SAFETY

KIDNEY LIVER CURE

The leading scientists of today agree that all diseases are caused by disordered kidneys or liver. It is therefore the kidneys and liver that should be treated.

WHAT I LIVE FOR.

I live for those who love me,
Whose hearts are kind and true;
For the Heaven that smiles above me,
And waits for my spirit too;
For all human ties that bind me,
For the task by God assigned me,
For the bright hopes left behind me,
And the good that I can do.

I live to learn their story, Who've suffered for my sake;
To emulate their glory,
And follow in their wake—Bards, patriots, martyrs, sages—
The noble of all ages, Whose deeds crowd history's pages,
And time's great volume make.

I live to hold communion With all that is divine;
To feel there is a union
'Twixt Nature's heart and mine;
To profit by affliction, Keep true to the fields of fiction, Grow wiser from conviction,
And fulfil each grand design.

I live to hail that season,
By gifted minds foretold, When man shall live for reason And not alone for gold; When man to man united,
The world's wrong shall be lighted, As Eden was of old.

I live for those who love me;
For those who know me true;
For the Heaven that smiles above me,
And waits for my spirit too;
For the cause that lacks assistance,
For the wrong that needs resistance,
And the good that I can do.

It is probable that the young lady celebrated in those charming lines of Robert Burns, had tan, moth-spots and freckles, with other beauty blemishes.
For such conditions, Dr. Benson's Skin Cure should be on every lady's toilet table.

Butchers Supporting Hotel Men.

I was speaking to some hotel men yesterday, who gave me a curious insight into hotel-keeping of the present day.
One of them said: "Do you know that the butchers have made the fortunes of all the hotel men in New York city? I did not know it.

"Why," said he, "the butchers who sell meat on credit to these hotel keepers are able men than they are. These fancy hotel-keepers are a very superficial class, and by mixing with men of position and wealth at their counters they often get rank themselves as very able and polished persons. There is hardly one of them that would be on his feet but for the plian, matter of fact butcher, who started his credit. There is not a hotel keeper who ever established a hotel in New York who did not have to go in debt for beef, which is the largest expenditure, next to rent, that is to be made. When Hank came to New York from Chicago, and took the St.
Nicholas Hotel he could not pay for his meat. When Dam took the Astor House he had nothing. Walton came to the St.
James a broken man. Breslin had not a cent when he took the Gilsey. Hotch kiss was worth less than nothing when he started the St. James. The butchers maintained these men till they could make a business; and although the hotel-keepers have made money for several years past, their butchers may have made more."

"How much is the beef bill at an average hotel in New York?"

"Well, a hotel like the St. James may have a beef bill of $1,000 a month. The Brunswick will run, perhaps, up to $3-000. There is hardly one of these hotel men who knows how to make any computation on his beef, and he has to accept the prices put at him by his butcher.
You see, the butcher knows what the beef costs on the hoof, and he can compute from that the value of the cuttings, ribs, etc. That would break the head of almost any hotel man to compute it. There are butchers in Washington Market worth a million. They studied the hotel business with as full reference to the hotel man himself, to the situation he occupies, and the trade that will come to that point, etc. Frequently a hotel is in debt $10,000 for beef already eaten.
There is not a butcher who has given credit to hotels that has not immensely prospered, and the hotel system, in fact, is based on beef."

"Have all the hotels been making money of late?"

"Every one of them in New York.— There is not one of the large hotels that has not cleared $60,000 a year for two years past."

I asked how the hotels ranked in money-making power.

"Well, the Fifth Avenue Hotel clears more money than any in New York. Next to that comes the Astor House. Third comes the Windsor; fourth, probably the Brunswick; fifth, I should think, the Hoffman House."

Among the market men I heard referred to by these hotel folks was one who deals in poultry and is a rich man—at the same time a capital preacher, preaching for nothing in the Baptist Church on Laight street. He handles thousands of pounds of chickens, ducks and turkeys in the most worldly style, and then takes the pulpit and lays down the moral law as eloquently as Peter's rooster.—Gath-in Cincinnati Enquirer.

It is worth remembering that nobody enjoys the nicest surroundings if in bad health. There are miserable people about to-day with one foot in the grave, when a bottle of Parker's Ginger Tonic would do them more good than all the doctors and medicines they have ever tried. See adv.

Brewster in his Den.

"Why, it is as good as a play," he said, "to go up into the Attorney General's office and see Brewster. He has taken out the desk that used to be there, and put a table in the middle of the room, on which are a large number of wax candles—blue, red, white and all the colors—and the floor is covered with Persian rugs; and there Brewster receives you with the magnificence of a Grand Vizier, his shirt-bosom full of ruffles, ruffles at his sleeves, his sack and vest of velvet, and his trousers of white cloth or flannel, and low-quartered shoes.
His fingers are full of rings—I think there is a ring on almost every finger.
The old fellow is either trying to establish the fact that he is the last remaining of the aristocracy, or he is in his second childhood. He writes a good many letters telling what the government is going to do, and nobody seems to have anything against him; but it is terrific caricature of the young widower's administration. Arthur has been a good deal praised for his gentle, dainty habits and address; but Brewster outshines him
