SANDALPHON.

Have you read in the Talmud of old, In the Legends the Rabbins have told Of the limitless realms of the air, Have you read it—the marvellour story Of Sandalphon, the Angel of Glory, Sandalphon; the Angel of Prayer?

How, erect, at the outermost gates Of the City Celestial he waits, With his feet on the ladder of light, That, crowded with angels unnumbered, By Jacob was seen as he slumbered Alone in the desert at night?

The angels of Wind and of Fire Chant only on hymn, and expire With the song's irresistable stress, Expire in their rapture and wonder As harp-strings are broken asunder. By music they throb to express, But serene in the rapturous throng, Unmoved by the rush of the song.

With eyes unimpassioned and slow, Among the dead angels, the deathless Sandalphon stands listening breathless To sounds that ascend from below:-

& From the spirits on earth that adore, From the souls that entreat and implore In the fervour and passion of prayer; From the hearts that are broken with

And weary with dragging the crosses
Too heavy for mortals to bear.

And he gathers the prayers as he stands, And they change into flowers in his hands Into garlands of purple and red; and beneath the great arch of the portal Through the streets of the City Immortal Is wafted the fragrance they shed.

It is but a legend, I know,-A fable, a phantoma, show, Of the ancient Rabbinical lore; Yet the old medieval tradition, The beautiful, strange superstition, But haunts me and holds me the more.

When I look from my window at night, And the welkin above is all white, All throbbing and panting with stars. Among them majestic is standing Sandalphon the angel expanding His pinions in nebulous bars.

And the legend, 1 feel, is a part of the hunger and thirst of the heart, The frenzy and fire of the brain. That grasps at the fruitage forbidden, The golden pomegranates of Eden, To quiet its fever and pain.

—HENRY W. LONGFELLOW.

The Man of Bullets.

As I sat on the hotel steps at Dalton, Ga., talking with a drummer from Cincinnati, the landlord came out and asked us if we wanted to see a man who was carrying six bullets about with him. Of course we did, and we were walked down to the other end of the veranda and introduced to Col. Beach. I was going to approach him slowly and gracefully, but the drum-mer rushed right at him with:

"So you are carrying six bullets about with you, eh?"

"Yes, sir."
"Do they pain you much?"

"Oh no. "Lands alive! but I don't see how you lived through it. How many battles were you in?"

"Did you get all these bullets at

"Yes, all at once."
"By George! Well, I never heard the likes of it! Colonel, I don't want to be impudent, but—but— "You want to know where they are ocated?

"Exactly-exactly." "I'm carrying 'em in this pocket tolay," was the quiet reply as he fished down and brought up six old bullets picked up off the battle field.

It was a job put up on me, but the drummer got in ahead, and he was so of the door. mad about it that he wouldn't eat any

How He Lost His Memory,

He had asked the man in the seat behind him for a chew of fine cut, and after stuffing half the contents of the box into his mouth, he had put the box itself into his pocket. When reminded of this he replied:

"Bless me—bless me! Why, so I did! Hope you won't take offence, for I had entirely forgotten it. Dear me! but I find fresh evidences every day that I am not what I used to be. I see Chewing Tobacco of our former manufacture, that I am losing my memory."
"That's too bad," said the other.

How long have you been thus afflict-"Exactly thirteen years ago to-day."

"Did some accident happen to you "Accident! Bless you, my dear sir, t was a terrible thing. I was hung by

"Is that so? I don't like to be impertinent, but I should really like to ket. near about it."

"Certainly-no impertinence about that. I was in Denver. My business CHEWING TOBACCO, and our salesmen will there was to sell pianos and organs.

One night I called at a house to see about the sale of a piano, and I found the lady murdered in the hall. While I was standing there, horror-struck and terrified, several parties came up, accused me of the deed, and in ten minutes a mob had a rope around my neck. I was dragged to a tree, given two

"Yes-a regular hangman's noose, and the end of the rope was made fast and I was left swinging."

"Great Scotts! And-and-but you didn't'die?" "I dunno," softly answered the piano man, "I date my loss of memory from the minute they began pulling on the rope. Perhaps I was cut down and resuscitated-perhaps the corpse was taken out and buried. As I told you before, my memory has sadly failed

The other puzzled over it, blew his nose, got red in the face, blurted out: "Say, mister, I believe you are a gigantie liar!" "Like as not-like as not," blandly replied the piano man. "When a man's memory begins to fail he may hit the truth or he may lie jest as it may happen. Have you any good chewing tobacco with you?"

"How do you Manage," said a lady to her friend, "to appear so happy all the time?" "I always have Parker's Ginger Tonic handy," was the reply, and thus keep myself and family in good health. When I am well I always feels good natured." See other column.
