HOW NOT TO DO IT.

There are now ten locomotives en route from Paterson, New Jersey, for Salisbury, and on their arrival at that place they will at once be put on the road. The new engines are built after the meet improved methods. - Charlotte

Here we have the whole plan in nutshell of "How not to do it." Ten locomotives for use upon a North Caroline railroad, for the benefit of a North Carolina corporation, built in New Jersey, for the benefit of a New Jersey enterprise, and giving months of employment and wages to hundreds of New Jersey mechanics. And, yet. we complain and growl and grumble at the inordinate greed and avariciousness of the last fiscal year, says the N. Y. Sun, the people of the North. In the name show very clearly how an increase of greed and pander to their avarice?

railroad business of the South is yet in its infancy, but that it is growing in strongth and importance with unexampled rapidity. There is not a doubt that during the remainder of the nineteenth century the great and growing railroad interests of the country will be in the South-in connecting lines with the almost illimitable and fruitful West and Northwest-calling for an immense outlay of capital, and furnishing employment to thousands of artisans, mechanics and laborers. For the call upon the North. These could undoubtedly be found, without difficulty in our midst. But whether the South will allow the mechanics and artisans of expenditure. of the North-those who receive wages worthy their skill and art-to draw from us the best portion of the wagesto encourage, foster and build up Northern manufacturing establishments, and make the purses of Northern capitalists grow to "stick out with fatness," while we remain content to gather up the scraps and crumbs due to our more humble, but none the less arduous, share in the toil, is a question remaining to be answered.

If the "How not to do it" plan, which, we regret to say, now so generally obtains, is to continue, the question is already answered and the vital problem of our prosperity, as well as competition between the South and North is already solved. We envy and scold the North for being so rich, independent and saucy, while we are continually pouring treasure, influence and power into the laps of the Northern manufacturers, mechanics and artisans until they are surfeited. No wonder that they can own pleasure yachts, fast horses, palatial mansions, adorned with all the luxuries and splendors that wealth can command. We may try and content ourselves with the fact that money will not purchase happiness; but it will buy such a good imitation of that coveted blessing that it is always convenient to have in the family, and if we would have more of this desirable article, we must cease throwing our treasure-hard-earned treasure—into the hands of Northern capitalists. So long as we pursue this bury the body of a small-pox victim near by, himself placed the corpse in the coffin, and alone and unaided per-dull. August 12,98; September 12.—formed all the burial rites, 56; October 11.92; November 11.71; william Montgomery, an Ohio pento patronize fashionable wateringplaces, opera houses, prize fight exhibitions, and Beecher's high-priced religion, while we of the South must be gion, while we of the South must be content with our hard cider, water-melons, an occasional pic-nic, and the plain, honest, carnest, devout Christian teachings of a country parson in a piney woods church.

We want to see the "How not to do rivals are the cart horses, who are also it" plan eradicated from Southern soil, desperately fond of this fruit.

Somebody in Vernon, Illinois, politely requested the St. Louis Republican to furnish him the address of Gen. Hooker. To this civil request the Republican replies rather gruffly as follows: "Gen. Jo. Hooker is dead Don't know his address."

Capt. Isaiah Rynders, the old Democratic war herse of the New York Democracy, is over eighty years old, but he is yet hale and hearty, and says he does not intend to die until after he sees a Democrat elected President of the United States. He is an ardent anti-Kellyite. and denounces John Kelly in unmeasured terms.

Says the Boston Post: "The rapidity with which the South is developing its cotton manufacturing interests is seen in the fact that during the years 1881 '82 the increase in the number of spindles set up was as follows: Georgia, 106,000; Alabama, 34,000; Tennesse, 24,000; Mississippi, 32,000; Louisiana, 21,000; North Carolina, 48,000; South Carolina, 96,000. Total 361,000. The investment represents about $9,763,000, and with the sum required to operate with added, about $12,214,000."

Senator Logan wants to be President. That's what he wants. What he needs is a little better knowledge of the English language and nautical experience, as the following, from a speech delivered by him in the Senate a few days ago.

"I want to call the attention of the Senate to one point, especially the Naval Committee, for they are like a friction match; you cannot touch their rudder but what they set their sails. It is sensitiveness upon their part; they are very sensitive."

This reminds us of the Admiral's Widow, in Cooper's novel, the "Red Rover," who describes the beautiful motion of the Admiral's frigate "as she cut the water with her taffrail."

Postmaster Pearson's statistics for of common sense and fairness, we ask, business in the large Post Offices does do we not, by such acts, encourage their | not call for a corresponding increase of expenses when a good organization is It is reasonably evident to us that the once effected. The total receipts for the year at the New York Post Office were $4,200,066,07, while those of the year preceding had been but $3,790. 451,31. This implies an increase of work of various kinds; but the additional employees numbered 101, and through various reductions the increase in wages and salaries paid was but $23,426. The other expenditures were also but slightly increased, and the net revenue for the past year was $2,884,-049,67, against $2,532,049,29 for the previous year. Such facts show that mere manual labor—the drudgery and the reduction of letter postage would toll of excavang, grading and track- not be a dangerous experiment, since the reduction of letter postage would laying-we shall not be necessitated to the large increase of business would help to make up for the falling off in the price of the letter stamps, and it could be conducted with slight increase

LONDON, Aug. 5-Noon.-The Standard's correspondent at St. Petersburg says there is no longer any doubt that a divergence of views exists between England and Russia, which is exercising a very prejudicial influence upon all attempts to harmonize the English action in Egypt with the legitimate rights and wishes of the Powers. It is not unlikely that this divergence will lead to likely that this divergence will lead to 363 respectively last year. Shocking Murder and Probably Fatal Attempt at Suicide.

By Telegraph to Daily Review.] MEMPHIS, Tenn., Aug. 5-Noon.-A Grenada, Miss., special says: Six miles north of Grenada, on Kirkman plantation, Captain Thos. Kirkman, Thursday night, went to the quarters of a colored woman with whom he has lived for several years, and killed her and her four children. Each was killed by a single blow from an axe. Kirk-man, after the murder, took one-eighth of an ounce of morphine and coolly un-dressed and went to bed in the same room with the dead. When discovered he was still alive, though no hopes are entertained of his recovery.

WASHINGTON.

[Dy Tolograph to Dally Buylew.] WASHINGTON, Aug. 5-Noon-The Conference Committee on the Naval Appropriation bill, this morning, agreed to the only clause in controversy, which was in regard to the closing of navy yards. The Senate Conferees receded from their disagreement and, as agreed upon, the bill leaves the closing of the navy yards to the discretion of the Secretary of the Navy.

The Republican members of the Senate held a fully attended caucus to-day and discussed the subject of continuing the consideration of the tax bill. With but four dissenting, the expression of opinion prevailed that Congress should not adjourn without adopting, in some form, a bill to relieve the people from passing the knit goods bill, and it was stated that vast interests would be sacrificed if the bill should be allowed to go over until December. On the other hand, it was urged that. should the tax bill be laid aside for the knit goods bill the Democrats would insist upon weigh down the bill with all the amendments that have been offered to the tax bill, and that to insist upon action on either bill would result in protracted party strife and an indefinite prolongation of the session. While Senators are reticent as to the ultimate decision of the caucus, it is Oscar Wilde will lecture in the South- generally understood that a practically unanimous decision was reached to pass the tax bill; to vote, and, if possi ble, to secure a vote, without amend-ments, upon the knit goods bill. This decision, if adhered to, will postpone, perhaps indefinitely, any action on the House resolution for adjournment.
