

THE DAILY REVIEW.

JOSH. T. JAMES, Editor & Prop'r

WILMINGTON, N. C.

FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 10, 1882.

Entered at the Postoffice at Wilmington, N. C., as Second-Class Matter.

GEN. GWYNN.

Gen. Walter Gwynn, a gentleman who has been identified with many of the important public works in North Carolina, and who in former days was well-known in Wilmington, died at the Carrolton Hotel in Baltimore, last Monday, in the 80th year of his age.

He was one of the most distinguished engineers in the United States. In Virginia, his native State, he was appointed Chief Engineer of the James River and Kanawha Canal, and remained Chief Engineer until that mammoth work was completed, including the tide water connection at Richmond, which connected the canal with the shipping at Rockets, and made for himself a reputation among his fellow engineers which will last for all time.

He built the Wilmington & Weldon R. R., and about the year 1852 he commenced the first survey of the North Carolina Railroad from Goldsboro to Charlotte, and remained as Chief Engineer until the road was completed; at the same time he was consulting engineer of the Wilmington & Manchester Railroad and at the great Pee Dee he sunk the first cast-iron cylinders by atmospheric pressure that were put in on any Southern work.

Gen. Gwynn was appointed by the Board of Directors of the Wilmington & Manchester R. R. to go to West Point, N. Y., and examine the process of sinking cylinders, which he did, and on his return he reported that he was willing to risk his reputation as a civil engineer as to the entire practicability of the scheme, and with this assurance he was ordered by the Board to build the work, which he did, and which again made for him a name among his brother engineers of no ordinary merit.

Gen. Gwynn was also Chief Engineer of the James River and Kanawha Canal at the time the survey was made for supplying the "summit level," as it was called, where the line crossed the Blue Ridge and Alleghany Mountains, and which required the most consummate skill to decide the practicability of the scheme. But he completed the work and reported favorably, but on account of its great cost it was abandoned.

He was also Chief Engineer of the Babun Gap R. R., in South Carolina, from Anderson Court House to Knoxville, Tenn. At this time he was offered the Chief Engineer of a road from St. Petersburg, Russia, to Moscow, at a salary of $25,000, but after making up a corps of engineers declined, on account of the severity of the climate.

General Gwynn was also Chief Engineer of the Seaboard & Roanoke R. R., from Norfolk to Weldon, and also of the Wilmington & Weldon R. R.

During his career as a civil engineer he was consulting engineer for various railroads in the United States, and enjoyed a reputation such as but few men in his profession have attained. He was appointed by the Legislature of North Carolina during the year 1858 or 1859 to examine and report as to the probable cost of completing the Deep River lock and dam improvements, taking with him on the examination, Gen. M. P. Taylor, of this city, as an assistant, who was then serving under him as a civil engineer, and who had been with him for about ten years. Gen. Gwynn was universally beloved by the large corps of engineers who have served under him, and a large circle of friends and acquaintances in this State, South Carolina and Virginia. He was one of the most distinguished civil engineers in the United States.

COTTON PRODUCTS AND MANUFACTURES.

The United States produces about four-fifths of the cotton manufactured in the world, and is fully capable of raising the entire amount necessary to clothe all the people. But it is lamentable to think that while we raise such a large proportion of all that is produced, our manufacture of the staple only amounts to about one sixth of the total manufactured product. In this country there are 10,900,000 spindles employed in the manufacture of cotton fabrics, while in Great Britain there are 40,000,000 spindles employed in working the same material. We have no data by which to arrive at the cotton manufactures of continental Europe, but know that it is considerable. The annual exports of manufactured cotton goods from this country amount to $9,981,000, while the exports of the same sort of goods from Great Britain amount to $910,000,000. We see no valid reason why this condition of things should exist. We are entirely able to both produce and manufacture the cotton for the world's use, and we ought to do so. At least, we ought to make such a stride towards accomplishing such a result as would place us on a level, if not above, any other manufacturing nation. There is no reason, need nor use of our being longer at the foot of the cotton manufacturing list.

Gentlemen just from Washington, whose relations with the President are supposed to entitle them to speak with some knowledge of his views on the subject, intimate that no attention will be paid to Mr. Blaine's recent letter on the South American question, but that, if Congress thinks it worth while to make it the basis of a call for further information, the Executive will be but too glad to respond. In that event, however, it is as plainly intimated that the ex-secretary would find himself placed in an exceedingly awkward position, not only a regards his alleged facts, but also in regard to his assumption of powers in his communications with Mr. Harburt, which properly pertain not to a secretary but to the Chief Magistrate.

The Talk of the Town.

COLUMBUS, Ga., Feb. 4, 1881. H. H. WARNER & Co.: Srs.—Your Safe Kidney and Liver Cure, beats all the medicines I have ever heard of for kidney and liver diseases. It has cured a genuine case of Bright's Disease here in Columbus [Judge F. M. Brooks], and that is proof enough for me. It is the talk of the town.

Texas Siftings.

Too Much Proterb.

While the prisoners in the Austin jail were out in the yard a few days ago, two of them who were under sentence to the penitentiary were heard comparing notes about as follows:

"I don't believe in proverbs," said prisoner No. 1, "it is believing in proverbs that brings me here."

"How so?" said No. 2.

"Well, you see, when I was a boy, I often seen folks pick up pins, and when I asked them why they did it they said:

"If you see a pin and let it lay. You will have bad luck all the day."

"Yes, that's so. I've heard that myself."

"Well, it don't work. I have picked up a pin, and I have had bad luck ever since. I was arrested the very day and now I've got to go to the penitentiary for three years."

"What has that to do with picking up pins?" asked No. 2.

"Well you see the pin I picked up was a diamond pin worth $150. I believed in the proverb about having good luck, if I picked up the pin in a show case, but they telephoned for the police and here I am, and he winked at the jailor.

The other prisoner thought for a moment, and then he said:

"When I come to think of it, proverbs are what have brought me to this fix."

"How so?" asked the same man who had picked up the pin for good luck.

"Well, I had heard about horse shoes bringing good luck, so I picked up horse shoes. Horse shoes were my weakness."

"Them horse shoes you went off with were fastened on to another fellow's horse, weren't they?" queried No. 1.

"Juss so."

"When I get out I'm not going to tamper with any more proverbs," remarked No. 2.

"Me neither," responded No. 1.

"Fall in boys," said the jailor, and they went back to their cosy retreats on the inside of the jail.

The Sun. New York, 1882.

THE SUN for 1882 will make its 25th annual revolution under the present management, shining, as always, for all, big and little, meek and gracious, contented and unhappy, republicans and democrats, depressed and virtuous, intelligent and obtuse. The Sun's light is for mankind and womanhood of every sort; but its genial warmth is for the good, while it pours hot discomfiture on the blistering backs of the pestilently wicked.

The Sun of 1882 was a newspaper of a new kind. It discarded many of the forms and phrases of earlier journalism. It undertakes to report in a fresh, unobscured, unobtrusive way all the news of the world, omitting no event of human interest, and commencing upon affairs with the thoroughness of absolute independence. The success of the experiment was the success of the Sun. It effected a permanent change in the style of American newspapers. Every important journal established in this country in the dozen years past has been modelled after the Sun. Every important journal already existing has been modified and bettered by the force of the Sun's example.

The Sun of 1882 will be the same outspoken, truth-telling, and indestructible newspaper. By a liberal use of the means which we do not begrudge to afford, we shall make it better than ever before.

We shall print all the news, getting its clearest scope, and measuring its importance, not by the traditional yardstick, but by its real interest to the people. Distance from Printing House Square, not the least consideration with the Sun. Whatever anything happens worth reporting we get the particulars, whether it happen in Brooklyn or in Bokhara.

Our terms are as follows— For the daily Sun, a four-page sheet of twenty-eight columns, the price by mail, pre-paid, is 55 cents a month, or $6.00 a year; or, including the Sun-day paper, an eight-page sheet of fifty-six columns, the price is 65 cents per month, or $7.50 a year, postage paid.

The Sunday edition of the Sun is also published separately at $1.20 a year, postage paid.

The price of the Weekly Sun, eight page, fifty-six columns, is $1 a year, postage paid. For clubs of ten sending $10 we will send an extra copy free. Address ENGLAND, Publisher of the Sun, New York City, nov 18-
