THE DAILY REVIEW.

VOL. VI. WILMINGTON, N. C., TUESDAY, MAY 23, 1882. NO. 125.

A DAY OF REJOICING AMONG THE LUTHERANS.

Excellent Preaching--Beautiful Services--Interesting Installation.

St. Paul's Lutheran Church was a place of special interest on last Sunday and crowds flocked into the beautiful edifice. The altar was beautifully decorated with green leaves and choice and rare flowers, among which the beautiful calla lily was suspended; prominent over the altar was the sentence in large gilt letters, "God Bless our Pastor," and on either side of the pulpit alcove was the sentence, "Our Cares, Our Joy and Our Aim is one."

The congregation should, as we know they do, consider themselves peculiarly fortunate in securing the services of Mr. Peschau. He is gifted as a linguist and possesses those talents and qualifications which, at once place him in a high sphere of usefulness.

At 11 A. M., Rev. F. W. Conrad, D. D., of Philadelphia, and editor of the Lutheran Observer, occupied the pulpit and preached a most excellent discourse in 1 Cor.—23, "But we preach Christ Crucified." The learned divine, who has occupied and adorned some of the best pulpits of the Lutheran church in this country, numbering from 500 to 1,000 members, during the past forty years of his life, has lost but little power physically and certainly none mentally. Preaching without manuscript or note and doing it so well as not only to draw and gain the attention of his hearers, but drawing them nearer to himself and nearer to his subject, he developed some of the grand truths hidden in the text and although he spoke for fifty minutes, none were tired of hearing him. It was a masterly discourse, full of good truths, powerful and convincing arguments, pointed and striking illustrations and calculated to do the heart and mind good. There was no gush or attempt at sensationalism. One of the grandest things we ever heard was the development of one of his points, to-wit: Christ—the only true solution of the problem of man's salvation in the moral universe. No one can hear the Doctor without being convinced that he is a great man, and that the Lutheran church may be proud of such a divine. Rev. Prof. L. A. Bickle, of Mt. Pleasant, who needs no introduction to this community, conducted the altar services. Although the church was full in the morning, the evening service (during which the installation of Rev. F. W. E. Peschau, as pastor, took place, saw the church crowded from end to end. Dr. Bickle, representing the North Carolina Synod of the Lutheran Church, was the first speaker, and addressed himself to the pastor elect, delivering him an appropriate and excellent charge and advice. Dr. Bickle was peculiarly happy and felicitous in his remarks. He at once attracted and chained the attention of his audience. He has a fine voice, and speaks with an eloquence but seldom found in the pulpit.

After the singing of a hymn, Dr. Conrad charged the people, and he did it successfully too. His hits at the church members who see only others' imperfections, and have no deficiencies themselves, were well put. It would be hard to add to, or take from, the charge anything without spoiling. Such truths, and put in such a way as the eloquent speaker put them, can but do good. They should be repeated in a hundred installations, and enunciated and emphasized on other occasions.

Having finished, he closed the Bible and asked the kind indulgence of the audience for a few moments and, to their astonishment, gave a synopsis of his address in German.

Dr. Bickle, turning to the congregation, asked the council if Rev. F. W. E. Peschau had been properly elected, and had accepted the call extended to him; whereupon Mr. H. B. Eilers, Vice-President of the Council, if we are not mistaken, gave to Dr. Bickle a copy of the call signed by the Council, and further certified, orally, of the choice of the congregation in the selection of the Reverend gentleman.

Rev. Mr. Peschau, seated in front of the altar, facing the pulpit, arose and walked to the altar, and the members of the Council, two in number, arose and stood with him. Dr. Bickle, handing him the call, properly signed, exhorted him to fidelity, questioned him, declared him duly installed and offered prayer, at the conclusion of which the Council took its seat, and the choir sung touchingly "Greetings to a Pastor."—Kneeling at the altar, Rev. Mr. Peschau offered up the prayer prescribed in the liturgy, arose to his feet, conducted the liturgical service and closed with a short address in German and in English, of which we give the following synopsis:

The public ratification of my choice as Pastor of this church has a double meaning. To install, to induct, means to lead into. I am not simply bound to the communicant members of this church, but according to the usages of the Lutheran Church—which believes in a settled ministry—I become a member of your community. I have come to stay. My predecessor spent twelve years here. May this public act lead me not only into your city as a pastor, but into your homes, and may God grant that as an humble ambassador of our Lord Jesus Christ, I may be led into your hearts. The beautiful words and thoughts in gilt letters on yonder wall, express our reciprocal relations; "Our cares, our joys, our aims are one." Our interests are as closely interwoven as our fingers are when we fold our hands. Every tap of the fireman's bell shall arouse my sympathies, every conflagration cause me sorrow, every dire calamity make me suffer with you. I shall pray at the bedside of your sick, and weep with you o'er your dead ones, at the open grave. Every storm-cloud will be black to me as well as to you.

But our joys are one. The same sun shines on us, the same blessings make us rejoice and "our aims are one." We long, we strive for Heaven. As you have been inducted, led into the church by baptism and confirmation, and as I have been led into it here by these services, and as the church is the door into Heaven, may God grant that it may open to our approach to the better land; and may it lead us into the joys, happiness and bliss of eternal life and eternal rest, to God's honor and glory and our salvation; and then your prayer "God bless our Pastor," will be answered and our work be not in vain.

Long will be remembered by the Lutherans of Wilmington, the interesting services of last Sunday. All was auspicious, the weather was fine, the attendance excellent and the interest general. The congregation is united, its work harmonious, pastor and people pleased with each other and nothing, as far as we can learn, is unpleasant in any way in the church. May this happy state of things long continue to this church and be found in other churches.

Pleasant Hours.
There was a picnic at Bordeaux's Mill, in Pender county, on the 19th inst., at which the beauty and gallantry of Pender and the adjoining counties were assembled. The tables were loaded with an abundance of dainties and luxuries for hungry mortals. Sweet music furnished the measure for the merry dance, and the day was spent in merriment, innocent recreation and amusement, with nothing to mar the hilarity of the occasion. We regret that we were unable to be present, and also regret that our space will not permit us to give in full the report of the day's pleasures kindly furnished by a correspondent who was present, and who, it seems, luxuriated in a good time generally.

An enricher of the blood and purifier of the system; cures lassitude and lack of energy; such is Brown's Iron Bitters.

Sent to the Hospital.
Bradley Brown, colored, who came here some days ago on a flat from the Upper Black River section, was taken sick and sent to the Hospital. He only remained there a short time, however, when he came away, and has been hanging about the city ever since in a helpless, sick condition, but was taken in charge to-day and sent again to the Hospital.

Anything in the hardware line can be found at reasonable prices at JACOBI'S.

Exports Foreign.
Nor. barque Atlantic, Capt. Knudsen, cleared yesterday for Hamburg with 200 casks spirits turpentine, valued at $4,271.96; and 3,914 barrels rosin, valued at $7,399—total $11,670.96, shipped by Messrs. E. G. Barker & Co.

City Court.
Four little colored boys, charged with disorderly conduct, were discharged. One case of drunk and down was discharged. Judgment was suspended in a case of assault and battery.

The Wilmington Light Infantry.
We are glad to learn that there is now some evidence of a re-awakening of interest in this gallant command. There were four applications for membership on Saturday, and others are talking of applying. Membership and a uniform can both be had for $5, and at this rate we should think that it would not be a difficult matter to keep up the standard of numbers. We have heard many handsome compliments paid the gallant boys in grey, not only for the excellence of their drill last Saturday, but for the pluck with which they have stuck to their organization through thick and thin, and sometimes under really disadvantageous circumstances.

Silk Culture in Wilmington.
A new enterprise—now for this locality—has been started here by two of our lady residents, one residing on Third street and the other on Front street. These ladies sent off North this Spring and bought 10,000 silk-worm eggs. They have had two rooms of the upper story in each house fitted up for the purpose and have gone regularly into the business of raising silk worms. These worms require the entire time and attention of one man. He goes out each day and gathers a bushel of mulberry leaves which the worms consume, they being fed every two hours. When the eggs arrived here, the weather was quite warm and the eggs were put on ice to prevent them hatching too soon. The worms are all out now, and some of them are so far advanced that it is expected they will begin spinning this week. The Ladies' Industrial Society of New York will buy all of the cocoons these ladies can offer for sale.

A third lady, also a resident of Wilmington, proposes to go even more extensively into the business, and with this object in view has had planted a large number of mulberry trees at her summer residence at the Sound. These young trees are thriving and promise well.

The Twentieth at Charlotte.
The celebration of the 20th at Charlotte, last Saturday, was the grandest affair known in the history of the city. The Observer, with much enterprise, published Sunday an eight page edition, giving a full account of the day. The crowd in attendance is estimated by the Observer at 20,000. The display was very imposing. Gov. Jarvis was present with his glittering staff and reviewed the troops. Gen. M. P. Taylor and Capt. W. A. Cumming, of his staff, were in the procession, Gen. Taylor being in command of the brigade. There were 11 military companies and 10 fire companies in the parade. Senator Bayard delivered a most excellent address, which was heard by 10,000 people. The Observer prints it in full. That paper noticed on the stand the following: Senators Wade Hampton, M. C. Butler, M. W. Ransom and Z. B. Vance; Hon. C. P. Berry, W. E. Robinson, W. R. Cox, A. M. Scales, R. F. Armfield, Clement Dowd, W. D. Simpson, T. J. Mackey, T. M. Holt and J. H. Wilson; His Excellency Governor Jarvis and staff, Rev. Dr. Dabney, Rev. N. M. Woods, Mayor F. S. DeWolfe, Gens. M. P. Taylor and Johnstone Jones, Col. J. P. Thomas, all field officers, chief of fire departments, committee of reception and executive committee.

Capt. W. J. Potter, of Smithville, is at Little River, S. C., in the interest of the American Tract Society, and is assisting the Rev. Neal Brown, of Texas, in conducting a religious revival. Much good is being done, and these protracted meetings are conducive of much good feeling.

A subscriber at New Supply, Brunswick county, writes that a heavy frost fell on the night of the 16th at that place. He says fruit was injured but very little, if any, on account of being protected by the full-grown leaves. The latest frost in this region for many years.

Spirits of Turpentine.
A man who claimed to be a veterinary surgeon prescribed spirits of turpentine for a galled back. The horse on which the remedy was tried didn't like the treatment and kicked up some antics yesterday afternoon. The animal was finally caught and properly stabulated.

Capsized.
A naughty boy, indeed a very bad boy, was out on the river sailing Sunday afternoon. A flaw of wind struck the boat and capsized it. The naughty boy halloed for help. If you never heard a boy ask for aid this one would have made you weep. As soon as he was rescued he sang out "what will mamma say" and when put on the wharf he started off in a run.
