MRS. JOE PERSON'S REMEDY FOR SCROFULA
NEVER FAILS.

It will Cure if Fairly Tested.
It gives me such pleasure to be able to state that I have derived an effectual cure of Scrofula from the use of Mrs. Joe Person's remedy for that disease. I had suffered from Scrofula for more than three years, and had despaired of ever getting well. I was treated during that time by three very eminent physicians, without any good result. I then went to the National Surgical Institute, at Atlanta, Ga., and was treated there more than two months, with no better result than my family physicians met with. After returning from the Institute, I was persuaded to use Mrs. Person's remedy, and I had not more than a week before I discovered a restorative and healing property. My skin began to heal, and the color of my skin changed as fast as the sores healed. I had not thought of ever getting well again, but my hopes increased, my low spirits were relieved by this remedy, and I am now enjoying splendid health and am in good spirits. The remedy is mild as a purgative, and a strong tonic; it will heal the most stubborn sore in three weeks if taken regularly. It is my opinion that it should be taken some time after the sore is healed, to remove the cause of its effects. It should be taken regularly by all means, for I have seen, and in all cases found that the cure already made would commence to retrograde, and for this alone it should be taken regularly until an effectual cure is completed. Nothing should prevent regularity in the use of the remedy, and it should be taken at the proper time. I would recommend to all who are suffering from Scrofula to try it. It will surely cure you if you give it a fair test. I speak from experience, and not from hearsay. I am a grateful recipient of a cure from the use of it, and under many and lasting obligations to Mrs. Person for the great relief I have obtained from its use. Sufferers, try it and be cured. I am, respectfully,
JAMES A. MORRIS,

Unfavorable News.
The news from the President to-day is not favorable. This was announced by bulletin dated 1:30 P. M. He had a chill this forenoon and the discharge from the wound has been checked. It is feared that some internal abscess has formed, to which there is no outlet. His pulse is reported at 125 and temperature at 104. Further developments will be anxiously awaited.

Another Incident of the Storm.
Five empty box cars which were standing on the track of the W. C. & A. R. R. last night, on a down grade, were moved by the force of the wind up this grade, a distance of some fifty yards and around an exceedingly difficult curve, which tries the mettle of the yard engine when it seizes hold of a train to drag up the hill, on to a pile of lumber loaded on another car near by; or, at least, one of the cars was driven half-way on to this lumber so that it will require the freight on the loaded car to be removed in order to strip shape on the track again.

The Washington, D. C., Star, subject notice refers to the case of Miss Harriet L. Dawson, the New York correspondent of the New Orleans Picayune, under the nom-de-plume of "Drit," who was cured of very severe rheumatic pains in the back by the use of St. Jacobs Oil.

THE STORM LAST NIGHT.

Velocity of the Wind Nearly One Mile a Minute—Trees and Telegraph Wires Laid Low

Our city and vicinity was visited last evening, shortly after 9 o'clock, by one of the severest gusts of wind, accompanied by one of the heaviest rain storms, for the short time it lasted, which has ever come under our observation during our life time residence here in the city by the sea. The weather yesterday, as we all know in this vicinity, was intensely hot, the Signal Office reporting the maximum height of the thermometer at 95 degrees. But the delicious cool sea breeze which fanned our heated cheeks all day abated in some degree the severity of the weather. At dark the breeze was delightful although the night was still quite warm, and the result of the heat of the day was seen by the quantity of electricity in the sky, which was shown by frequent flashes of sheet lightning but unaccompanied by thunder, until about 9 o'clock or shortly thereafter when suddenly a roar of the mighty wind was heard, the noise resembling very much the rumbling of a huge caravan traversing an immense bridge or stony road. Clouds upon clouds of dust filled the air and were blown into stores and dwellings and lights were extinguished inside and outside of houses. On the streets the lamps of the city were nearly all blown out at one gust. Then came more vivid flashes of lightning, accompanied by deep, loud peals of thunder. Every one looked for a cyclone or hurricane, and thought of the frightful disasters which have occurred in the far Northwest recently and the damage done there to life and property from the fearful tornadoes. Amidst it all there was a temperance address being delivered to quite a respectable crowd of people by Mr. W. R. Hunter at the head of the old market site. But in an instant all was darkness, the lights were blown out, hats were taken and carried high in the air, while dry goods boxes piled on the sidewalk were taken up and carried from one point to another by the fearful wind, like so much chaff in the breeze. The speaker's voice was hushed in a second and in less time than it has taken us to write it every person in the crowd and on the street darted with almost lightning speed for the nearest shelter of a house. But finally the rain, the blessed rain, which seemed to temper the wind down to a normal current, came down in copious showers, the heavens seemed to open while the water descended in torrents and the wind lulled to a considerable extent. Then it was that everybody's mind or body, or both, for that matter, felt decidedly more comfortable and easy. The gale lasted some ten or fifteen minutes, and had it extended to half an hour there is no telling what the extent of the damage might have been. As it was, trees and fences were prostrated in all parts of the city. But among the shipping on the river we have heard of no damage, the old tars being forewarned by their barometers of what was coming, got out extra hawsers and secured themselves before the gale broke upon them in all its fury. There were several timber rafts which got loose and were driven to pieces on the river. At the Sounds, or between here and the Sounds, numerous trees of large size were felled to the ground by the violence of the wind. Some of the telegraph and telephone wires in the city were broken and thrown upon the ground. This was the case also with the wires of the Signal office between here and Smithville although we learn there was no damage done right at Smithville. The Signal Office at this station informs us that the fury of the gale occurred about 9:32 p. m., that the thermometer fell from 95 to 73, 22 degrees in fifteen or twenty minutes, and that for a period of five minutes the wind travelled at the rate of nearly one mile a minute. We are happy to say, however, and we may add that we feel thankful that we are able to say, that so far, we have heard of no loss of life.

There was a fine audience present last night at the head of the old Market site to hear Mr. W. R. Hunter on the subject of Prohibition but the storm came up and dispersed them before the speaker had concluded.

Sunset to-morrow afternoon at 10 minutes past 7 o'clock.

For the Review. GIVE US A REST!

The war is over—the fight has been "fought." The "Yanks" were victorious—the "Confeds" made to "git." The fights were stubborn—all behaved well; Not only the living, but those who fell. The former we'll honor from the depth of our hearts. While the memory of the latter will ne'er depart. Who fired the first shot and laid the first plan. Seems to have escaped the memory of man. Fort Fisher was built, commanded and fell. But to whom belongs the honor, can any one tell? Each one will his own story so vigorously state That they scarce can tell what part any other did take. Ains, for the dead, their tongues are still, While the living can say what they will. Silently they sleep in their honored graves. While where the fort stood is washed by the waves. The names of "Fisher" and "Whiting" are indissolubly joined. And none to displace them can ever be coined. The honor of building you may divide to your liking. But the glory of defence will cling ever if he was there without a command. If he was there with no sword in his hand. His presence a thrill sent thro' each heart. That enthused every soldier to act nobly his part. And when the crash came—in the thick of the fight. Wounded he fell, in the enemies' sight. And the words that he spoke while stretched on his cot By true southern soldiers will ne'er be forgot. Nothing more could he have said, to add to his splendor. Than, "Lamb, when you die, the fort I'll never surrender."

We fought for our rights—o'erpowered we fell; How bravely we battled the world knows well. And our children will have nothing to turn from in shame. But as years grow upon them they'll honor our name. Our enemies even, will learn in their day To honor the foemen who held them at bay. It matters not now who built Fort Fisher; Decide as you may will not Fort Fisher; Let the past be forgotten—let the matter "take a rest." Granting that all who were engaged did their very level best. "CONFED."

Death of David Pigott.
We regret to learn of the sudden death, in Savannah, Georgia, last night, from the excessive heat of the weather, of Mr. David Pigott, formerly and for the space of nearly thirty years a resident of this city. Mr. Pigott came here from Beaufort, his native place, when quite a boy, and was first employed by the firm of Howard & Peden, wholesale and retail grocers, in the building now occupied by Messrs. Cronly & Morris; after this he was successively engaged in business on his own account, except during the four years of war, when after serving a short time in the Wilmington Light Infantry at the Forts below, he entered the Treasury service and was employed in the Collector's office of this port until the final crash came. After the war he embarked in the produce brokerage business, but eventually gave that up and for a long time was engaged in the wholesale and retail tobacco business. But Dame Fortune, always fickle with those who think her most sure, finally deserted him and left him without her aid or good will. A second time Mr. Pigott essayed to recuperate his financial condition by embarking in the produce brokerage business, but meeting with little success here he migrated to Savannah over a year ago, where we learn he had about established himself in a good brokerage business.

The deceased was something over fifty years of age, probably 53 or 54. He was a man of undoubted veracity upon all questions and was regarded as a person of the strictest integrity. His remains, we learn, will not be brought here, but will be interred at Savannah.

May the sod rest lightly o'er him.

A Fortunate Tailor.
Mr. P. S. Kearney, a tailor in the house of Warner & Searles of this city, has been the fortunate winner of half the capital prize in the Louisiana State Lottery, $15,000, of which he received official notification yesterday. The lucky number was 78,112. Mr. Kearney, whose good luck in this instance has been so propitious and unquestioned, came here from Memphis about six months ago, since which time he has been in the employ of Warner & Searles. He is an excellent workman, quiet, unobtrusive and industrious, and is charitable and good natured in the extreme. His employers speak of him in unbounded terms of praise and compliment, and are almost as much rejoiced at his streak of good fortune as the lucky man himself. With his fellow workmen he is very popular, and they, like Messrs. Warner & Searles, are pleased with his good fortune. Success to him, say we.—Vicksburg, Miss., Herald, July 13.

Strange but True

It is a strange but very singular fact, that it should take one Alderman and then still another Alderman to make one Mayor pro tem. Yet such is the case. Mayor Smith having bled him to Smithville yesterday morning, Alderman Alderman will be the acting Mayor until His Honor returns on Monday to the city.

Notes by the Way.
The Floral Fair at Wadesboro, given under the auspices of the Dixie Agricultural Association, came to a close on Thursday. The Fair was a success and came fully up to the expectations of its friends and projectors. The exhibits were numerous and meritorious and the managers paid especial attention to procuring a variety of amusements for the large number of visitors who were drawn thither by the Fair. Thorne's Comedy Company gave two dramatic performances each day in the building on the grounds, playing comedy pieces. The glass ball shooting and tournament were the features of the day. At night the coronation ball took place in a very large and spacious hall. Miss Ina McCall was crowned Queen of Love and Beauty and well and gracefully did she carry the honors bestowed upon her. The ball was a perfect success and was immensely enjoyed by the young folks in attendance. Thursday's attendance at the Fair was very large and all seemed to enjoy themselves.

Miss Ina McCall, "the little Southern," as she has been named by our Northern brethren, whom a great many of our citizens will remember gave such excellent recitations in this city a short time since, read at Crowley's Hall on Thursday evening to a full house. Her versatility of talent is remarkable, and by her most pleasing readings and modest, lady-like demeanor, she won many new friends. She has sufficient stage mannerism, but nothing pertaining to "shoddiness" or "snydeism." She is destined, we think, to fill an exalted position in the profession which she has adopted.

The crops between Wilmington and Laurinburg look very well, but everything beyond Laurinburg is burnt up.—We are told that there has been but one rain in the Pee Dee section since April. Vegetables, cantaloupes and melons are luxuries there, which have to be imported from Wilmington. It is predicted that not one-half a crop will be made in Richmond, Anson and Union counties and in the border counties in South Carolina.
