THE DAILY REVIEW.

VOL. VI. WILMINGTON, N. C. SUNDAY, DECEMBER 3, 1882. NO. 287

We will be glad to receive communications from our friends on any subject of general interest but the name of the writer must always be placed in the Editor's hands. Communications must be written on one side of the paper. Personal notices must be avoided. And it is especially and particularly noted that the Editor does not allow the views of correspondents unless in the editorial columns.

THE RETURNS ARE COMING IN VERY SLOWLY as to the result of Thanksgiving gunning expeditions, but from official reports we are led to conclude that there were no accidents of any consequence to the sportsmen, and but a very few to the game they were so eagerly in quest of.

The first authentic account we have of four gentlemen who went down the river, starting at about 2 o'clock in the morning, so as to be in season for ducks. Somehow, it was not a good day for ducks in that locality, and they returned at night with only a single squirrel as a trophy of their day's labor.

Equally as fortunate for the game were two who walked to the Sound for a day's shooting, and returned at night with three small sea gulls to recompense them.

Another and the last instance we are able to report, was altogether different in its result, and may be safely set down as THE BEST YET.

A gentleman from this city, while out gunning on the day in question shot at a brace of ducks as they were flying over him, and had the good fortune to bring them both down at one shot. These he secured, and while reloading his fowling-piece, he saw a deer come down to the edge of the creek and drink. The huntsman having loaded his piece, shot at and wounded the deer, which, instead of turning and fleeing to the woods, plunged into the stream and swam across to near where our Nimrod was seated in his boat. With a few strokes of the oars by the latter, the deer was captured, and a sharp knife soon put an end to his sufferings. This may be considered as successful hunting, but such luck seldom happens.

Useful Holiday Present.
 We know of no better present to be made than a genteel suit of clothing or a fine over-coat, and, of course, to find these you have only to step into the store of A. & I. SHIRLEY, No. 34 Market Street.
