R. R. Scheme to This Port.

WILMINGTON, N. C., June 20, '81.

EDITOR DAILY REVIEW:
Dear Sir—The News and Observer of Raleigh in its Saturday's issue says that the survey through the mountains to ascertain the practicability of the route for a narrow gauge road to reach the valuable coal mines in South-west Virginia, has just been completed, and that Captain Wm. Cain, the engineer in charge of the survey, has reported favorably as to the practicability of getting through the mountains at the above named gap.

At the last session of the General Assembly of North Carolina a commission was appointed to meet a similar one from the "Cape Fear and Yadkin Valley R. R." in reference to the sale of the State's interest in this Road to the Company represented by Gen. Imboden. Has any action ever been taken by the stockholders of the Y. V. R. R. Co. on this subject? We know that at the annual meeting of the Cape Fear & Y. V. R. Co. they decided to purchase the projected Fayetteville & Florence R. R. but not one word has been said about selling the State's interest in that Road. I know it is further alleged that the C. F. & Y. V. R. Co. Company have bought the Fayetteville & Florence R. R. with the intention of directing or carrying this vast mineral wealth out of North Carolina to Charleston; but have they the ability to do this? Where are the large shipments of iron (about which so much has been written) that four months ago were daily to arrive to lay the road from the present terminus of the Fayetteville Road to Greensboro?

Now that Gen. Imboden has completed the mountain survey, we hope soon to hear of his coming in this direction with an independent road. Wilmington is his outlet by all means, and if the Cape Fear & Yadkin Valley R. R. will not come into the arrangement, and enable him to build his road, then it behooves the city of Wilmington to say to Gen. Imboden: We will build a road to connect with you at Fayetteville. This can be done. It is believed that there will be an extra session of the Legislature next Winter and we can then get a charter for this road; but this is not necessary, for Gen. Imboden has a charter from Bristol to Wilmington and all that is wanted now is for Wilmington to come to the front, and say, we will meet you. This is one of the greatest schemes ever presented to this community, greater by far than the Wilmington & Weldon R. R. scheme was, where the private individuals in the city stepped to the front and pledged every dollar of real estate they owned in the city to secure the building of that great work. Let us be up and doing, and don't let our sister States drink our very life blood and remain quiet.

Following is the article from the News and Observer, alluded to by our correspondent:

It will be remembered that a party of Pennsylvania capitalists, iron and coal men, who are building a narrow gauge railroad from Bristol to Kentucky, were induced by the State geologist to seek an outlet for their products at Wilmington, by building the missing link between the terminus of the Cape Fear and Yadkin Valley road, at Patterson, and the Cranberry Narrow Gauge road, at Elizabethtown, on the Watauga River. They came and obtained a charter and the passage of a bill allowing them to purchase the Cape Fear and Yadkin Valley road on certain conditions. They were assured of the practicability of a railroad route between these two points, through Cook's Gap and by way of Boone and Cove Creek, to Watauga River. Capt. Dwight, the engineer of the Chester and Lenoir road, who had, at the suggestion of Prof. Kerr, made a reconnaissance of the route two years before, was engaged for them, and Capt. Cain was charged with the work of finding the route from the head waters of the Yadkin to the summit of the Blue Ridge at Cook's Gap, which is more than 3,000 feet above the sea. Capt. Cain has succeeded in finding a good crossing at this point, and is now moving down the Watauga from Boone, to meet Gen. Imboden's surveying party coming up from Elizabethtown. Two or three weeks will close the line. Gen. Imboden writes that the Kentuckians are pushing the line on to Cincinnati. So that at last North Carolina is about to realize the dream of a direct through line from her most important seaport across her entire territory to the great Tennessee and Virginia Valley, and to the Ohio and the northwest. This line lies at right angles to the other railroads, and can never be diverted. It will give the shortest possible line from Cincinnati and the Ohio Valley to the seaboard, and will traverse a greater variety of climates and agricultural and mineral productions than any existing road. It will open up an immense wealth of timber and water powers. Gen. Imboden writes: "We have assurances of a demand for over 600,000 tons per annum of the North Carolina magnetic ores over our line. Other Kentucky roads will join us at the border." Thus these fine ores will get to Pittsburg in place of the African, Spanish and Italian. This road will also at last bring us three great mineral fertilizers for want of which our agriculture has long languished—salt, lime and plaster. It will bring a large part of our best iron ores into demand and develop our coal beds, and build up furnaces and numerous other manufactures along its whole course.

This would indeed be an important work, and tend more largely to the benefit of the State than any other road now in contemplation.

Pender Court.

Pender Superior Court, Judge Graves presiding, convened at Burgaw this morning. The attendance, as is usually the case upon the first day, is very small. The criminal docket is quite large, embracing several aggravated cases of larceny and one of infanticide, which bid fair to make the session protracted.

Asylum Excursion.

Let it be remembered that our friends of the Masonic fraternity will give an excursion to-morrow on the Passport for the benefit of the Oxford Orphan Asylum. Everything will be done by the committee to ensure the pleasure and comfort of the excursionists, and we hope that the Lodge will realize handsomely by their laudable endeavors to assist the poor orphans of the Asylum.

Freshwater Perch, Trout and Black-fish Hooks and Lines. A full assortment and lowest prices at JACOBI'S.

The Rain Last Night.

This city and section were visited with a very refreshing rain last night. For a while the water fell in torrents. We were much in need of it and it was exceedingly welcome. It seems to have been pretty general in this section, as we hear of it fifty miles from Wilmington, in Onslow county. The cloud came from the West and moved over to the East of the city. The rainfall here was .95 of an inch.

Beautiful your homes by using the N. Y. Enamel Paint, ready mixed and warranted. Sold only at JACOBI'S.

Capt. Thompson's Lecture.

We inadvertently neglected to make a report in our last issue of the excellent address delivered at the Opera House on Friday night by Capt. N. F. Thompson, under the auspices of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union. The exercises were opened with prayer by Rev. E. A. Yates, D. D. Capt. Thompson is a forcible speaker and delivered an address replete with good argument and sound logic. He was listened to with marked attention and evident interest by the large audience which had assembled to hear him. His address has no doubt done some good for the prohibition cause. He will make other speeches during the campaign.
