COMFORT

the night is dreary, i leads to the day ; If the heart is weary, it learns to pray. If, standing lonely. The tears fall fast, We know it is only Till life is past.

Tis all in the measure Of each day's share-The pain and the pleasure, The joy and d-spair. We lose on the morrow The sche of to-day ; The sweet and the bitter Must both pass away.

> Paris Corr N O Picayane. PARIS CRIME.

some Interesting Cases That Hay Lately Excited the French Capital. Assassinations were never cs Lume ous as they are now, and as for attemp torob with violence, they are perpetrate in omnibuses. The Palais Royal has Persons who stand upon their Feet, vis before 1830. Girls of twelve or leace of the lower classes is intolerable, especially to priests and nuns. All this is going to bring on a reaction, which will confide power to the sword. The general elections will produce great excitement. A shopkeeper said to me the other day : "As soon as the canvass begins I will sell nothing ; no work will be done; people will do nothing but drink; no money will be made." Ice dealers, however, cannot complain that the season has been stagnant for them. the sales of ice this month having ex meded in Paris alone 45,000 tons ; Cafe Anglaise, Cafe Riche, Cate Foy, Maison Doree, Vachette, bought each a ton of ice daily, and there was scarcely a single cafe or restaurant which did not buy 300 to 409 pounds every day. More ice would probably have been sold had not not the revelations of the police chemists checked the sale of beer. The chemists declared that every sample of beer ana lyzed by them was unwholesome from adulterations of all sorts, so few people were bold enough to pour such poison down their throats. The drouth has made itself felt in other ways than in the sale of ice. Our vegetables have been scarce and of poor quality, and so small that they seem dwarfs; they have been and are very dear. The other night TWO YOUNG CLERKS were playing billiards in a cafe of the boulevard St. Germain, and talked freely of their concerns, without heeding a man who seemed asleep at the adjoining table. One of them said to the other: "I have just inherited $400." "Oh, then, we are going to have a jolly time of it,' "No. no! I will not touch one cent of that money. It is safely hidden in a chest of drawers under my shirts. Tomorrow 1 am going to carry it to a stock broker and buy threes." A few minutes after, the sleeping man woke, rose, took his hat and went out. An hour afterwards the clerks paid for what they had taken and took their hats-one of them, he who had inherited $400, found that his hat had been taken, probably by the sleeper, and another left in its place. As it was just as good as the hat taken, and the former fitted him quite as well, he bore the exchange philosophically and jogged home. He had no sooner entered his lodgings than he saw they had been entered with false keys, his chest of drawers broken open and his $400 stolen. He did not sleep that night. The hat left him did not altogether suit him, so he weat to his hatter to change it. His hatter told him that the evening before a man had come into the shop and had said he had inadvertently taken a gentleman's hat, and seeing the hatter's name inside, he had called, thinking the hatter might be able to give him the owner's name and address that he might restore the hat accidentally taken. The hatter gave the name and address. The burglar secured $400 by the information given. The barglar's hat was left with the hatter and a new hat selected. Atter the clerk left, the hatter took out the lining of the burglar's hat, and to his surprise found under it a letter bearing an address. He read it and found it was from a burglar promising aid in a contemplated burglary which had been planned by the person to whom the letter was addressed. The latter took the letter to the police and told what had occurred. Before sunset both burglars were arrested. A few days since THE CASHIER OF A STEASBURG BANK was surprised to find, on opening a registered letter from Schlestaunt, which he was advised contained $1,000, held only waste paper. He at once summoned the police, found it came from a Paris newspaper. Continuing their investigations they found that the person who had sent the registered letter was a subscriber to the Paris newspaper. A newspaper of the same date as that from which the cuttings had been taken was procured. It was found that the collection of the subscriber (who filed the paper) lacked the newspaper of that date. Evidently the thief was in the sender's house. All persons in it were watched, and inquries as to their character made. It was found that an apprentice had asked his master the day after the theft had been committed leave of absence to assist his parents, who lived in a village some distance off, and that he had not gone there, but had taken a different direction. The tele graph was used to order his arrest just as he was crossing the frontier; the $1,000 was found on him, and he confessed his crime. Countess Branicks and Countess Czark took a few evenings since a coach of the Northern railway for their exclusive use. When they reached Charleroff they found that their two satchels had disappeared. When? where? how? They could not answer. All they could say was that their satches contained a seven row pearl necklace, six gold bracelets set with rubies, sapphires and emeralds, $6,000 in gold and bank notes, a prayer book and two passports, the whole worth between $80,000 and $120,000. The police are all out trying to discover the thieves who made off with such rich 80013.

How are You My Old Friend?" Asked a bright looking man. "Oh ! I feel miserable, I'm billious and can't eat, and my back is so lame I can't work?" "Why in the world don't you take Kidney. Wort? that's what I take when . I'm out of sorts, and it always keeps me in perfect tune. My doctor recommends it for all such troubles." Kidney Wort is the sure cure for billiousness and constipation. Don't fail to try it.-Long Branch News.
