HER CASE WAS AN INTERESTING STUDY.
LETTER, N. C., Nov. 10, 1881.
MRS. J. PERSON.
Dear Madam:—I commenced last January to use your Bitters and Wash on my little daughter Annie, aged twelve years, for Scrofula, with a tendency to White Swelling, the physician said. At the time I commenced using your Remedy she was very much reduced in flesh, complexion sallow, appetite poor, legs very much swollen, bones enlarged, with two frightful sores on her left leg near the ankle. After using the Remedy a week or two I could see a change, as I then thought, for the worse. The sores discharged copiously a yellow corruption, sometimes running in a stream to the floor in spite of the linens. But feeling encouraged by your letters I persevered and after using the Remedy a while longer her strength was greatly improved, her appetite good and complexion much improved. Those symptoms encouraged me, but the flow of corruption continued for several months, and not until her general health was greatly improved did the sores begin to heal. First the swelling began to decrease below the knee, and continued gradually downward, and when it nearly reached the sores they began to heal. In the meantime the leg from the ankle half way to the knee became covered with running pimples, in fact the leg had become almost a solid sore. After this the sores healed rapidly. The worst one, on the instep, healed entirely, the other to the size of five cent piece, and it has remained in that condition ever since, which has been several months ago. For a month or more it has not discharged at all, and looks sometimes now as if it were entirely well as a Blood Purifier and Tonic I think it superior to anything I ever tried. If you could have seen my daughter when she commenced using your Remedy, and now, you would hardly believe her to be the same child. Last January nearly every one thought she would die. Then she was a living skeleton, now she is fat and rosy. Her case was an interesting study from the time she commenced your Remedy. I can most heartily and cheerfully recommend it to be what you claim for it. Wishing you every success with your undertaking, and with many thanks for the benefits we have received from your medicine, I am, very respectfully,
MRS. B. J. ALLEN

The Fire this Morning.
Between the hours of 8 and 9 o'clock this morning fire was discovered on the roof of the Wilder & Morton distillery, on Nutt street, between Hanover and Brunswick streets. An alarm was sent out, but the flames had been suppressed before the engines could arrive at the scene. Only a small hole was burned in the roof, and it is thought to have caught from a spark.
The Cut Off.
There was a meeting here this forenoon of the Board of Directors of the Wilmington & Weldon R. R. The meeting was a pretty full one, but we have in vain endeavored to get a report for publication. It was in reference, though, we are sure, to the cut-off from Wilson to Florence, most probably to receive the report of Col. Gardner, the Chief of the Engineer corps, who has been out making a preliminary survey, as Col. Gardner was at the meeting.
Hold on to the truth, for it will serve you well and do you good through eternity. Hold on to virtue; it is beyond price to you at all times and places. Hold on to Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup, for there is nothing like it to cure a cough or cold.
That Fast Run.
We spoke a day or two since of the rapid run made by the schooner Mabel Darling, Capt. Ranger, to this port and gave it then as 170 miles in 16 hours. Since then Capt. Ranger has made a closer calculation. He finds, according to his log, that at 12 o'clock on Wednesday, he was 30 miles below Savannah. At that time he encountered the gale, which prevailed here that day. At 4 o'clock on Thursday morning he crossed the bar here, having made the run of just 184 miles in 16 hours, or at the rate of 11 1/2 miles an hour. He ran under double-reefed foresail, mainsail and forestay-sail, but it is evident that the storm was not so violent with him as it was with us, or he could not have carried any canvass at all.

The Starry Heaven.
The evenings during this week have been exquisite in their beauty. Last night, but one, between the hours of 10 and 11, the heavens presented a magnificent appearance. Orion, the most conspicuous of the constellations, following close upon Taurus, moved like a grand panorama across the zenith. Sirius, almost rivaling Jupiter in brightness, shone in celestial glory upon his throne in Canis Major, while his lesser brother light, Procyon, in Canis Minor, added lustre to the scene. In the North gleamed Polaris, while above and below the circumpolar constellation wound their slow and majestic way. In the East Berenice's hair in misty shadow lay quietly below the Great Dipper, while Leo, easily traced by the exquisite sickle forming the head, plunged forward toward the zenith, East of Taurus and in a direct line from Sirius, shone the planet Mars, radiant in ruddy light, and a little North of East, sat Capella, white and brilliant in winter beauty. This beautiful star is recognized by a delicate triangle of three stars near by. Passing West the Pleiades shone in the modest lustre—still mourning the "lost one," who was unfortunate in loving a mortal, thus losing her seat in the heavens. Far down the Western horizon hung the crescent moon, midway between Saturn, a few degrees below, and the planet Jupiter, always glorious in beauty, but far more glorious as he passes over the western boundary—the three forming a brilliant figure not unlike a scalene triangle—while in the East rose the constellation, Bootes, the Bear Driver, where shines Arcturus, one of the most magnificent stars in the celestial hemisphere! Perhaps we have lengthened this starry retrospect rather more than is necessary, but to all lovers of the beautiful in nature the evening was one long to be remembered. The mind must become lost in wonder and admiration in contemplating such a scene were it not that the heart gives utterance to the words "the Hand that made them is divine!" "Praise Him, sun and moon; praise Him all ye stars and light!"

Second Fire.
At 11 o'clock this morning fire was discovered on the roof of the residence of Coroner E. D. Hewlett, corner Seventh and Queen streets. There was no general alarm sent out, but the neighbors mounted to the roof, and with a few buckets of water put the fire out. The damage was slight. The flames caught, from the chimney.
Experts Foreign.
Russian barque Alto, Grape, cleared at this port to day for Harbour, with 3,578 barrels rosin, shipped by Messrs. Paterson, Downing & Co., and schooner Florence L. Schipp, cleared for Port de Paix, Hayti, with 87,484 feet lumber 50,000 shingles and 40,500 bricks, shipped by Messrs. Northrop & Cumming.
Black River Navigation.
The steamer Lisbon, Capt. Phillips, which left here on Saturday last for Herringville, Sampson county, via the Cape Fear and Black rivers, returned to the city to-day. It was in contemplation to go as far as Lisbon, when the boat left here, and there was plenty of water for that purpose, but she only went as far as Herringville, where she remained two days. A few casks of spirits tarpen-tine constituted the cargo of her return trip. It was merely a trial trip and it was not expected or desired to take much freight.
On the return she stopped at the different landings on the river in order that the people might ascertain something of her capacity and convenience in transporting or towing their commodities to market. She is to be run regularly between here and Herringville, and will be used principally in towing flats up and down the river for the accommodation and convenience of boatmen.
Taking into consideration the two days' stay at Herringville, together with her numerous stoppages upon the way back, the Lisbon has made a remarkably quick trip.

Ho! For Carolina!
We have received a song and chorus bearing the above title, the music and words by Dr. William B. Farrell, with an arrangement for the piano by his wife, Mrs. A. J. B. Farrell. It is music and harmony in their very, very simplest forms, and the words, while breathing the sentiments of a pure patriotism and love for the "Old North State," would not stamp the author as a poet of high order. Published by Alfred Williams & Co., Raleigh, N. C. Price 40 cents.
Rain is needed to lay the dust. Bro. Handy will please make a note on't.
For the Review.
To the Voters of the Third Congressional District:
I see the names of several prominent men mooted for Congressional honors, and amongst them the name of my honorable friend, A. M. Waddell, whom I have always admired and appreciated for his many virtues and ability. His name is a tower of strength within itself; and but few men living in North Carolina has done or could do more honor to the high political position than the Honorable A. M. Waddell.
But we have another in our District who has never flourished in a political circle and whose name has never been before the public for any position. His talent and ability cannot be doubted; and while he is an humble citizen his name stands high all over this broad land of freedom, and should be honored with a seat in Congress, his talent and ability would be heard and felt in every State in this Union. We see and feel every day the great necessity of sending our wisest and most able men to Congress; therefore we must lay aside all personal preferences and localities, and vote for the man who has no superior to contend with in Congress. I claim and assert, without the fear of contradiction, that that man is Dr. S. S. Hatchwell. I hope his name will be handed all around the district from now until the day of the Democratic Convention, and then receive the unanimous support of all the delegates.
