At Winnipeg, Manitoba, last week, the temperature was 67 degrees below zero.

The Bernhardt has made her reappearance on the Paris stage in Sardou's new drama, "Fedora."

Texas is growing a great deal of wheat and the cultivation is rapidly increasing. The farmers say it pays better than cotton.

Spencer, the dodging Star Route witness, has gone on an expedition towards the North pole, having toted his carpet-bag over into Canada.

Senator Butler's oldest son is very ill. He was taken sick at Princeton College and conveyed home and grave fears of the result are entertained.

The Democrats in Pennsylvania are not happy, after all. It is said now that Senator Wallace will probably antagonize Gov. Pattison's administration.

The New Yorkers are complaining of a dull holiday trade. The jewelers in especial say that there is a lull which cannot be accounted for and there are fears of failures ahead in January.

South Dakota, which wants to be erected into a State, cast 31,000 votes at the late election, or one-seventh of the vote of North Carolina. Yet South Dakota wants two United States Senators and a Representative in Congress.

The young Duke of Newcastle had a rather unpleasant experience in Washington City last Sunday. Like a good little boy he wanted to go to church and he went. But he was unknown to the sexton and had to wait in the vestibule until the pewholders were all seated and he was then told that there was no room for him. He afterwards went to another church and was more successful. What a commentary is the first mentioned fact on the worship of God!

It is a fact, and a solemn one at that, that cockroaches have been found to possess high medicinal properties. Cockroach tea, cockroach pills, and cockroach powder in whiskey are all said to be excellent in kidney diseases. The virtues possessed are somewhat similar to those of cantharides and the odor, it is said, is less disgusting than that of the Spanish fly. The roaches have been used for some time past, it is claimed, in Europe as a specific for the cure of Bright's disease. This is told in all seriousness.

The Lenoir Topic, speaking of Mr. Dortch's candidacy for the Senate and of the probability that Gov. Jarvis' name will be presented by his friends, says: "Let Ransom be his own successor. In the last campaign 'Ransom for the Senate' was the battle cry that induced more men to vote the Democratic ticket in this section than almost any other. We know that the public sentiment in this part of the State, at least, is solidly for Ransom, and should any other man be elected to the Senatorship, after the campaign was fought for Ransom, it will lose the Democracy thousands of votes in 1884."

A correspondent of the Boston Herald, who saw Mrs. Langtry in New York at Delmonico's, does not compliment either her manners or appearance very highly. He says: "There were three others in her party—the inevitable Labouchere, the quite as inevitable Oscar Wilde, and the getting to be inevitable young Gebhart. I should never have noticed Mrs. Langtry if I hadn't known who she was. I should have noticed Oscar, though. His long hair is a trade-mark that cannot be ignored. I pitied Mrs. Langtry her companions. She did not seem like a woman who was enjoying herself, and she certainly did not eat as though she enjoyed her breakfast. She picked at her food and toyed with her wine-glass as though the pleasures of the table were not the sort she cared for. I must say that I like to see a person eat good food with a relish. Perhaps Mrs. Langtry did not feel well. She did not look well, but seemed tired, and her face looked older than I had expected to see her. There were deep lines visible, and her complexion was not particularly clear. She had the look of a woman who had been working hard without getting enough sleep. Mrs. Langtry's "table manners," as I heard them spoken of once, were not the most elegant, and did not seem quite the thing in a woman who knew she was the observed of all in the room. She tilted back in her chair and rocked herself, and took off her hat and played with the feathers, and she used her knife and fork to gesticulate with. I had been disappointed with Mrs. Langtry on the stage, but I had an idea that she was high-bred in her manner; but I saw no evidence of it on this breakfast occasion.

Another bright pleasant day for Xmas shoppers.

The receipts of cotton at this port today foot up 1,328 bales.

The steamship Regulator, Capt. Doane, cleared today with a full cargo for New York.

The Xmas trade so far has been good but next week it will be a great deal better. There will be a rush then.

There is not a more appropriate present for Christmas than an elegant Handkerchief, purchased of DYER. †

We are sorry to hear of the extreme illness of Dr. J. C. Walker. His condition is such that serious fears are entertained by his relatives and friends.

The Superior Court was engaged all today upon the case brought over yesterday, that of Wessell vs. Rathjen. To-morrow is the last day of the term.

The only case before the Mayor this morning was a colored boy charged with disorderly conduct on Front street, yesterday afternoon, but as there was some doubt whether he was the genuine, simple pure culprit or not, he was discharged.

Rev. Thos. D. Pitts and family left here this morning for Citron, Fla., a place about 18 miles from Ocala, where they will pass the winter. They will go North in the Spring and will stop in Wilmington for some time on their way through.

Congratulations.

The congregations of the two Methodist churches in this city are to be congratulated upon the fact that Rev. Messrs. Wood and Ricaud have been reassigned to the charge of those churches during the ensuing conference year. The congregations in this city, as a rule, have always been fortunate in the appointments made for their churches but never more so than in this instance. It will be with great regret that the entire community will part with Mr. Wood and Mr. Ricaud whenever Conference shall assign them to another field.

Stricken with Paralysis.

We are pained to learn that Capt. J. M. Hartsell, a prominent citizen of Magnolia, Duplin county, is in a very critical condition, with but slight hopes of his recovery. He had a light stroke of paralysis on Monday last and a second very severe stroke on the next day (Tuesday), which rendered him nearly helpless, and at last accounts there was no improvement in his condition, but hopes are entertained, on account of his naturally robust constitution, that he may rally and recover in whole or in part from his affliction. He has certainly been unfortunate, for it was only on Saturday last that his gin house was destroyed by fire, with all of its machinery and contents, the account of which was published in the REVIEW a day or two since. We hope that the next news may be much more favorable regarding his condition.

Indigestion, dyspepsia, heart-burn, nausea, etc., cured by using Brown's Iron Bitters.

Esmeralda.

The Madison Square Theatre Company will, after all, fill their engagement in this city. They will surely appear here next Friday, the 22d inst., in "Esmeralda." Mr. Brown, the Advance Agent of the troupe, will pass through here to-night, going North, and will be met at the depot by Mr. Dyer, the Manager of the Opera House, when the necessary arrangements will be perfected.

Life is too short to try half dozen different kinds of "Sore Cures," when one suffers with a cough or cold stick to the best and use Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup; it will cure your cough and never disappoint you. All druggists sell it for 25 cents a bottle.

"Salicylica."

We notice that some of our papers are carrying the "Salicylica" advertisement of Washburne & Co., New York. For their information we will state that Messrs. Washburne & Co. are scoundrels of the first water. We published the same advertisement for them nearly three years ago and when we drew for the first quarter's pay the gentlemen could not be found. They had the impudence, a few weeks since, to ask for a renewal of the contract! Some of the newspapers in this State have bit very readily at the Washburne bait, but we can assure them that not one of them will realize a cent from the investment. So far as we can learn Washburne & Co. have never yet paid an advertising bill, and we doubt if they ever will.

Freshwater Perch, Trout and Black fish hooks and lines. A full assortment and lowest prices at JACOB'S. †

Home for the Holidays.

Mr. J. C. Morrison, son of Captain Thos. Morrison, who has been in school at Sewanee for some months past, has returned home to spend the Xmas vacation with his parents. He brings with him one medal already, a handsome gold ornament, pendant from a star, which was presented to him by the members of this battalion of cadets, he being captain of one of the companies. It bears the inscription on one side, "To Capt. J. C. Morrison, Wilmington, N. C.," and on the reverse, "From the Battalion, as a token of esteem, Nov. 6, 1882." On the star the letters, "S. C. C." (Sewanee Cadet Corps) are engraved. The medal was presented to Mr. Morrison in recognition of his efforts in assisting to thoroughly organize the Cadet Corps.

Prof. Willoughby Reade.

There was only a fair attendance at the Opera House last night at Prof. Willoughby Reade's second entertainment, but those who were present had an evening of rare enjoyment. Some of his renditions contained much dramatic force and spirit, and his comic readings were heartily responded to by roars of laughter, which the audience found themselves entirely unable to repress. Prof. Reade has a happy and rare faculty of interpreting the thoughts and ideas of the author in his recitations and has the remarkable dramatic talent and facial power to give utterance. The people of Wilmington are truly under obligations to the Library Association for its successful effort to afford such a delightful entertainment.

The Late Rev. Elias Dodson.

The funeral services over the remains of the late Rev. Elias Dodson were held at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon at the First Baptist Church. The services were opened by the singing of the hymn, "Servant of God, well done," by the choir. Rev. F. W. E. Peschau, of the Lutheran Church, read the 90th Psalm and a portion of 15th Corinthians. Rev. Dr. Wilson, of the First Presbyterian Church, offered a touching and appropriate prayer. Rev. Dr. Taylor preached the funeral sermon, taking his text in Psalms 116th and 15th verse, "Precious in the sight of the Lord is the death of His saints." After explaining the expression "saints," Dr. Taylor spoke of God's interest in them, and showed why the death of God's people was precious in His sight, and referred to the character and example of the aged servant of God, who had departed. The choir then sang "I would not live always," which closed the ceremonies at the church. There was a large congregation present on the solemn occasion.

The remains were conveyed to Oakdale Cemetery, Messrs. B. F. Mitchell, G. R. French, O. Fennell, A. Alderman, J. S. McEachern, J. W. Taylor and Dr. J. H. Freeman acting as pall bearers. The services at the Cemetery were conducted by Rev. Dr. Taylor, of the First Baptist Church.

The Old Henrietta.

An old colored man by the name of Radcliffe Perry, said to be 102 years old, died in Fayetteville last week. He is said to have been one of the carpenters employed in the construction of the Henrietta, a steamer which ploughed the "raging main" of the Cape Fear many years ago, some of whose bones are now bleaching a few miles below the city, on the left bank of the river. Some, but not many, of our citizens will recollect the Henrietta.

Prof. Curr.

Prof. Allen Curr, the eminent Scottish divine, lecturer and humorist, has arrived in the city, and will lecture under the auspices of the Library Association, at the Opera House on Monday and Tuesday evenings next. On Sunday evening he will preach a sermon for young men at the First Baptist Church. He is accompanied by his wife who also has an excellent reputation as a reader and elocutionist. Prof. Curr and wife have been for a considerable time in the State and wherever they have appeared they have received the highest praises for the excellence of their entertainments.

Returned.

Mr. Robert A. Hewlett, a young Wilmingtonian, who left here in September last as an attaché of S. H. Barrett & Co's Circus, has returned to the city, having arrived here on Wednesday morning last. Since leaving here he has been with the circus through nearly all the Southern States and showed at all the important cities and towns in their route. Mr. Hewlett's business principally consisted in outside excursions on the "wire" and as an assistant to the Wallace family in their celebrated "wire acts." The company broke up at Ringgold, Ga., on the 25th ult., and the members generally returned to their respective homes. Mr. Hewlett speaks as if he enjoyed the business, and contemplates rejoining the company for the next season's engagement.

The Modern Age.

The January number is the first issue of this new periodical. The character of the magazine is principally eclectic, but differs from the older periodicals of its class in having more translations. The first article is an amusing story entitled The Black Poodle, by the author of the latest English success, "Vive Versa." It will appeal at once to the sympathies and risibilities of every one who has had the owner of a dog as a neighbor or friend. This is followed by an enterprising sketch of a trip into Mexico, and a translation from the Paris Figaro of a pen-picture of De Lesseps. The author of "Doctor Ben" appears in The Modern Age as the translator of an eighteenth century French story. It is entitled Elixer and Nephaly and is printed as a serial. The first half of an excellent story, entitled Cousin Jerome's Fortune and A Samaritan of the New School, a travesty on the woman-doctor, complete the list of fiction. A Plea for the Authenticity of Modern Miracles, and Edwin and Matthew Arnold Compared, are articles of the more substantial sort.

The above will give a general idea of the contents of the number. It is really hard to see what profit there can be for the publisher in issuing The Modern Age at the ridiculously low price of one dollar and sixty cents a year for subscribers.

The Railroad Case.

Mr. Best and his copartners refuse to surrender the Atlantic & North Carolina R. R., which they have renamed the Midland, at the demand of the stockholders and have applied for the appointment of a receiver. The motion is to be heard before His Honor Judge McRae, in Chambers, to-morrow. Maj. John Hughes will appear for the stockholders and Mr. Charles Clark, both of Newbern, for the Best syndicate. The Raleigh News and Observer has this to say of the attempts of the stockholders to regain control of the road and Mr. Best's refusal to surrender:

For three days past there have been brief meetings of the directors of the A. & N. Railroad at the Yarboro, to take steps in regard to the recovery of the road from the Midland Company. A formal demand was made at the meeting at Goldsboro, in November, for the turning over of the property. Thirty days was asked by the Midland, to decide whether to go on or surrender. At that time Messrs Denny and Carruth pledged the Midland, as far as they had power to pledge it, to either demonstrate its ability to carry out its contract of lease, or at the expiration of thirty days, to quietly surrender possession of the road. The directors of the Midland road, among them W. J. Best, W. J. Denny, W. W. Carruth and Lewis Coleman, also met simultaneously, at the Yarboro. After various conferences between committees representing the two companies, the Midland Company yesterday afternoon declined to surrender the road to the Atlantic Company. It is understood that the latter company will take such legal steps as may be necessary to put them in possession of the road.

It is understood also that the directors of the Midland Company will ask the Legislature to give them the State stock, which cost $1,300,000, and that upon condition of receiving this they will complete the road from Smithfield to Salisbury. There has been considerable stir about the hotel for several days, during these meetings of the committees. Mr. Best arrived Wednesday. It is said that the Atlantic company will at once begin proceedings. Some of the directors held a conference last evening in regard to the matter.

Another Case of Blind Pool.

The Louisiana State Lottery Lightning struck South Washington (D. C.) on Tuesday. $30,000 is to be divided among seven men. Good-natured Gwynn Harris, and Joseph Beisler, captain of an oyster schooner, held a fifth of a ticket, which paid $15,000. Five others, F. S. Skidmore, conductor Baltimore and Potomac road; Alfred Redmyer, engineer Baltimore and Potomac road; Mr. Lathrop, a fireman on the same road; Mr. Lewis, conductor of an ice wagon, and another man whose name was not learned, formed a pool and bought $10 worth of tickets, one of which realized $15,000. Lewis, Redmyer and Lathrop got $4,000 each, and the other two $1,500 each. — Washington (D. C.) Republican, October 13, 1882.
