WILMINGTON, N. C.

MONDAY, OCTOBER 3, 1881.

Entered at the Postoffice at Wilmington, N. C., as Second Class Matter.

Dean Bradley, the successor to Dean Stanley, intends to summon a meeting to consider a proposition to erect a monument to Dean Stanley in Westminister Abbey.

Broad and Main streets, in Richmond, are to be illuminated by electricity. The Dispatch says that the lights will be in operation by the 14th. Broad street is to have six lights and Main street two.

Miss Margaret Hicks, a young lady now living at Syracuse, is an accomplished architect. She took the architectural course at Cornell University and afterward studied her art for three years in Europe.

The twenty-seven Chinese students who have been studying at Hartford, Conn., left for China on the 26th of September. The building erected by the Chinese government for their accommodation will be sold.

Mrs. Bayard Taylor is about to erect at Longwood to her lamented husband's memory a monument in the shape of a circular Greek altar. It is to bear on the top a lamp with a flame, and on the round a bronze bas-relief portrait.

Gov. Vance is out again in a long communication to the Charlotte Observer on the railroad question. It fills six columns, solid, in that paper, and is addressed, not to Col. Andrews, but to the people of North Carolina. We have not read the article and therefore cannot comment on it to-day.

The famous collection of books made by the Duke of Marlborough, which was announced for sale last year, is to be put up at auction in December next, when the greater portion will be disposed of. The balance will be sold in April next.

Mr. Labouchre asserts that our ingenious fellow-countrymen, finding that the boxes in which American apples were sent in such large quantities to England were afterwards of little use, now pack the apples in coffins, which find a ready sale.

King Alphonso presided at the inaugural sitting in Madrid of the American Society, founded at Nancy, France, in 1873, for the promotion of investigations into the antiquities and history of America before and after its discovery by Columbus.

It is remarkable that the agricultural depression so widespread in England has been little felt in Wales. The most prosperous English counties agriculturally at the present time are Devon and Cornwall, Northumberland and Cornwall. The extremes meet.

In the case of a contract signed by a person, who in the signature describes himself as an officer, the contract itself not indicating in any way the corporation of which he is an officer, the Supreme Court of Iowa decided that the signer is personally liable.

Mr. Shevitch, who is in charge of the alleged Hartmann, says that "the world will be startled by the events which will occur in Russia within the next two months. Matters which have been a long time maturing there are now ripe, and the result will be of lively interest to everybody."

The memorial windows to Lord Beaconsfield in Hughenden Church are to illustrate the principal "angelic appearances" recorded in the Bible. This idea, it is supposed, was suggested by Beaconsfield's Oxford declaration, that he was "always on the side of the angels."

Saturday's New York Sun publishes a statement, which comes from Washington, which may or may not be true. It is to the effect that Lapham is to resign his seat in the Senate to accept a Cabinet appointment to be tendered him by President Arthur. Mr. Conkling is to be appointed to the vacancy by Gov. Cornell and this will give him an opportunity to go before the State as a candidate for election by the Legislature, which meets in January. Such a proceeding will hardly enhance the popular estimation of Mr. Conkling. It would be obtaining, by trick and intrigue, a position for which he has been openly rejected by the representatives of the people.

In front of Col. Thomas Mead's house in Greenwich, Conn., stands a sycamore, or ballwood tree, which is 171 years old, having been planted in 1710. It is about 150 feet high, and fifteen feet from the ground its circumference is twenty-eight feet, and its diameter nine feet. A hole in the trunk, which is now no bigger than a man's hand, was not many years ago large enough for a man to crawl into, and was once used by children as a sort of playhouse. As the tree has grown of late years, the aperture has gradually closed.

The late General Burnside was neither a great soldier nor an eminent statesman, but when during the war he was thrust into a position too important for him to fill, he frankly begged to be removed; and when in the Senate, he was the only member of the Republican party who had the courage and patriotism to make a stand against the employment of troops at the polls. While pseudo-statesmen and patriots under the party whip affirmed a doctrine which they did not believe, the only conspicuous Union soldier in the Senate declared for the supremacy of the civil power.

The statistics of the railway accidents in England for the year seem to be as fixed a quantity as the number of letters which are posted without addresses. The total number killed last year was 1,136, and the number of injured 3,958. Of these 143 persons killed and 1,613 persons injured were passengers. The remainder were employees of the companies, and 447 killed and 265 injured were trespassers, suicides, and other persons. The number of persons who traveled as railway passengers last year, exclusive of season ticket holders, was nearly 604,000,000, being an increase of 41,000,000 over the number who traveled in the year before, showing that of four and a quarter million persons who travel one is killed, and more than one in every half million is injured.

We have already published a description of the new steamship City of Rome, built by the Inmans, and which is to sail for New York on the 13th inst. Yesterday's New York World tells us that there were the usual heated bearings to spoil the test of the trial trip, but even with this drawback the vessel ran 15¾ knots an hour. One of the most striking features in the ship is the electric light in the saloons. The seats at the table are numbered to correspond with the numbers of the berths; each passenger has, therefore, his seat at table always secured. The Inmans have lavished an enormous sum on this vessel, and all concerned in steam navigation are watching the experiment with unusual interest. She is built to carry 2,000 cabin and steerage passengers. The engines of the steamer can be brought to a dead stop in two seconds by turning a single lever, and from going at full speed ahead they can be reversed to full speed astern in the incredible space of five seconds.

Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cure.

MOONSHINE.

This is the latest Western form of saying a man was hanged: "He was unanimously chosen by a convention of six property-holders to jump from a new pine platform into the sweet subsequently."—Chicago Tribune.

With sugar in it: A Richmond physician says that if people will take a bath in hot whiskey and rock salt twice a year they will escape rheumatism and colds. But wouldn't sugar taste better than salt?—Lowell (Mass.) Citizen.

A fashion paper tells us that silken hosiery is now all the rage in Paris, "with insertions of portraits and medallions of point lace." Fancy glancing at at your ladylove's stocking and finding there the portrait of some other fellow!—Burlington Hawkeye.

One of the rules of a bicycle club reads, "A horse should never be passed on both sides at once." We suspect that when a bicycler attempts to pass on both sides of a horse "at once" he is expelled from the club. He certainly would be from a temperance organization.—Norristown Herald.

"Where do we find the small vices?" thundered the preacher, and every member of his congregation got up and told him to look for them in the other pews. All except the sexton, who did not exactly catch on. He suggested the hardware store. But that was not because he didn't know how to spell.—Burlington Hawkeye.

Missionary enterprise: Two fashionable young men, who are regular attendants at Dr. Pentecost's Ebenezer Chapel, on their way to church last Sunday passed in front of Fritz's beer saloon, on the corner of Austin avenue, when one of them asked, "Do you think it is wrong to go in and get a cool glass of beer before the church service begins?" "Are you going to pay cash down?" asked the other. "Not much, I'm going to make Fritz put it on the slate, with the rest." "In that case we are doing a good deed. Fritz will never get his money, and that will be a lesson to the Dutchman. It will teach him that it is wrong to sell beer on the Lord's day."—Texas Siftings.

"I'm all Played Out," is a common complaint. If you feel so get a package of Kidney Wort and take it and you will at once feel its tonic power. It restores the healthy action of the kidneys, bowels and liver, and thus restores the natural life and strength to the weary body. It can now be had in either dry or liquid form, and in either way is always prompt and efficient in action.—New Bedford Standard.
