TUESDAY, APRIL 18, 1862.

Entered at the Postoffice at Wilmington, N. C., as Second-Class Matter.

Mr. William T. Crosedale, formerly editor of the Wilmington (Del.) Every Evening, and more recently of the Baltimere Gazette, has bought out the latter and started a new paper, The Day, in the Monumental City. Mr. Crossdale is an able, forcible and polished writer and is a man of untiring industry and unflagging energy, and under his mangement The Day is bound to take a front rank among the journals of the country. The Day will be Democratic in politics.

what would be a big fortune to most men in her recent tour in this country, has returned to England, and is now, at her castle among the mountains of Wales. It is expected, however, that she will again visit this country, professionally, in the fall, as Colonel Mapleson, the great operatic manager, is making efforts | doned. To have the measure out or to secure her services for the next sea She asks only $4,400 for each night's performance, and it is not proba ble that New Yorkers will be so penurious and stingy as to refuse to pay such a modest demand.

This is the land of the free and the home of the brave, with a vengeance.-The verdict of the jury in the South Carolina cases has been made public, and it is edverse to the prisoners. Two jurors made oath that they were coerced in the juzy room into signing the verdict through fear of personal violence; and yet the infamous Bond, the American Jeffreys, who presided at the trial, decided that the verdict must be accepted and confirmed. And not only this, but Bond violated his own rulings in a pre vious case in regard to the right of the prosecution to peremptorily set aside talesmen in the formation of the jury. The trial was in every way a farce and a mockery, and the result was a forereached conclusion. The historian of the future can amuse himself by trying to decide which was the most corrupt of the three, the Judge who connived with the prosecution for a verdict before the case was called, and repudiated his own rulings to reach that result, the jury who coerced with threats their fellow jurymen, or the abandoned wretches whose oath no decent man would receive, who falsely swore away the liberties of their fallow men

A great hue and cry has been raised throughout the North on account of an alleged outrage perpetrated upon Bishop Paine, a colored clergyman, by railroad officials on a Florida train. It was stated that, because the Bishop declined to ride in a second-class car, after he had bought and paid for a first class ticket, he was put off the train in the night-time, at a distance of four miles, which hewas obliged to walk, from any station, where he could wait for another train to convey him to his destination. Taken altogether it would have been a report of most outrageous proceedings had there been a modicum of truth in it. Unfortunately for those who started a first-class seasation this latter necessary element was wanting. The facts in the case are about as follows:

NO OUTRAGE.

There is a rule of the road upon which the Bishop was travelling that whites and colored people shall not occupy the same car, save in the smoking car, although both races may have secured first-class tickets, and to obviate any difficulty which might arise, and to be perfectly just and fair to both races, each train has two ears fitted exactly alike so far as comfort and convenience are concerned, one of which is reserved exclusively for the whites and the other for the colored, into neither of which the opposite color is permitted to go. The car for which Bishop Paine bought his ticket was first-class in all respects, and was exclusively for his race and color. It was not a smoking car, as has been alleged, although there was a smoking car attached to the train where there was no distinction as to race or color. Again: It was not in the night time, but in the broad and open daylight. Nor was it between stations, but at a regular stopping place where he would have to wait only two hours. Nor was he put off the train at all, but he got off upon his own volition rather than ride in such first-class car as had been provided for

This is all there is of the outrage. however it may have been exaggerated and magnified by the negropholists of the North.

The investigation, from which we collect the above facts, was made by a New York Herald reporter and the lie has been exposed in that paper.

MOORSHINE.

First swell-"I never did like 'May;' not nearly so pretty as 'Mary;' wonder they don't change the name of the month to 'Mary." Second swell-"Clevaw ideaw, bah Jove! Make awystaws good to Jane, you know!"- Exchange.

Young Mandamus was nettled at something the judge said, and springing to his feet called out with a bitterly and then he began to smile, and smiled so long and pleasantly that every body else in the courtroom began to smile too and poor young Mandamus felt his cheeks grow hot and hotter, and he sat utterly thr. wn away and wasted on the | tan freckles. blind stupidity of a grinning old lunatic who didn't know enough law to be a judge at an agricultural horse trot. But Patti, the famous singer, after making he didn't say so. Somehow, he only fel to say that he didn't feel as he could add -Burdette.

We naturally resent being paid back in our own coin, especially it it has not quite the true ring. We can easily ex case ourselves for cheating a neighbor but for him to do the same thing to us is an act not to be extenuated or conwhich we sell taken as the measure out of which to sell to us is very hard to bear. "I have weighed the two pounds of butter you sent me this morning," said an irate customer to a dealer in the above-mentioned article, "and am surpriced to find that it is short weight just three ounces. If that is your way of dealing I must buy my butter somewhere else." The butter merchant looked surprised, but without declaring his innocence replied: "Well, that is very strange, because I put the two pounds of sugar I bought of you in the scales, and gave you the full weight in butter." 'io do as you are done by and to do as you would like to be done by seem to be very different things.
