LOCAL NEWS.

THE ELECTIONS.
The following is the very latest intelligence regarding the election, and may be relied upon as correct:
RALEIGH, N. C., Nov. 16th, 1882.—7:05 p. m.—REVIEW—Bennett 207 majority, with Hyde to hear from. Hyde reported 15 for Dookery, but this lacks confirmation. S. A. ASHE.

Personal.
Mr. W. W. McDermid, of the Lumbermen's Association, has been severely afflicted for several weeks past with some disease of his eyes, which has compelled him to abstain from all kinds of labor. He is, we are happy to state somewhat improving, but his complete recovery promises to consume a number of weeks yet. He has our sympathy in his severe affliction and our earnest wish that his perfect restoration to health may not be long delayed.

Personal.
Col. H. B. Short, of Columbus county, was in the city yesterday.

The Comet.
The beautiful comet that has for so long a time been a source of wonder to those who put themselves to the trouble to see it, is receding from us with great rapidity. Those of our citizens who did not view it in its most brilliant magnificence, can yet have a chance for a short while, to look upon it. It rises now much earlier than formerly, being up above the horizon as early as 2 o'clock a. m. It is certainly a remarkable heavenly visitor and one that will be called to recollection by the young folks of the present day when they have become old, and the story of its appearance will be related as a remarkable event to those who may come after them.

Mrs. Chanfrau.
Mrs. Henrietta Chanfrau will produce to-night a new American comedy entitled "Parted," expressly written for her by Mr. C. W. Taylour, which has won from so exacting a critic as Mr. Chas. A. Byrne, editor of the New York Dramatic Times, the high encomium of being the best American play extant. It turns upon an incident connected with a recent bank failure in Brooklyn, N. Y., and presents several situations of exciting interest. Mrs. Chanfrau's performance of the leading role was extolled in Boston and New York, where the comedy has successfully ranked as next to her Lady Isabella, the most signal instance of her artistic brilliancy and her charming grace. Ev piazanti this lady, who is a niece of General Bourgeois, is acknowledged to be, in addition to the handsomest lady upon the American stage, also one of the most cultured and accomplished. She is a princess of no mean power, and is credited with admirable ability as a story writer. Mr. C. W. Taylour who seconded her, is author of the comedy, and has won in this most recent of his numerous stage productions, his highest literary triumph.

Household Hints.
An excellent furniture polish is made of equal proportions of turpentine, linseed oil and vinegar. Apply with a dry, hard brush.
Melt half an ounce of camphor gum, half an ounce of glycerine and one pound of mutton tallow, and apply to the hands every night, and it will whiten them nicely.
To remove stains from the hands, mix equal quantities of oxalic acid and cream of tartar. First dip the hands in warm water, and then rub on a small amount of the powder and wash again in tepid water.
Linen dresses or other garments will not change color if a small quantity of hay is put in the water in which they are washed. Boil and rinse in the hay-water, using but little soap.
To remove tar, cart wheel grease, mixtures of fat, resin, carbon and soot, scrub with a stiff brush, and apply a good soap and oil of turpentine, alternating with streams of water. Colored cottons and woollens rub in with lard, let lie, soap, let lie again, and treat alternately with oil of turpentine and water. Silks the same, more carefully, using benzine instead of oil of turpentine.

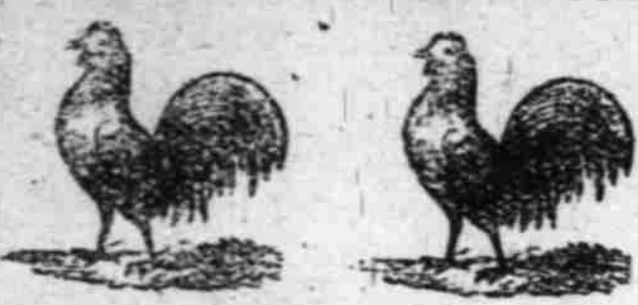

Cold Snap.
As the cold weather is approaching we would remind our readers who are in want of a warm suit of clothes or an Overcoat at low figures, to call on A. & I. SHIRER 34 Market street.

In Below.
The Norwegian bark Saga, Capt. Svensen, from London, consigned to Mr. C. P. Mcbane, with a cargo of kait for Messrs. E. C. Smith & Co., arrived in at Smithville yesterday.

Exports Foreign.
The Swedish bark Cometen, Capt. Olson, cleared yesterday for Liverpool with 1,895 bales cotton, valued at $89,997, shipped by Messrs. Alex. Sprunt & Son.

Thermometrical.
From the Signal Office in this city we obtain the following record of the thermometer, at the points named, at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon:
Atlanta 53; Augusta 63; Charleston 61; Charlotte 55; Colar Keys 70; Galveston 75; Havana 79; Indianola 78; Jacksonville 67; Key West 74; Montgomery 63; New Orleans 71; Palestine (Texas) 55; Pensacola 65; Port Eads 74; Punta Rasa 76; Savannah 63; Wilmington 59.

The cool change in the weather has not only given an impetus to business, but seems to have frozen out all political anxiety. A fellow can now actually walk the distance of a whole square without being interrogated more than once as to "what is the latest news from the election." To our last interrogator yesterday evening, we told him all depended on Hyde county, to which he suggested that it seemed for several days past that the returns from somewhere were either hide-bound or lost.

Killed by the Cars.

Mr. Artemus Ward was killed at Whiteville depot, Wednesday night, by a passing train. He attempted to cross the track just ahead of the train when he was struck by the cow-catcher and so severely injured that he died in two hours after the accident. He stated just before his death that he saw the train and thought he was some distance ahead of it when he started across the track. Mr. Ward kept a small store at Whiteville depot and was, we think, an unmarried man.

Runaway Excitement.

About 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon, Mr. A. D. Brown, of the dry goods house of Messrs. Brown & Roddick, left his store to go to dinner, and just after turning into Market street, at McIlhenny's corner, one of the forward wheels of the buggy in which he was riding, came off. This frightened the horse and he ran up the street, the forward axle striking his heels at every step. When nearly opposite the Commercial Hotel, Mr. Brown, finding himself unable to stop the horse, jumped out, in doing which he received some rather severe, though not serious, bruises and scratches. The horse turned the corner into Second street when he fell on the side walk and was secured, when it was found that one of his hind legs was very badly out by the frequent blows of the axle, with more than an even chance that he is ruined for further service.

Damon and Pythias.

A few days since, a couple of printers arrived in this city seeking employment, and both were so fortunate as to obtain it, each in different offices. They seemed to be mutually attached to each other; in fact, so close seemed their connection, that when not at work, where one was, there the other could be found also. One of them received a dispatch yesterday informing him that a "sic" was open for him in an up-country town, and he immediately made up his mind to accept it, and went on and where his "chum" was at work and informed him of the fact, whereupon the latter showed the most poignant signs of grief, and notwithstanding his having made two days' work "subbing" and "distributed" his "case" for the third day, and was informed that he could not be paid until Saturday, declared most emphatically, that rather than be parted from his friend, he would leave it all behind, and throw down his "stick" and made preparations for his departure. Seeing that not even the prospect of losing his money could induce him to be parted from his partner for even a few days, he was paid off, and the modern Damon and Pythias went on their way rejoicing.

The Army of the Potomac.

We have received from Scribner's Sons, the publishers, Swinton's "Campaigns of the Army of the Potomac," and pronounce it by far the best work of its kind which has come to our notice. It was written by one who accompanied that army through all its memorable campaigns as a correspondent for the press, and he speaks whereof he knows with a frankness, candor and knowledge of the subject that makes the narrative the more interesting, as well as reliable. The work embraces the campaigns under Scott, McClellan, Pope, Burnside, Hooker, Meade and Grant, and his criticisms upon the military skill and strategic movements of all these chiefs we believe to be just and fair. Mr. Swinton is an entirely independent and fearless writer, but who is conscientious in the discharge of his duty, and knows neither fear nor favor in the estimates he puts upon the several commanders.
Another grand feature of his work is in the frank, unbiased and unprejudiced manner in which he speaks of the soldiers of the Confederacy. He gives just credit to the distinguished officers of the Confederate army, and bestows special praise upon the gallantry, patriotism, self-denial and heroic fortitude of her soldiers.
The work is made more comprehensive by the addition of well-executed maps of some of the most important battle fields and the location of the troops engaged.
Numbers 52, 116, 83, 355, 33, 719, 66, 455 and 67, 647 drew the big prizes, in the order in which they stand, in the drawing of the Louisiana State Lottery, on Tuesday, the 14th inst.

London Assurance.

The "London Assurance," with Mr. and Mrs. Chanfrau as the "bright particular stars" in "London Assurance," appeared at the Opera House last night. The stars around which the lesser orbs were to revolve did not shine forth with that brilliancy which we were led to expect from their reputation and press notices, and the lesser orbs were correspondingly dim. "London Assurance" may be a beautiful production, but we must beg leave to differ with Boucicault, its author. Mr. and Mrs. Chanfrau, it may be said, acted their parts well, but the balance of the troupe we thought, was very poor. Possibly the cast was an injudicious one, and the members will show up to better advantage to-night and to-morrow night.
