But one trifling case for the Mayor's consideration this morning.

The churches have been very slimly attended during the heated term.

Very little jewelry should be worn with summer toilets; it is regarded as vulgar.

The quickest way for a man to prove himself insane is to make a will that doesn't suit his relatives.

all men seem little to him from above, below.

hurt. One of them had his skull frac-

August Robinson and Lettuce Long

To whom it may concern: My wife having suffered for years with severe rheumatism, and in that time tried all the different remedies without receiving any relief, we at last resolved to give St.
Jacobs Oil a trial. Its use removed all pain instantaneously, and one bottle has effected a complete cure. I have recommended it to several persons with the same happy results.

More About Rice—New Departure.

A rice planter on the Cape Fear is trying an experiment in rice culture this season which has never been tried before in this section and so far as we can ascertain has been an unheard-of venture by rice planters in the country. He is cultivating about 12 acres of lowland or rice fields by plows, instead of in the old way, by hoes. His crop on the experimental field is far enough advanced now to satisfy him that his venture will terminate successfully and he is looking for an increased yield of the cereal for the plowed field. The cost of cultivation by plows is fully one-third less than by hoes.
When the crop is gathered, he has promised to give us an article on the cultivation of rice by plows, comparing the cost of raising and the yield.
If his experiment turns out as happily as he expects it will, the cultivation of the Cape Fear ricefields will be much easier and at a less cost.

Sad Death.

Mr. Harry Simmons, of Easton, Penn., one of the young gentlemen who came here with Dr. Cloud to assist in laying the waterworks pipe, died this morning at the residence of Mrs. Macomber, corner of Seventh and Chestnut streets, after an illness of eight weeks. The disease which caused the young man's death was pronounced typhoid malaria fever.
He was 23 years of age and was a member of the Order of Rechabites in this city. He came among us a few months ago a perfect stranger but by his modest behavior and gentlemanly bearing, he made many warm and true friends. He was exceedingly popular with his associates and commanded the respect of all who knew him. He died in a strange land but surrounded by friends who deeply grieve his early death. His father, who was summoned to his sick bed a week ago, was with him in his last hours. His remains were escorted to Bellevue Cemetry this afternoon followed by a large number of friends and the Rechabites of this city. His remains will be removed to the family burial ground at Easton, Pennsylvania, in the fall. Peace to his ashes.

Criminal Court.

The attention of the Court was occupied the whole of the morning with the case of the State against Samuel Ancrum, charged with the larceny of chickens. Verdict of the jury—Guilty. The same defendant was tried and convicted on a similar charge yesterday, but as there was only one witness against him, the Solicitor preferred not to pray judgment, and had same defendant tried on another charge of similar character to the one defendant was already convicted on. In this last named case there were seven witnesses, and all agreed as to the facts of the case, which proved the prisoner at the bar to be guilty. The evidence furthermore developed the fact that Ancrum was a regular professional chicken thief, who after stealing the chickens, hawked them about on the street in certain localities for sale. Sentence of the Court—4 years in State Penitentiary.

State vs. Beverly Scott, charged with removing fence. On trial.

His Honor, Judge Meares, sent for the Grand Jury this morning and gave them the following instructions about the carts that block up the corners of Front, Market and Second streets, at certain hours of the day during the week:

1st. That when a market cart or other vehicle is stationed upon a public street to await customers or to invite custom it is an obstruction of the public highway; and that when an empty cart or other vehicle is kept standing upon a public street after the contents thereof have been sold or delivered it is an obstruction of the public highway; and that when a licensed huckster occupies a portion of the sidewalk for the purpose of vending his vegetables or other articles
way; and in each and all of these instances the parties offending are indictable for a nuisance. The public highway, however, may be temporarily obstructed for certain purposes. The merchant may place his boxes of goods upon the sidewalks for such length of time on St. as may be necessary to transfer his goods from the vehicle to his store and the law regulates his conduct by the rule of reasonable time. So also the market cart or other vehicle is left free to travel the public streets and to stop at private residences and elsewhere for the temporary purposes of sale and delivery and like the merchant is regulated by the rule of reasonable time.

2nd. That it was not intended by the Legislature, in passing the "Supplemental Act," (see chap. 216, Laws of 1881) to encourage or to authorize nuisances to be committed upon the streets of Wilmington. On the contrary, it was the declared intention of the act merely to allow certain vendors therein named to offer their goods for sale at all hours of the day and upon any of the streets or alleys of the city, and to prevent them from being forced to sell from the stalls of the Wilmington Market Company.

3d. It is the duty of the city authorities to pass all such ordinances, and enforce the same, as may be necessary to abate a nuisance of this kind and they are fully empowered by law to do so. If they have neglected to discharge this highly important duty than they are amenable to the law and should be indicted.

A Bloody Assault—The Assailant De- fies the Law and Threatens Death to any one who Attempts to Arrest Him.

This afternoon about 2 o'clock a white woman known as Joe Turner, who is a person of unenviable reputation, presented herself at the office of Justice Millis, on Princess street, at the same time presenting a most pitiable appearance in her person. Her long iron-gray hair hung loosely down over her shoulders, matted with blood, while her face was bruised and bleeding, and her clothes down to her waist were stained and saturated with blood, all of which the woman declared was the work of J. P. Willett, her alleged husband. The two, man and wife, or the man and woman, keep what is called a sailor boarding house, but which hardly deserves as respectable a name as that, on Nutt street.
The occasion of this fiendish conduct on the part of Willett in beating the woman, we were unable to ascertain. But this much we did find out, that Justice Millis issued a warrant for the arrest of Willett and placed it in the hands of Officer Bryan, colored, for execution and that in attempting to execute the warrant and make the arrest the Officer was resisted and the law openly defied by Willett who barricaded his house and retreated to the second floor of his domicile, where he armed himself with axe and bludgeon, bowie knife, pistol and shot gun, and swore death and eternal vengeance to any one who would dare attempt to invade his premises.
The officer, who had summoned a posse to assist him in making the arrest, being unarmed deemed it prudent at this stage of the proceedings to return to the Magistrate's office for further instructions and to inquire into the law upon this subject. All this occurred about, or shortly before, 3 o'clock, and at 15 minutes past 4 o'clock, the time of this writing, there had been no further attempt to P. S.—Since the above was written we learn that the officer returned with his posse, entered the house and made a thorough search but could not find Willett—he had absconded and gone no one knows whither.

Major Hill's Condition.

We regret exceedingly to learn that a letter and telegram have both been received in this city to-day, from Mr.
Jas. H. Hill, at Richmond, containing the unpleasant tidings that her husband, Maj. Hill—who received severe injuries on the head by a fall the other day—is worse, and that his condition has been very unfavorable since Tuesday last, at which time he became unconscious, and has remained so up to the date of the hour at which the intelligence above mentioned was dispatched to this city.
We do earnestly hope, however, that there may yet be a change for the better, and that our former esteemed fellow townsman may still be spared to his family and friends.

The Medical Journal.

The July number of that excellent publication, the North Carolina Medical Journal, has been some days at hand.
It presents the usual excellent variety of reading matter for the benefit of the profession. There are many articles, too, notably the opening paper, the valedictory delivered at Asheville last June by the retiring president of the State Medical Society, Dr. R. B. Haywood, that will be read with interest by many outside the pale of the profession. The present number is the first of the eighth volume. Published by Dr. Thos. F.
Wood, in this city, at $3 a year.

The following are the readings of the thermometer to-day at the Signal Office in this city: 7 a. m., 79; 11 a. m., 88; 3 p. m., 89. The maximum temperature to-day was 89 degrees, against 83 for the same day last year.

The Election.

The election to-day passed off very quietly in this city, and without any disturbance, so far as we could ascertain.
As we go to press before the polls are closed, we are not able to report the result to-day.

The August Regatta.

The regular August regatta of the Carolina Yacht Club was expected to take place to-morrow over the Wrightsville Course, but for some reason the announcement was not made in season and the race has been postponed. No time has yet been decided upon but it is thought that the race will take place on or about the 18th inst.
