No City Court yesterday.

The receipts of cotton yesterday at this port were 1,237 bales, which is the largest day's receipts thus far this season.

The Democrats of Pender county will meet on Saturday next in township conventions to nominate delegates to the county nominating convention.

Barrett's circus was at Durham Friday, and the crowd to see it was immense. This circus will, it is said, have its winter quarters near this city.

Mr. Q. C. Brown, Manager of the Claire Scott Combination, which is to appear on the 28th inst., in the "Princess of Bagdad," gave us the pleasure of a call yesterday morning.

A "large time" is expected at Point Caswell to-day. The steamer John Deason will leave her wharf at 5 o'clock this a. m. A large crowd from this city were expected to go on her.

There will be a meeting of the Literary Club of the Library Association held this evening at 8 o'clock at the Library Rooms for the purpose of reorganizing for the fall and winter exercises.

A gentleman in this city has received a note from Col. A. B. Andrews which states that the reported sale of the Warm Springs to a number of gentlemen, of whom he is one, is premature, as no sale has yet taken place. The report has been published extensively in this State.

Unavailable.
The following unavailable matter remains in the Post Office in this city: F. D. Herndon, Castalia, and A. R. McCown & Co., 626 Market street, Wilmington, N. C., and one stamped envelope with no address.

Delayed Mails.
Owing to the almost unprecedented rainfall of Sunday last in New Jersey and Pennsylvania, an account of which may be found in our telegraphic columns, the railroads were so badly washed that the trains were delayed so that none of the New York Sunday morning papers reached here yesterday.

The Circular Saw Again.
Floyd Frye, a lad about fourteen years old, who was at work at the sash, door and blind factory of Mr. R. W. Price met with quite a serious accident yesterday afternoon. He was guiding a piece of wood to a circular saw when the wood slipped and his hand came in contact with the saw. Two fingers of his hand were cut off and one other was badly mangled.

To Builders and others—Go to JACOBI'S for Sash, Blinds and Doors, Glass, &c. You can get all sizes and at the lowest prices.

Fire at Armour.
Sunday night the store of Mr. G. B. Robinson, at Armour, on the C. C. Railroad, was destroyed by fire. Our informant could give no particulars in reference to the origin of the fire or the loss sustained by Mr. Robinson. We learn that just about the time of the conflagration a couple of strange men were seen about the store.

Rumored Railroad Lease.
It is reported here that the Richmond & Danville R. R. people have leased, for ninety-nine years, the Chester & Lenoir and Chester & Cheraw Narrow Gauge R. Rs. We have not yet seen any published notice of this rumor but yet we have reason to believe that it is correct.

Freshwater Perch, Trout and Black fish hooks and lines. A full assortment and lowest prices at JACOBI'S.

The Cattle Thieves.
Peter Pickett and Jim Anderson, the two colored cattle thieves who were arrested a few days ago, a full account of which appeared in Saturday's REVIEW, had a preliminary examination before Justice Millis yesterday, and were committed to jail in default of bond for their appearance at the next term of the Criminal Court. Mr. Thos. Mashburn, who resides on the old Newbern road, about 8 miles from the city, appeared in court and identified the stolen cattle as his property.

RIVER THIEVES.

Three Men Detected Stealing Cotton—Their Yawl and Boat Load of Cotton Captured—The Men Jump in the River to Avoid Arrest—They are Supposed to Have Been Drowned.

For some time past river thieves have been plying their vocation, and have stolen a very large quantity of cotton. It has been known that they use a boat and would pull with muffled oars along the wharves, stopping where cotton was stored, and rob the bales of small amounts, but in the aggregate their hauls amounted to nearly a bale a night. The police have known for some time past that three men were always together in the boat, and have been watching their starting and stopping points. Sunday night was the time selected by the police authorities to catch the thieves. Sergeant Davis was placed in charge of the matter. He placed his men in good positions so that they could watch everything going on. They succeeded Sunday morning in capturing a yawl boat containing about a bale of cotton, though the thieves made good their escape from the officers, but it is supposed that they all met their deaths by drowning. It is positively known that one now lies in a watery grave.—The details of the raid are as follows: Saturday night Police Officers Griffith, McCall and Harris were secreted on the old Baltimore Steamship wharf, between Chestnut and Mulberry streets, with instructions to keep a sharp eye on a yawl boat near by. At 1 o'clock Sunday morning Dave Brown was seen getting in the boat and starting off in the direction of the "dram tree." Very soon after he left the wharf, drifting noiselessly with the tide, he gave two sharp whistles. Just about that hour a couple of men were seen on the wharf foot of Chestnut street by the route carriers of the REVIEW. The men asked the boys to step off and find the Alpha for them but the little fellows ran to the office. It is thought that these two men were waiting for Brown and got in the boat with him. Nothing more was seen or heard of them until 4 o'clock, when Officers Griffith, Harris and McCall saw the boat coming directly across the river to them. The oars were muffled and the boat made no noise. They came alongside the wharf and the men got out and went directly towards the officers, with Brown in the lead. The men were ordered to "halt," but to avoid arrest jumped into the boat, and then into the river. As Brown jumped he pulled off his coat, leaving it in the boat. One of the other men, after he was in the water, crawled back into the yawl, turned it adrift and pulled off his coat and vest. The officers sung out to him to bring back the boat or they would shoot, when the man plunged into the water again. He soon called for aid several times, calling "Jim, come and help me, I'm most gone." The officers threw sticks of wood to the drowning man, but before he could reach them the dark waters of the Cape Fear closed over his head. His two companions swam for some distance and were going up the stream when they were last seen by the officers. There was no boat at hand in which they could pursue the thieves. The officers finally succeeded in getting a bateau out of a dock and picked up the drifting yawl. They carried it to the Market Dock and reported the result to their superior officers. In the yawl were fourteen bags and one bundle of cotton, the whole weighing four hundred pounds. One of the coats left in the boat was recognized as Brown's and the other as belonging to Henry Drew, alias Henry Gause. There is no telling who the man "Jim" was. The drowned man is thought to be Henry Drew, as it is well known that he could not swim. Per contra, it is reported that Drew was seen on the streets Sunday talking to his brother-in-law. The homes of Drew and Brown have been watched but the thieves have not been seen. A colored woman reports that she saw two colored men in their shirt sleeves going over the Hilton bridge Sunday morning about daybreak. One thing is certain, that one of the trio was drowned, but which one no one can tell. The body will probably rise and dispel all doubt as to the identity of the drowned man.

The stolen cotton has been identified by Mr. D. L. Gore as a bale sold by him on Friday to Mr. A. H. Greene. He was positive of the country mark on the bagging and of Mr. Greene's stencil ed shipping mark "C U T." The PERSONAL.

Mr. Chas. E. Burr, who some months since sought relief from suffering and disease among the mountains in Rappahannock county, Virginia, returned to the city on Saturday night not at all improved, we are sorry to learn, during his absence. He is very weak and ill, but his friends do not yet despair of his ultimate recovery.

REMOVAL.

The office of the DAILY REVIEW and WILMINGTON JOURNAL will be removed, on October 1st, to the second and third stories of the building on Market street, South side, between Front and Second, occupied on the first floor by Messrs. A. & I. Shrier, where we will be pleased, at all hours of the day and night, to welcome our friends.

SUNDAY'S NORTHERN MAIL.

Our subscribers along the line of the Wilmington & Weldon R. R., and points contiguous thereto and beyond, are informed that their failure to receive Sunday's issue of the REVIEW on that day was not the fault of this office, as the mail was delivered in full time to be sent out on the morning mail train. Its non-delivery, however, was, we are assured purely the result of an accident.

A PRIVATE CIRCUS.

A gentleman in this city had a thrilling experience a day or two since. He was on a visit to a lady relative when he very suddenly jumped to his feet, exclaiming "Good gracious! It's a snake." He tore frantically at his clothing for a moment or two and then rushed to the door and placing his back against the sharp angle of the casing rubbed for all the world as if it was a genuine case of the army itch. This proceeding was varied by another dig at his coat, which he almost tore from his back; the vest followed suit and then before the affrighted and astonished ladies had time to close even one eye the gentleman's linen shirt was on the floor and forth from it there crept a mouse in its last dying agonies. It was a giddy young thing, evidently in its teens, and only about an inch in length. It had probably been concealed in the shirt as it lay in the drawer and remained there perfectly quiet until it thought that it was about time for the circus to begin, which was simultaneous with the gallant Colonel's morning call.

COL. GREEN LAST NIGHT.

Quite a large number of persons were out last night to hear Col. Wharton J. Green. Our worthy standard-bearer was introduced by Mr. A. G. Ricard in a well-timed speech. Col. Green, on taking the stand, paid his respects to his opponent, who he could never get up to the scratch in joint discussion on the issues of the campaign. He denied most emphatically and in no uncertain language the charges brought against him by his opponents in the campaign. He then handled the Republican party with unglved hands and showed up their record in the management of the school fund. He gave facts, corroborated by figures, which carried conviction to the hearts of men. He held up in review the disgusting and disgraceful record of the Republican party. He discussed minutely their doings when they were in control of this grand old Commonwealth and when the corrupt office-holders were like leeches sucking her life's blood. He showed up the past record of the party of corruption and asked what was to be expected of them if they again gained control of the State. Col. Green was attentively listened to and made many new friends by his able and impressive speech. At the conclusion of Col. Green's speech, Col. E. D. Hall was called for and responded happily to the call. He dealt the Reds some heavy blows in showing up their heinous iniquities. Col. Hall is doing some good work in this campaign.

THE PRINCESS OF BAGDAD.

Miss Claire Scott, supported by the best company which has ever traveled with her, will appear in this city on Thursday night next. She is well spoken of wherever she has appeared. The Atlanta Constitution says of her: This lady, supported by Mr. S. K. Coburn and a fair company, appeared at De Give's Opera House last night in the character of "Lucretia Borgia," to quite a magnificent audience. The dreaded Borgia is a character hard to interpret and difficult to impersonate. Miss Scott's quick transition from the contemplation of a diabolical revenge to the almost idolatrous love for Genarro; then in the court scene when pleading for his life; and her personations of the doting mother and demonic duchess, bore evidence of her being an actress of merit. She possesses superb physique, mobile features, grace of gestures and a voice strengthened to the tragic tones, and we see in her the promise of a future queen in the realm of highest dramatic art. She has every facility to realize her ambition and doubtless the courage to demand that success which her abilities command. Though at the threshold only of her career she displays grand powers to hold the hearts of her hearers and play upon them through the full gamut of the emotions. The support last night was very good and satisfactory.
