No City Court yesterday.
A fine linen colored border handkerchief can be had at DYER'S for 15c.

The regular annual meeting of the Stockholders of the Wilmington and Coast Turnpike Co., will be held this afternoon.

The colored people of Duplin county will hold a mass-meeting at Magnolia today, preliminary to the county nominating convention.

We were pleased to receive a call yesterday from our genial friend Mr. W. H. Carraway, the energetic representative of the News and Observer.

On and after to-day the rates of passage on the steamer Minnehaha have been reduced to 25 cents each way, and a substantial reduction was also made in freightage.

We saw yesterday, at Messrs. Crapon & Pickett's, some of the largest and finest imported oranges we have ever seen in Wilmington. They were selling rapidly.

Some fellow who was very fond of chickens stole three or four fowls from a coop, in front of Mr. R. J. Bordeaux's store. The larceny was committed in the broad daylight.

Skinny Men.
"Wells Health Renewer" restores health and vigor, cures Dyspepsia, Irritability, Sexual Debility. $1. Depot J. M. Munds.

From passengers on the Passport yesterday afternoon, we learn that as yet the bodies of the little Bear boys, who were drowned in the surf off Oak Island, have not been found.

To Builders and others—Go to JACOB'S for Sash, Blinds and Doors, Glass, &c. You can get all sizes and at the lowest prices.

Exports Foreign.
The Br. brig Emeline, Capt. Urquhart, cleared yesterday for Montevideo, Uruguay, for orders, with 231,432 feet of lumber, valued at $5,030.23, shipped by Messrs. E. Kidder & Son.

Of Unsound Mind.
A commission de lunatico inquirendo sat upon the case of Patrick Jordan, an unfortunate white man, on yesterday. His mental condition was pronounced unsound and he was committed to the insane department of the Poor House.

Caught in the Act.
A little colored boy was detected in the act of stealing a rooster on Fourth, between Nun and Church streets, yesterday about 2 o'clock. The owner gave chase to the little rascal and was soon assisted by several urchins. The would-be thief out-ran the self-constituted posse comitatus and made good his escape.

Honorably Discharged.
Dan Howard, the Jailor, was arrested yesterday morning on warrants sworn out by two female prisoners, charging him with a nameless crime. The evidence of the women was so very flimsy that everyone soon saw that it was a "put up job" on the Jailor. He was discharged and upon carrying the women back to jail one of them voluntarily told the Deputy Sheriff who had them in custody that it was a hatched up charge against the Jailor because he had put one of them in a cell for misconduct.

Literary.
We have received the July number, which by-the-way is the first, of Notes, Queries and Answers, a publication designed for the use and instruction of "teachers, pupils, practical and professional men," edited by Mr. N. B. Webster, of Norfolk, Va., and published by Messrs. S. C. & L. M. Gould of Manchester, N. H. Its name indicates very plainly the character and style of the work, and it is valuable as a work of reference to all classes of men who desire valuable information on desirable subjects which are constantly arising in every day life. It is published in monthly parts at $1 for ten months.

HOMICIDE.

A Man Shot to Death—The Coroner's Jury.

Yesterday morning, about daybreak, Titus Davis, colored, aged about 80 years, came to his death from a gun shot wound in the back. The person who fired the gun was Andrew J. Walker, aged about 33 years, also colored. We visited the spot where the shooting took place, yesterday afternoon, and elicited the following: For some time past Andrew J. Walker has been missing his chickens, and within the past week 27 head had been taken from him. He determined to catch the thief and yesterday morning, just before day, went to his kitchen window and waited some little while. He heard some one coming down a narrow alleyway, on the east side of his house, and following the house around crept along the north side and made for the stable, which is in the back-yard, about seventy feet from the house. Walker discovered the figure of a man about half way between the house and stable, and ordered him to halt. The figure made no response and Walker fired. The man, who proved to be Titus Davis, fell forward to the ground, but jumped up and retraced his steps to the street gate. He then started in the direction of his home and ran about thirty yards when he fell and soon expired. The body laid on the corner of Fifth and Nixon streets until 9 o'clock, when it was ordered by the Coroner to be removed to the late residence of the deceased, about two squares distant. Walker's family states that the shooting occurred about 3:30 o'clock. Walker, in a few minutes after he had killed the man, started down to the City Hall to surrender himself, but met officers Grant and Woebse at the "Brooklyn Bridge," and told them of the homicide, and asked to be arrested. He was taken to the guard house by the officers and placed in confinement. Coroner Hewlett empaneled a jury yesterday afternoon and held an inquest over the body of the deceased at his late residence, on Fourth and Howard streets. Doctors J. C. Walker and John T. Schonwald, Jr., held an autopsy of the body just after dinner and pronounced that death was caused by the gun-shot wounds. The post mortem proved that the load of shot—which were No. 2 duck-shot—entered the left side of the body, from the neck to the end of the spine. The lungs, heart and kidneys were perforated with the shot, four of which were taken from the heart. Over one hundred shot entered the body.

The wife of the deceased told us yesterday that Walker owed Titus—who has been acting as a veterinary surgeon—two dollars and a half for practicing upon one of Walker's horses, but that Walker had evaded the old man to keep from paying the bill and that Titus left his house yesterday morning after four o'clock, for the purpose of seeing Walker before he (Walker) went to his work. The old woman further stated that Titus also told her that he was going from there to two other places, giving the names of the persons, where he had some sick horses to see to. She says in half hour after, she was told by an acquaintance that Titus was dying and that Andrew Walker had shot him.

There were only a few witnesses examined yesterday by the Coroner's jury and from them we elicited that they were aroused by the cry of "halt" and the almost simultaneous discharge of a gun. They place the hour of the shooting between 3:30 and 4 o'clock. They further state that Walker said that Titus was after his chickens and he shot him. We should have stated in the proper place that the chicken roost was in one of the stalls in the stable toward which the deceased was going when he was shot. The examination of witnesses before the Coroner's inquest took up the evening and several others are to be examined this morning. Walker, who is now in the custody of the city, was to have had a preliminary hearing before Mayor Smith yesterday afternoon. The case was called, but owing to the fact that the witnesses were before the Coroner, the case was postponed until 12 o'clock to-day. Mr. Solicitor Moore will represent the State, and Mr. M. Bellamy the defense. The body of the murdered man will be interred this morning in Pine Forest Cemetery. Titus will be remembered as the old carriage driver of Mr. O. G. Parsley, Sr., and so far as we are able to learn always bore a good character.

Anything in the hardware line can be found at reasonable prices at JACOB'S.

Strayed From Home.

Samuel James, a little colored boy about six years old, was carried to the City Hall yesterday morning by two colored boys. James wandered away from his home Thursday night and could not find his way back. He was on the streets all night. He was turned over to his father, who was out on a search for him.

Charged with False Pretense.

Sheriff Grantham, of Wayne, arrived in this city last night, having in charge a young man giving his name as R. M. Kivett, and hailing from Durham, in this State. Young Kivett is charged with obtaining money from Mr. M. Schloss of this city, under false pretenses. The charge is that he gave a check on the bank at Durham, and induced Mr. Schloss to cash it. The check was sent to Durham, and came back protested. Young Kivett says that the President of the bank owed him the amount of the check and he thought the bank would honor it. If his yarn be true, he made a mistake in giving a check instead of drawing a draft on the officer of the bank who owed him.

They Fell Out.

Julia Swain and Mary Gregory, two of the female prisoners confined in the county jail, and who sued out warrants yesterday against Dan Howard, had a set-to in the jail yesterday afternoon. Mary Gregory, confessed that the charges against Howard were false and trumped up, and Julia Swain accused her of "backing down and throwing the fat in the fire" and proceeded to fresco Mary's face. The jailor was called for to separate the belligerents. The Swain woman was taken out of the women's or debtor room and put in a cell. She contested every inch of ground with the jailer until she got to the cell door and he was compelled to call one of the male prisoners to assist him. Since she has been placed in the cell she has kept the neighborhood awake by her cries of "fire," "murder," etc. She drew a large crowd about the jail yesterday afternoon by her cries, and at 11 o'clock last night she was still in the midst of her solo of "fire," "murder," "fire," "murder." We do not see why the jailer did not gag her and thereby permit persons in the neighborhood to go to sleep.

Ambition in an inordinate degree has seduced the editor of the Charlotte Observer from his party allegiance, and in despair at his failure to secure office from his party, he has announced himself an "independent" candidate for Congress in the sixth district. Some men are to be pitied more than censured, and we are disposed for charity's sake to such an extent that he can hardly be considered responsible. For some years after the war his vanity was satisfied with the empty title of "Colonel," which his friends in jest gave him, as that sounded better than the sobriquet of "White-oak Charley," which attached to him during the war. He aspired higher after awhile, and wanted to be mayor of his town but the people of Charlotte were so inappreciative as to incontinently "sit down" on him. He soon rallied, however, and wrote himself up for Congress, but the Democrats of the sixth district were too much like their brethren in Charlotte and his ambition received another check. He determined to make another effort, and some weeks ago he sent to all the newspapers of his district for publication a wood-cut of himself accompanied with a most flattering biography. But even that did not seem to strengthen his chances for the Democratic nomination for Congress, and so in desperation he now announces himself as an "independent" candidate. Poor fellow, we pity him. Of course all Democrats will vote for their nominee, and how can the "anti-prohibition liberals" vote for a man who was the editor of the only daily paper in the State that advocated the ratification of the prohibitory bill at the late election? And good Republicans will hardly vote for the man who so traduced the martyred Garfield, when in the agonies of death, that the citizens of Charlotte, of both parties, held a public meeting and denounced him!—Chatham Record.
